WALSH CITES PONTIFF PLEA FOR RUSSIANS

PROGRAM IS SHOWN IN TEXT OF LETTER

OPPRESSION RAPPED AS WORLD MENACE

(Editor's note—Herewith is the concluding installment of the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh's story of the Russian Communists' campaign against the Deity and all religions. The first article was published Sunday. The article has been copyrighted by Dr. Walsh who reserves all publication rights).

By THE REV. EDMUND A. WALSH.

It is against this profanation of the sanctities of life that the Sovereign Pontiff raises his voice in protest and bows his head in prayer. And in so doing, he has but continued that unwavering defense of religious liberties and religious rights in Russia which he initiated eight years ago, when the great powers first met Bolshevik Russia in conference at Genoa. On that occasion he dispatched his assistant secretary of state, Mgr. Pizzardo, to the conference for the purpose of pleading with the allies for the oppressed of all beliefs in Russia—Orthodox, Catholic and Jew—and to petition for religious guarantees as a condicio sine qua non of recognition.

The text of the Papal letter ran, in part, as follows:

"At the historic moment when there is question of readmission of Russia into the consortium of civil nations, the Holy See desires that the interests of religion, which form the basis of all true civilization, shall be safeguarded in Russia. In consequence, the Holy See asks that in the agreement to be concluded between the powers represented at Genoa, the three following clauses shall in some manner, but a most explicit manner, be inserted:

Specifications by Pontiff.

1. "Complete liberty of conscience for all, whether citizens of Russia or strangers, is guaranteed in Russia.

2. "The private and public exercise of religion and of worship is also guaranteed. (This second clause is in conformity with the declarations made at Genoa by the Russian delegate, M. Tchitcherin.)

"3. The immovable property which belonged or still belongs to any religious body whatever shall be restored to it and respected."

Due principally to the preponderant influence of one European power, these humane proposals were politely shelved as a possible embarrassment in the development of trade relations with the Bolsheviks. During the intervening years, Pius XI has never ceased his protests on behalf of the Russian people; he even offered the Soviet government during the famine to redeem at his own expense the sacred vessels they were then confiscating under pretense of famile relief. The same communication contained an appeal for the release of the Orthodox Patriarch Tikhon, and other prelates of the Russian Church. The latter was ignored.

Mission Is Dispatched.

Nothing daunted, the sovereign pontiff dispatched the Papal Relief Mission to Russia in 1922, where, supported by the charitable contributions of the Catholic world, it sustained and fed 160,000 starving Russians during the critical period of the famine. In all, it is estimated that the Holy See expended in the neighborhood of $1,500,000 in this act of exquisite charity and friendship to the Russian people, then passing through the most critical period of their long and stormy history.

Only once was this notable demonstration of the Holy See's humanity imperiled. This crisis came at Easter, 1923, when the religious persecution of the Soviet government reached a violent phase. The Catholic Archbishop of Petrograd, together with fourteen of his clergy, were placed on trial for their lives in Moscoow, with court proceedings which have since become historic. Mgr. Cieplak and Mgr. Budkievics were doomed to be shot and the others sentenced to long terms of imprisonment. The indignation of the entire civilized world was aroused and the position of the papal relief mission in Moscow became one of extreme delicacy. Pledged to noninterference in the political and religious life of Russia, the director

Senators Are Accused In Airport Land Deal

Harold Young Declines to Name Suspected Pair at Quiz.

Testifying before a Senate subcommittee last night, Harold E. Young reiterated the statement he made Saturday night that two United States senators had a financial interest in the site proposed for the Washington Municipal Airport.

Associated with the two senators, he said, is the son-in-law of a Cabinet officer.

Mr. Young declined to reveal the names of the three men, saying that he had been pledged to confidence.

He asked that he be given time to consult with his lawyer and with the man who gave him the information. This privilege was accorded him and he was told to reappear tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Mr. Young was questioned by two members of the Senate District subcommittee that was appointed to consider the airport bill—Senator Wesley Jones, of Washington, and Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan.

The two senators were angry and made no attempt to hide the fact.

HAROLD E. YOUNG.

They felt that Young, by his statement before the Federation of Citizens Associations Saturday night, had impugned the honor of the entire Senate.

MORE PARROT FEVER CASES CAUSE ACTION

RESEARCH WORK HALTS

The alarming spread of parrot fever, adding two new cases yesterday to boost the total of those stricken to eleven in and around Washington, led Surgeon General Hugh Cumming to extreme action in naming a special board of medical experts to determine what measures should be taken to cope with the situation, and prompted the abrupt halting of all laboratory work on dead parrots.

Simultaneous with announcement that the surgeon general had appointed the special staff of medical advisers came word that the group, numbering three of the best known specialists in this section, held its first meeting during the day at the Public Health Building on the Naval Hospital grounds. Matters discussed were not made public.

The group includes Dr. Claude Lavinder, director of the New York branch of the Public Health Service, chairman; Dr. Carroll Fox, in charge of the New York quarantine station, and Dr. Wade Frost, professor of public health at Johns Hopkins Hospital, in Baltimore, and member of the reserve corps of the Public Health Service.

The special board was called hur..r .riedriedly into action to investigate conditions particularly in the hygienic laboratory, where ten among the eleven afflicted with the disease are regularly employed. They also were instructed to suggest methods of carrying on laboratory work among the parrots in the future to stave off the outcropping of the fever among other employes.

The two new victims of psittacosis, as the disease is termed medically, are Dr. Ludwig Htktoen, chief of the medical section of the National Research Council and internationally known scientist, and Harry Morgal, 50 years old, foreman of the laborers employed by the Public Health Service.

Dr. Hektoen, who is connected with the University of Chicago, has been in this city for some time assisting in the work which the Hygienic Laboratories of the Bureau of Public Health have been doing to determine the cause and prevention of the disease, which is said to have been brought into this country by parrots which had contracted it in tropical countries.

The noted expert was under treat-

WICKERSHAM TALK SPURS DRY INQUIRY

SENATE QUIZ IS PUSHED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The testimony of Chairman Wickersham, of the National Law Enforcement Commission before the Senate judiciary committee yesterday proved so innocuous that all sides agreed to make it available to the mass mind today.

It intensified the determination of the supporters of the Norris-Wheeler resolution to press for a Senate investigation of prohibition enforcement but it is doubtful if it influenced one way or the other those senators who are opposed to the inquiry.

Mr. Wickersham told the judiciary committee that while he did not care to make a recommendation as to whether there should be a Senate inquiry it would not hamper or embarrass his commission in any way. But subsequently Mr. Wickersham told newspapermen that he could not see any good that the proposed inquiry would accomplish.

The portion of the chairman's testimony that increased the determination of Senators Norris, Wheeler and others to press for the inquiry was that the commission had found no evidence of widespread corruption in prohibition enforcement. Senators Borah and Norris have claimed there is abundant evidence of it.

At least Mr. Wickersham is understood to have so testified before the committee. The hearing was behind closed doors in deference to Mr. Wickersham's apprehension that an open hearing might not make for frank discussion or that he might have to disclose some of the commission's secrets.

Senator Norris had never seen how Mr. Wickersham's appearance was necessary or how he would be helpful to the committee in considering his resolution and that of Senator Wheeler providing for a Senate investigation.

But Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, thought it would be a good idea to have the commission chairman and then was not present at the committee meeting yesterday to hear what he had to say.

At the conclusion of Mr. Wickersham's testimony Senator Norris asked him if there was any reason why everything that had been said should not be made public and Mr. Wickersham agreed that there was not. The

Edison Sees U. S. Rubber Supply Within Five Years

Sanguine of Success in Golden Rod Experiments, Inventor Says He Will Work 14 Hours Daily Until Problem Is Solved.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 17 (A.P.).—Thomas A. Edison does not expect to live to be 100 years old, but does expect to stay in the harness of busy life until machinery has been completed for production of emergency rubber from golden rod. The golden rod soon will be planted on a large scale at the Henry Ford plantation near Savannah, Ga.

The 83-year-old inventor said today he expected to continue working an average of 14 hours a day until his latest and "toughest" problem was solved.

"Give me five more years and the United States will have a rubber crop which can be utilized in less than twelve months' time," said Mr. Edison. He added that he guarded his health by strict diet and protection from inclement weather. He will remain in Florida until about June 15.

Asked when large-scale planting of golden rod is planned at the Ford plantation Mr. Edison pointed to draftsmen working in the laboratory and replied:

"Right now I am working on machinery to extract commercial rubber from golden rod. When the machinery is ready, we will start large-scale planting. Golden rod is a wonderful plant. We have discovered a variety that grows 10 feet above a man's head, but by cross-breeding, we will produce a plant carrying 8 per cent of fine-grade rubber. That will be practical for an emergency crop."

Mr. Edison said he agreed with Mr. Ford's recent statement that man

House Gets Appropriation Bill Carrying Record Sum.

CITY'S WATER RATES RAISED 40 PER CENT

DEBATE ON MEASURE TO START THURSDAY

Public Schools Slated for $13,651,530, Largest Item in Request.

Carrying a total of $45,334,317, the largest sum ever recommended for the city, the 1931 appropriation bill for the District of Columbia was introduced in the House yesterday. General debate on the measure will start Thursday.

The amount carried in the bill is $3,846,702 more than was appropriated for the current fiscal year, and is only $167,711 less than the Budget Bureau recommended.

With the presentation of the bill to the House by Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, the stenographic account of the hearings conducted by Simmons' subcommittee was made public. It showed that the hearings were unusually bitter.

Officials Are Scored.

School officials were accused of "gross extravagance" in the purchase of school equipment; the justices of the District Supreme Court were criticised for not putting in more hours on the bench; Lieut. Mina Van Winkle, head of the Woman's Bureau of the Police Department, was scored for serving roast chicken and other delicacies to the prisoners, and there was another flare-up in the long feud between the subcommittee and the office of the municipal architect.

The appropriation bill again provides a Federal contribution of $9,000,000 toward the expenses of the District, although the statutory law provides that the cost of government here should be on a 60-40 basis, the Federal Government paying the 40 per cent and the District 60.

A proviso in the bill says that the present tax rate of $1.70 shall not be decreased during the year.

Salary Increases Out.

The bill increases water rates 40 per cent and raises the assessment on water mains from $2 to $3 per linear foot. The new schedule, which will take effect July 1, will raise the rate on meter service from $6.36 a year to $8.75 a year, and will increase the flat rate on unmetered service from $7.03 to $9.85 a year. For business houses not required to install meters a flat increase of 40 per cent is provided.

The public schools get the largest sum in the bill—$13,651,530, which is $1,666,930 more than was provided in the last bill.

The $100,000 for salary increases that was asked by the Commissioners was stricken out by the subcommittee.

For the proposed municipal center, an area to be devoted to buildings to house the departments of the local government, the bill carries a total of $3,000,000. This is the second such sum provided for that purpose and will be used to buy additional land.

Proviso Stricken Out.

The subcommittee had reduced the estimate for the farmers' produce market from $300,0000 to $250,00, and had written in a proviso that the price to be paid for the land could not exceed 125 per cent of its assed value. At the last minute, however, the amount was increased to $300,000 and the proviso was stricken out.

A number of riders creating new legislation are contained in the bill, including one that provides that all candidates for the Police Department must have had at least an eighth grade education.

Great Falls Action.

Another provides $25,000 for a study of the power needs of the District of Columbia, "with a view to establishing a municipally-owned and operated service," and for an investigation to determine who has title to the lands at Great Falls.

Also there is a provision to require school officials to get the approval of the Commissioners before they expend any money for furniture and other equipment. This was written in after the school heads had been accused of gross extravagance in such purchases.

To pay for free textbooks and supplies for high school students, which is authorized in a bill passed recently, the appropriation bill carries the sum of $231,000.

Construction of Bridge.

For widening H street from Seventh to Thirteenth northwest, the bill carries the sum of $103,000. It also

PACT REPORTS AT SEA PARLEY ARE EXPLODED

Talk of Near-Agreements Is Either Denied or Proves False.

PROGRESS POSSIBLE ONLY IN WEEK-ENDS

Tardieu to Be in London Only at Times Sacred to Recreation.

FRENCH SCOUT IDEA OF ITALIAN EQUALITY

U. S.-Japan Situation Static; Fiery Parliament Talks Urge Abandonment.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, March 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—All reports of settlements, agreements or near agreements tending toward solution of the major problems facing the world's five strongest naval powers were denied or exploded today, while minor disturbances took place in Parliament.

The London Naval Conference, unable to do any work at all, finds itself in the astonishing position of awaiting during weeks to come the prospective week-end visits of Prime Minister Andre Tardieu of France from Paris, where he returned this morning. Whatever business the conference may be able to transact must now be accomplished during week-ends, sacred to recreation in England, according to an official British spokesman tonight.

Following the false report of an American-Japanese agreement, which blew up tonight and left the American-Japanese situation not radically different from what it was two months ago, another kite was sent up today in the shape of a circumstantial yarn that a Franco-Italian settlement is being arranged on a basis of parity between the two nations, excepting that Italy by granting a battleship holiday, will leave France a superiority of 100,000 tons in this class of warship.

Seen as Italian Stunt.

This is evidently an Italian maneuver similar to the American attempt over the week-end to convince the world that the United States and Japan had agreed.

The French minister of marine, Jacques-Louis Dumesnil, told me tonight with emphasis: "We are not discussing parity with Italy in any form, in principle, in global tonnage, in categories or in any other respect, and we never will." He then went on to explain the endless difficulties and dangers for France if any such concessions were made.

The Italians, however, were inclined to suggest that publication of the report would be useful, perhaps in showing that Italy is not now the conference stumbling block. It was learned, however, that at a conference between Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi tonight, Mr. MacDonald put forward the French viewpoint that Italy should name figures for her fleet. Signor Grandi flatly refused to do so and reiterated the Italian parity demand.

Situation Same as Ever.

This leaves the Franco-Italian situation where it was. The British today denied officially and with heat published stories to the effect that Mr. MacDonald had promised to bring pressure on Italy. Mr. MacDonald repeated this denial to Signor Grandi. The British premier was equally angry at a report that he had agreed with M. Tardieu to support the French thesis on military reservists at Geneva in return for scaling down of French tonnage figures.

The facts are that at the conference at Chequers yesterday long discussions on figures resulted in a nominal scaling down of the French profram from 724,000 tons to about 620,000. But this means little to the British, because they claim the amount dropped from the total is obsolete tonnage plus 57,000 tons of exempt or special ships.

The Japanese-American situation, it was learned tonight in Japanese quarters, where for the first time since the false report of an agreement comment was forthcoming, has not materially changed. The American offer, it was suggested, is satisfactory excepting on the same old two points that always have been bones of controversy.

Japan will insist on being permitted to transfer some ships from the destroyer category into submarines in order to raise her total submarine tonnage at least 10,000 tons above the American offer of 52,000 tons, and also the right to transfer light cruiser tonnage into the 8-inch-gun class to reach 70 per cent with the United States.

No Progress Is Seen.

If this information represents the course of events in Tokyo, as it is difficult to believe that it does not,

Capone Gives Crowds Slip, Leaves Prison

Philadelphia, Pa., March 17 (A.P.).—Al Capone and his bodyguard, Frank Cline, walked to freedom today from the new prison at Gratersford, Pa., while hundreds of morbidly curious men, women and children, newspapermen and photographers awaited their release in front of the Eastern State Penitentiary in this city, 30 miles away.

Announcement that the Chicago gangster chieftain and his pal had been released at 4 p. m. was made four hours later by Herbert Smith, warden of the Eastern Penitentiary. With the exception of prison officials, no one saw Capone and Cline emerge from the penitentiary. None of these officials would state by what means they had left Gratersford and all professed ignorance as to their destination.

The notorious Chicago racketeer and his bodyguard had served ten months of a year's sentence for carrying loaded pistols. Two months were cut from their terms on account of good behavior, making them eligible for release last midnight.

Delay in their release was due to the absence on a winter vacation of Gov. John S. Fisher, whose signed approval was necessary. The governor returned to Harrisburg from the West Indies last night and signed the papers today.

As curiosity seekers and newspapermen continued to hang about the Eastern Penitentiary gates, Warden Smith stepped outside and said:

"What's the use in you people standing around here? We certainly stuck one in your eye that time.

"The big guy went out from here at 6 o'clock this morning. We shot him away in a brown automobile, di-

KIDNAPERS RETURN MAN HELD FIVE DAYS

KICKED, BEATEN OFTEN

Asbury Park, N. J., March 17 (A.P.).—The return today of Samuel Barron, New York real estate broker, who was held prisoner for nearly five days by three kidnapers, will not close the police investigation of the case, it was announced tonight by John J. Quinn, Monmouth County prosecutor.

Mr. Quinn said he has "definite clews" to several suspects and expects to make arrests within a few days.

"I talked to one person indirectly connected with the kidnaping three or four nights ago," the prosecutor stated. This morning, before a telephone call was received from the broker, Mr. Quinn declared he had "reason to believe" Mr. Barron was still alive, although he had announced earlier that the man was probably dead.

Mr. Quinn declined to say if he was given any information by Herman Goodstein, business partner of Mr. Barron, who was arrested Friday as a material witness and held in $10,000 bail. Bail was increased to $15,000 yesterday on the application of Mr. Quinn, who said Goodstein was "holding back" information and had told Mrs. Barron:

"Don't worry. I'll take care of the ransom."

No demand for ransom was received, although Mr. Barron said that his abductors "talked about getting one, but changed their minds."

During the four days that he was kept prisoner in a "cold, barn-like structure," the broker was questioned closely, he said, concerning details of his business, his bank accounts, and collections from his New York apartment houses. He was frequently kicked and beaten, and his body was covered with bruises when he reached home today. His physician declared after an examination that he had had little food and was exhausted from lack of sleep, cold, and nervousness.

MERGER TO CREATE $2,800,000,000 BANK

Chase National Tops World in Union With Equitable and Interstate.

ACTION IS DUE TODAY

New York, March 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Chase National Bank is expected to become tomorrow the world's largest bank, through merger with the Equitable Trust Co. and the Interstate Trust Co., with total resources of more than $2,800,000,000. The merger, rumored in Wall street for the last fortnight, is scheduled to be voted at special directors' meetings of the Chase and Equitable at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, which will be followed immediately by meetings of their security companies to act upon the merger terms.

The National City Bank, which has been the largest bank in America since 1897 and which lately has risen above the Great Midland Bank of London in resources, will be topped by approximately $600,000,000. It is understood that the terms of the merger will be four shares of Chase to five of Equitable and that Interstate will be merged on a basis of two and one-half shares for one of Equitable.

The Interstate, a relatively small institution of $85,000,000 resources, occupies the quarters on Wall street adjoining the Equitable, and was taken into the merger because its space was needed for the enlarged headquarters of the great bank.

Reports have it that Winthrop W. Aldrich, brother-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, jr., and president of the Equitable, a "Rockefeller" bank, will become president of the enlarged Chase, while Albert H. Wiggin and Charles S. McCain, chairman and president of the Chase, will become chairman of the executive committee and chairman of the board. George B. Silzer, former Governor of New Jersey, president of the Interstate, is expected to retire.

The vast consolidation, the first development this year in the bank merger movement, will igive New York

Blease Filibuster Blocks City Judge's Second Term

A second term for Judge James A. Cobb, a Negro, was blocked last night by Senator Cole L. Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina.

When Cobb's nomination for another term on the bench of the Municipal Court here was called up in the Senate, Senator Blease objected to its consideration and then talked until it was too late to act.

As a result Judge Cobb today is out of a job, his first term having expired last midnight. However, efforts to confirm his nomination nor another term will be renewed.

Majority Leader Watson appealed to Senator Blease to withdraw his objection to Cobb's nomination, pointing out that his term expired at midnight.

"Well, I know that," Senator Blease shouted, "but if I let this nomination go through my term would expire on March 4, 1931."

The nomination was called up by Chairman Norris, of the judiciary committee, who asked for its immediate consideration. Senator Blease objected.

At 9:45 the Senate went into executive session for the consideration of nominations. The second name on the list was that of Judge Cobb. The first was that of J. Duncan Adams, a nominee for United States marshal of South Carolina.

Senator Blease talked against the nomination of Adams until 10 o'clock, when the Senate followed its regular routine and recessed.

"Well, Cobb wasn't confirmed, was he?" Senator Blease shouted jubilantly.

CHILEAN ATTACHE FREED BY POLICE

ENVOY WAS SPEEDING WITNESS DECLARES

Motorist Asserts Machine Was Going 40 Miles an Hour at Time.

Commander Juan Polich, naval attache of the Chilean Embassy, while driving his car home from a visit to the Naval Academy at Annapolis early last night, collided wit ha light roadster at Connecticut avenue and N street northwest and seriously injured Paul Edward Hammond, 22 years old, of 1515 Twentieth street northwest.

Third Precinct police said they had talked with witnesses of the accident who asserted that the Chilean representative was operating his car at an excessive rate of speed and had gone by a red light at Rhode Island avenue while running north on Connecticut avenue.

Hammond was unconscious and in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital late last night. Attending physicians said he had a probable skull fracture, severe lacerations of the scalp and a badly cut left ear.

Released by Police.

Commander Polich, together with other members of the Chilean Embassy staff, accompanied Motorcycle Policeman C. W. Richmond, of the Third Precinct, to the station, but later was permitted to return to his home at 3047 Porter street, Chevy Chase, without being charged.

Both automobiles were badly damaged by the collision, the light roadster, which was struck midway on the right side, sufering the greatest. The envoy associate's car, a new sedan, had a broken right wheel, headlight and fender. Its bumper was lodged in the lighter car.

The injured youth was knocked out of his car, which itself was turned completely around and carired for more than 10 feet. When found, he was lying just below the wheels of the heavier machine.

No Lights at Intersection.

There are no traffic lights at Connecticut avenue and N street, but the intersection is about 30 feet north of the signals at Rhode Island avenue.

The collision occurred on the northeast corner of the intersection. Witnesses claimed that Hammond's car had passed the street car tracks and had almost cleared Connecticut avenue when he was struck. He was driving, it was said, at the rate of about 10 miles an hour.

The accident, which occurred about 7:30 o'clock, attracted a large crowd within a few minutes. No policemen were in the vicinity, and none appeared before Policeman Richmond, who learned of the accident by stopping the car that was taking the injured young man to the hospital.

Polich Car Stopped by Tree.

Commander Polich's car ran several feet beyond the curb of the sidewalk just above the northeast corner after striking Hammond's automobile and was prevented from crashing into the plate glass windows of a laundry by a small tree.

"I was going up Connecticut avenue when I heard this car (the naval attache's) whiz by me," W. S. Shaw, 21 years old, of 1511 Twenty-second street northwest, a witness, told a Post reporter. "Conservatively, I would say that he was going 40 miles and hour. The roadster was crossing Connecticut, going east, at the rate of about 10 miles an hour or less. He was almost across when the two cars collided.

"The larger car turned the roadster around and then ran onto the sidewalk. After parking my car, I found the young man lying in the gutter behind the other man's car. Nobody seemed to be paying any attention to him."

Police Stop Rescue Car.

Hammond was taken to the hospital by H. O. Payne, of 1631 S street northwest. While speeding with the injured man the motorcycle policeman stopped him. Upon learning his mission, he accompanied the car to the hospital and then accompanied Payne back to the scene of the accident.

Another car containing other representatives of the Chilean Embassy was nearby when the collision occurred, but its occupants told police they did not see the accident.

Believed He Had Right of Way.

Commander Polich told police that he believed he had the right of way and that he didn't see Hammond's car.

The naval attache had just stopped by the Mayflower Hotel to let Senor Don Oscar Blanco Viel, first secretary of the embassy, get out. They, and the Chilean Ambassador, Don Carlos G. Davila, had paid a visit during the afternoon to the Naval Academy, where they were received with full honors.

Hammond's mother lives at Frederick, Md. Efforts were being made to reach her last night.

Data on Williams Sought From Navy

Chairman Britten States Officials Will Be Called in Flier Quiz.

(Associated Press.)

Navy officials are to be called before the House naval committee to explain circumstances surrounding the ordering of Lieut. Alford Williams, crack naval speed aviator, to duty at sea and the subsequent revocation of the order after the pilot tendered his resignation.

Chairman Britten of the committee announced yesterday that officials would be called after the Navy Department replies to a request of the committee for a report on the Fitzgerald bill to retire Lieut. Williams as a captain.

The request, he said, should have reached Acting Secretary Jahncke yesterday. The latter said he had not received it and had not heard of the measure introduced by Representative Fitzgerald.

Lieut. Williams entered naval aviation during the war and because of his airplane racing and testing ability was kept ashore by Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, who is attending the London Arms Conference as an adviser.

Stock Deposits Favor Proposed Steel Merger

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today that large percentages of stocks of the constituent companies have been deposited in favor of the Republic Steel merger and that directors of the Republic Iron & Steel Co., Central Alloy Steel Corporation, Donner Steel Co., Inc., and the Bourne-Fuller Co. have taken the necessary corporate action to permit consummation of the plan, subject to the approval of stockholders.

Meetings of the stockholders have been called for April 7 and 8. F. J. Griffith, chairman of a committee appointed to carry out the consolidation, said the percentages of stocks deposited under the merger plan range from 71 to 99 per cent of the outstanding issues of the companies concerned.

Facing the jury which will be called upon to decide whether he is a briber, Edward L. Doheny looked back over his 73 years of life yesterday to recall adventurous episodes and to describe as a loan that $100,000 transaction between him and Albert B. Fall in 1921 through which the Government charges he corrupted the former Secretary of the Interior.

The wealthy oil man, whose hair has been whitened by the years, spoke directly to the nine men and three women in the jury box. He was still on the stand when the session ended.

The appearance climaxed a day of defense testimony intended to show that the Navy Department initiated the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, oil storage plant, which resulted in a lease of the Elk Hills reserve to a Doheny company. The Government maintains that Doheny bribed Fall for the Elk Hills lease. Today Government counsel will attack his story of the $100,000 "loan" in cross-examination.

Tells of Life in West.

Doheny was calm and self-possessed on the stand, answering questions in a low voice. Frequently he smiled broadly and his eyes twinkled as he told of his earlier experiences in life and of his friendships in the pioneer days of the West.

His examination proceeded rapidly, but he would interrupt his counsel to explain more fully some of the incidents of his early life. He recounted how he had been book agent, hotel waiter and mule skinner years ago in Kansas and New Mexico.

He chuckled when he told how he became bankrupt in 1896. He testified that he was unable to make payments on his property and that a bank had foreclosed on him because of his adherence to William Jennings Bryan.

His eyes twinkled again as he told of winning another fortune from the oil fields of Mexico and California.

Said Fall Intended to Quit.

Saying he had known Fall since 1886, the multimillionaire added that after Fall became a member of the Harding Cabinet the Government officer told him he intended to resign after one year and try to recoup his fortune.

Doheny said Fall told him that long years of public service had depleted his fortune and he was planning to borrow $100,000 from Edward B. McLean, a Washington publisher, to purchase a ranch next to his New Mexico home to protect his water rights.

Questioned by his counsel, Frank J. Hogan, the oil man said that he told Fall he would be glad to let him have the money and that the Cabinet officer had declined it. He said Fall later telephoned him for the money and that he sent it to him in cash on November 30, 1921.

Prior to Doheny's appearance on the witness stand, his wife told of the "loan." She said her husband tore the signature from the note to prevent Fall being embarrassed through the unexpected call to pay the demand note in case of his (Doheny's) death.

Denby's Name Brought In.

At the opening of the defense, Doheny's counsel called witnesses and introduced documents intended to show that the late Edwin Denby, as Secretary of the Navy, had ordered the execution of the contract with the Pan-American Co. for construction of naval oil storage facilities at Pearl Harbor.

Joseph A. Carey, who was secretary to Denby, identified an opinion from the advocate general of the Navy holding that it was legal to exchange royalty oil for construction of storage facilities. Across it was written "Do this," and Carey testified that it was in the handwriting of Denby.

Rear Admiral Luther E. Gregory, retired, testified that the Pearl Harbor contract originated in the Navy and that all plans for it were handled there.

The defense also introduced documents intended to show that Fall, as Secreary of the Interior, had told naval officials that he would not sign any contract or lease until they fully approved it.

Other documents were introduced intended to show that the Navy urged that Doheny's Pan-American Co. be permitted to carry out the preferential clause of the Pearl Harbor contract which gave them the right of drilling the Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve. This was said to be necessary because the Navy needed additional fuel oil.

Five Praise Doheny's Character.

The defense yesterday called four clergymen and a number of California business men as character witnesses for Doheny. They all said that he was known as a man of high integrity and honesty and that no one bore a better reputation in his home town of Los Angeles. Each was asked as to Doheny's reputation for patriotism and replied it was high.

The defense has contended that Doheny's company once refused to consider the Pearl Harbor project and that it finally did so after Rear Admiral J. K. Robison had told Doheny that a Navy of a foreign power was in a position to threaten the West Coast of the United States unless the Government could provide a fuel base in the Hawaiian Islands which would enable the United States Navy to prevent the alien fleet from reaching the coast.

Gano Dunn, president of the John G. White Engineering Co., testified that he drew up the two bids on the Pearl Harbor project submitted by the Pan-American Co., and that J. J. Cotter, counsel for the company, gave him the plan with the preferential clause in it which finally was accepted. He testified that Cotter urged the Government to accept the other bid, which did not contain a preferential clause.

The Navy again refused to turn over to the court confidential files bearing on the reports made to it concerning the supposed threat from a foreign navy. These files have been called for in previous trials, and the courts have not insisted upon their being presented.

Counsel for the defense expect to conclude today or early tomorrow, with Doheny's story of the contract and lease. The case might go to the jury Friday or Saturday morning.

Man Seriously Hurt in Shooting.

Sylvester Cole, colored, 23 years old, C street, near Sixth street southeast, was shot in the left side yesterday afternoon. He was taken to Casualty Hospital where his condition is regarded as serious. Paul A. Newman, colored, 30 years old, of P street, near First street northwest, was arrested by First Precinct police on a charge of having fired the shot.

Radio Stolen From School.

Principal Sue Thomas, of Kingsman School, reported to the police yesterday that a radio set valued at $75 was stolen from the school. The radio was owned by Janie Blum, of 3220 Cleveland avenue northwest.

SENATE READS RACY BOOKS AMID DEBATE

BIBLE IS FOUND IN LOT

(Associated Press.)

Confronted by about twoscore foreign books barred from circulation in this country under censorship provisions of the present tariff law, the Senate for almost six hours last night debater a proposal by Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), Utah, to tighten provisions for excluding such books.

The question they argued was whether the literature and other "immoral articles" should be "stopped at the port" on the judgment of a customs inspector, or "taken to the courts" for determination; and whether importation of such books should be made a substantive crime. Debators on both sides deplored such books.

Senator Smoot called for the books early in the afternoon—and immediately the solemn dignity of the Senate chamber gave way to major and minor disturbances.

There was a surging of senators from both sides of the aisle toward the desk of Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, as Senator Smoot's secretary laid the volumes down there.

Senator Borah, the Idaho Republican, took a weighty tome and, placing his feet on top of his desk, settled down to peruse it—after noise of twitters from the galleries, he walked out, the volume under his arm, not to return with it until three hours later. Senator Shortridge of California loftily ignored the contraband literature. He was one of a more than slender minority.

Excitement increased when among the books referred to as salacious a Bible was discovered. Senator Nye, of North Dakota, one of the Republicans opposing censorship by customs officers, placed the Bible in the collection, with passages marked and underlined.

Senator Fess, (Republican), Ohio, examined volume after volume. Senators Waterman, of Colorado, and Frazier, of North Dakota, found adjacent chairs on the Republican side and turned the pages together.

Some of the volumes among the contraband—all banned under existing law—were Burns' poems, Balzac's "Droll Tales," and George Moore's "Story Tellers' Holiday."

The regular 10 oclock hour for recessing arrived before the Senate finished the debate and further consideration of the proposal went over until today.

Black Hand Hunt Mystifies Police

Clews to Sacks' Assailants Prove Worthless to Department.

Police have struck a stone wall in their endeavor to learn the identity of the perpetrator of blackhand threats on the life of Frank Sachs, proprietor of an auto repair shop at 609 K street northwest.

Clews which led them to Baltimore and other nearby large cities all proved of no avail. However, the police are continuing to maintain double guard at Sachs' shop and residence.

The blackhander has been inactive since last Thursday when he took Sachs for a ride on the Defense highway where he beat and robbed him of $40. Prior to that, Sachs had received three threatening notes, commanding him to eliminate the glass repair department of his business.

HIGH COURT TO RULE ON RUM BUYER GUILT

Jurists Set Date for Oral Arguments on Federal Appeal Cases.

TAX VERDICT RENDERED

(Associated Press.)

Problems of prohibition, income tax and other controversies out of which American history is being written engaged the attention of the Supreme Court yesterday as it rendered decisions of far-reaching import.

The tribunal determined to hear oral arguments on the guilt of liquor purchasers on April 28. The two cases are Government appeals contending that Alfred E. Norris, of New York City, was guilty of conspiracy when he ordered liquor from Philadelphia; and that James E. Farrar, of Boston, violated the Volstead act by buying from a bootlegger.

For Federal taxing purposes, incomes of husband and wife must be separately reported without regard to any agreement between them for pooling sanctioned by State laws. The court so held in an opinion written by Justice Holmes in a case brought by the Government.

Finding itself unable to decide three cases which have long been pending, the court ordered them reargued so that Chief Justice Hughes and the new justice to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Sanford might assist in determining the controversies.

Two of these are of importance to the building industry, involving a contest between the Concrete Mixing & Conveying Co., of Chicago; the Power - Kennedy - Construction Corporation, of New York City, and others over patent rights on pneumatic conveyors of sand, cement and other material.

The other case ordered reargued was the claim of the Aluminum Casting Co., of Ohio, for a refund of approximately $167,000 of the Federal taxes it paid for 1917.

The court took a recess until April 14.

At that time it will continue for several weeks and for the final time this term, resume the oral argument of cases.

It will adjourn early in June and devote most of May to the preparation of opinions in cases awaiting decisions.

Detective Is Robbed Of Green Handkerchief

It's bad enough for a policeman to be the target of a culprit on any day, but when he's a patriotic son of Erin, the day is St. Patrick's and he is victimized of a patriotic green handkerchief, the worst has happened.

Starting the day off in true Irish fashion with a green handkerchief fluttering from the breast pocket of his coat, Detective Sergt. James E. Springman chanced to take in custody a minor offender. Somewhere in the journey to headquarters the handkerchief disappeared, but its loss was not discovered until too late in the day to retrieve it.

Citizens Group Fights Taxation for Airport

The West End Citizens Association last night went on record as opposed to the erection of an airport for which the residents of the District would be taxed. The association believes that while there is need of an airport, it should be erected and maintained by the Government.

The association will ask the District Commissioners to improve the present Third Precinct Building. A committee learned that improvements to the amount of $3,000 are necessary on the structure.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 11 a. m. and recessed at 10 p. m. to 11 a. m. today.

Lobby committee sent John Holland its investigator, to New York for the records of Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee.

Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, introduced a bill authorizing the payment of $20,000 to the widow of the late Associate Justice Sanford.

District subcommittee questioned H. E. Young about his statement that two senators were financially interested in the site proposed for Washington's municipal airport.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:40 to noon today.

Chairman Britten, of the naval committee, announced he would demand an explanation from Navy officials as to why Lieut. Al Williams, crack flier, was assigned to sea duty.

Appropriations committee reported the District of Columbia appropriation bill, carrying a total of $45,334,317, and also the French resolution to appropriate $300,000 for the restoration of the frigate Old Ironsides.

Three Union veterans appeared before the House District committee and urged that Ford's Theater, in which Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, be converted into a Lincoln museum.

Representative Johnson (Republican), Washington, introduced a bill to provide that instrumental musicians, unless of distinguished merit and ability, be considered as "contract laborers" under the immigration law.

DUTIES ON LUMBER AND COAL RESTORED

Senate Vote Comes After Debate in Which State Department Is Scored.

LEATHER REMAINS FREE

(Associated Press.)

Upon reconsideration, the Senate late yesterday restored to the tariff bill existing provisions permitting the imposition of countervailing duties on coal and planed, tongued and grooved lumber.

All other retaliatory rate clauses which were recently stricken out by the Senate were not affected by the action.

Exciting debate preceded a vote of 51 to 18 to continue the countervailing duty of 50 cents a ton against Canadian bituminous coal. No record vote was required to restore the lumber clause.

After Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, had explained that the original action in repealing all the retaliatory provisions was taken at the request of the State Department, Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, charged the department with an "intolerable assumption of authority" in advising Congress to take such a step.

State Department Scored.

"This intrusion in tariff legislation," Glass asserted, "is only another attempt at usurpation of power by the State Department which this body ought to resent. It only recently assumed the authority to say that the Federal Reserve system of this country should have no relation with the international bank. Whether or not this system should have any relations with that bank is a question Congress must decide."

Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, told the Virginian that in fairness to the State Department, it should be said that its opinion was given only after it had been requested by Senator Smoot. Glass did not withdraw his charge.

Smoot said the State Department had advised repeal of the retaliatory provisions on the ground that they violated commercial treaties. He added, however, that Canada had refused to make such a treaty with the United States and, therefore, he had no objection to the coal and lumber countervailing clauses being restored.

Leather Tariff Suffers.

Advocates of tariff protection for the hide, leather and shoe industries were given another jolt yesterday in the Senate, which voted for the second time to retain all three commodities on the free list where they have been for seventeen years.

The decision was reached without a record vote after two amendments providing for rates widely at variance with those in the House bill were rejected.

One of the proposals offered as a compromise by Senator Oddie (Republican), Nevada, was turned down, 42 to 37. The other, proposed by Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts), was defeated, 40 to 30.

Contrast With House Scale.

The fight for tariff will be continued when the bill goes to conference between the two houses but with the Senate twice on record for retention of all three commodities on the free list in preference to the House rates and all others thus far offered, it is conceded the conferees have a difficult if not impossible task ahead of them.

Compared with the House rates, the Oddie amendment would have provided much higher duties on hides and lower tariffs on leathers and all shoes except women's of the McKay type of manufacture, which would have been a higher levy.

Walsh's proposal contrasted with the House scale would have left hides free, provided lower duties on leathers and shoes, and given a higher differential on women's shoes, which were conceded to be the only types imported that are causing concern to domestic manufacturers.

Man Is Discovered Overcome by Gas

Fumes Flowing From Open Jets May Prove Fatal to Head of Family.

Gas flowing from open jets on a kitchen stove in his residence on North Capitol street, near Seaton place, may prove fatal to Millard W. Wheeler, 59 years old, who was declared by Eighth Precinct police to have attempted to end his life early last night.

His condition was pronounced as critical at Casualty Hospital, where he was taken by the Fire Rescue Squad after its efforts to resuscitate him for more than an hour had failed.

Receiving a telephone call from an unidentified person, police rushed to the residence to find Wheeler slumped over the stove with all jets fully open. He was alone in the house at the time, his wife, Mrs. Emma Wheeler, and their two children, having left a short time earlier.

Precinct police said Wheeler recently had been despondent because of his inability to find employment. He formerly was a carrier for the city postoffice here.

Man Held on Charges Of Theft and Bad Check

David Gillespie, 21 years old, of Sherrier place near Manning place northwest, was charged at the Seventh Precinct yesterday with grand larceny in connection with the alleged theft of a $50 silver set, and also violation of the bad check law. He was arrested for investigation Sunday by Detectives N. S. Hodkinson and J. E. Burke.

Police said the complainant in the larceny case was Walter Jenkins, occupant of the residence in which Gillespie lives, while the complainant in the latter case is James Shore, a druggist of 5104 Conduit road. Police said the charge involved passing of an $8 check.

Capital Man Is Sued For Absolute Divorce

Bertha Throckmorton, of 1631 S street northwest, filed suit for absolute divorce yesterday in District Supreme Court against Maurice W Throckmorton.

She alleges that she and her husband were married on November 16, 1919, at Norfolk, Va., and that they separated recently. There are no chilren. The wife alleges that her husband deserted her and that he has been intimate with other women. Attorney Clifford P. Grant appears for the wife.

DELEGATES BATTLE AGAINST PESSIMISM

Developments Are Regarded as Part of Program to Avert Debacle.

U. S. OFFICERS RESIGN

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Although apparent harmony has been restored at the London naval conference; there is no improvement in the prospects for ultimate success, according to authoritative information available here yesterday. Developments from now on must be regarded as part of a program to save some semblance of an agreement from the wreck, and thereby reassure the public against taking too pessimistic a view of the failure to consumate a genuine arms limitation or reduction treaty.

Word has come direct from the American delegation at London that no bona fide reduction program, or plan to end competitive naval building, is to be expected. All hope for such an agreement was abandoned more than a week ago, it is added. But the American delegates still believe that a temporary stop-gap agreement may be negotiated along the following lines:

First—Postponement of replacements in the battleship building programs of Great Britain and the United States, which has been assured for more than a year, irrespective of the conference, but which will, nevertheless, mean a saving of millions.

Submarine Warfare Curb.

Second—Reenactment of the Washington conference treaty to humanize submarine warfare, which was not ratified by France because of an objectionable clause on poison gases.

Third—Statements by all the powers represented, or at least by Great Britain, Japan and the United States, as to what they propose to build during the next five years and under what circumstances they propose to increase these programs.

Fourth—Reiteration by the powers of their steadfast desire for peace, their determination to adhere to the Kellogg pact and their readiness to apply the lessons learned at the London conference to a later conference under the auspices of the League of Nations.

Premier Tardieu's Attitude.

Premier Tardieu's conciliatory attitude and his expressed desire to prolong negotiations are interpreted here to mean that the experienced French diplomat does not relish the idea of saddling France with responsibility for failure of the conference. His statement that he will go to London "each week-end" to see how things are progressing is taken to indicate that he is in no hurry to terminate the negotiations.

On the other hand, Prime Minister MacDonald is known to be extremely anxious to achieve results prior to April 14, when he faces the supreme test for his political life in the House of Commons over the Labor budget.

There was concern in naval circles here yesterday over reports that serious dissension had broken out in the American ranks between the naval experts and diplomatic advisers to Secretary Stimson. It is believed that navy representatives objected to concessions which Mr. Stimson desired to make to Japan as an incentive to a Japanese agreement to a three-power pact, in case a five-power pact should be attainable.

Two Naval Officers Quit.

Capt. W. W. Smyth and Commander Harold C. Train, naval advisers to the delegation, have resigned from the experts' committee as a result of the dissension. Both these officers served as experts on the American delegation at the Geneva conference.

Apparently the Japanese demands were approved by George A. Gordon, counsellor of the American Embassy at Paris, for the latter was appointed to the naval experts' committee in place of Capt. Smyth.

After certain of the naval experts declined to indorse the American concessions, final negotiations were concluded without their advice or assistance and it is understood that the terms of America's offer to Tokyo are not known to the naval representatives who served as technical advisers.

PAINTED SAFE ZONES JUDGED INADEQUATE

Hanna Tells Utility Group Concrete Platforms Are Better.

SAYS COST UP TO CITY

Safety zones for street car passengers outlined by a ribbon of white paint are not adequate for the protection of riders, John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., told the Public Utilities Commission at a public hearing yesterday on the proposal to establish street car safety zones along the upper stretches of Connecticut avenue.

Concrete loading platforms should be installed if the commission really desires to protect the car rider, Mr. Hanna said, and if such platforms are established the cost of them should be borne by the city, for the greatest financial benefit accrues to the motorist and not to the car rider or company.

The hearing developed that Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Utilities Commission, has been misinterpreting the existing traffic regulations for some time. Gen. Patrick said, in the course of a colloguy with Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, that he had driven through many unoccupied traffic safety zones which were merely marked off by painted lines. Mr. Keech chided the general, who turned the discussion to the propriety of going to the left of safety zones and cited conversations he had had with Traffic Director William H. Harland. But Mr. Keech said that if that were the case Mr. Harland has been encouraging violations of his own regulations.

No decision was made by the commission.

Investigation Is Begun Into Death of Soldier

An investigation was launched yesterday into the death of David Williams, 42 years old, private in the Engineer Corps, Fort Humphreys, whose body was found in the woods on the reservation 20 feet from a road leading to the noncommissioned officers' quarters.

Indications were that Pvt. Williams had been struck on the head. He is said to have been drinking the night before his death. An autopsy was performed yesterday. Pvt. Williams' mother lives in Scranton, Pa.

SEA TREATY REPORTS AT LONDON HALTED

TEA DAY'S ONLY EVENT

there has been no appreciable American-Japanese advance.

The conference is now back where it started two months ago. Private talks are going on, but no formal business is being transacted. There was one meeting today, that of a subcommittee formed to decide how to scrap ships that none of the participants in the conference have yet agreed to scrap. This subcommittee had tea and adjourned, and this was the five-power parley's only official act.

Churchill's Restraint Ominous.

Winston Churchill showed unusual restraint, which lent weight to his solemn warning to Mr. MacDonald:

"The silence which the opposition maintains upon various matters which are the crux of the conference must not be taken by the government as a sign that they have the consent of the House of Commons in the measures which they propose."

The former chancellor of the exchequer ridiculed the 8-inch gun cruiser as a capital ship, declaring that it is without armor, and tried to show that the United States is superior to Great Britain in the personnel of its navy and that the government's 50-cruiser program is too low.

On the whole his speech was subdued in tone, owing to the tradition against criticizing the government during the course of foreign negotiations; but Commander Joseph M. Kenworthy, Labor, the only naval officer of distinction in that side, delighted his back bench comrades and enraged the front bench by declaring roundly that the delegates ought to go home.

Quit and Try Again, Is Plea.

"A terrible failure," he called the conference. Attempts might be made to show that it had succeeded, but that would be worse than admitting right away that the forces against the government had been too great and that it would be better to part friends and try again in a few years.

"If the conference is continued on the present lines, it is going to fail. The reason it is bound to fail is because it has proceeded on the wrong lines and by the wrong methods.

"It is not the business of the first lord of the admiralty to sit in a corner bluffing with the representatives of other powers. He is the representative and spokesman of the Socialist and progressive government at the conference facing four other governments of the right. It is necessary for the British government to take a line different from that of the other governments.

"We should acknowledge failure and part friends. No foreign fleet could possibly catch us up for five years.

Five-Year Holiday Suggested.

"I suggest a five-year building holiday all around, if we could get it, and failing that, we should declare a five-year building holiday. We could do that with perfect safety and postpone the conference sine die until we settled with America the freedom of the seas question.

"It is useless going into a conference and discussing tonnage, guns, personnel and overseas bases. It is no use blaming France. They are no more to blame than the others. Fascism has shown itself more willing to reduce armaments than the government of Ramsay MacDonald."

Thus wounded from its own side, the government was next under fire from the Tory diehards. Admiral Beamish declared, "Parity can only be a danger to this country. It is a diplomatic means of depriving this country of sufficient naval forces to insure our interests. It is a form of socialism, or levelling down. These protestations of everlasting friendship may be well meant, but they don't lead us very far."

Later, W. J. Brown, Labor, declared the naval conference was damned before it was born and begged Mr. MacDonald not to let the British admiralty dictate British policy, but to make a "generous gesture."

Debt Settlements Scored.

Hore Belisha, Liberal, made the most incendiary speech of the night, declaring that France and the United States are using British money to build their fleets. France because Churchill let that country off her debts, the United States because former Premier Stanley Baldwin made a too favorable debt settlement with Washington.

Then Hore Belisha voiced the common knowledge that Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is not inclined to make concessions to France to help the conference.

"I do regret," he said, "that the Prime Minister has not associated with him in this conference a Chancellor of the Exchequer who would have spoken to them boldly. If we had a little of the Hague spirit introduced to this conference, we would have a more rapid conclusion and one more to the advantage of this country. He would have told France and the other countries that if they have been able to hold up the conference it was only because they refrained from paying the loans we made to them."

CUT OF 500,000 TONS IN NAVIES IS HINTED

If Three-Power Agreement Takes Place Experts See Reductions.

PLAN RESTS WITH JAPAN

London, March 17 (A.P.).—Naval conference experts tonight conservatively estimated that, if a three-power agreement were to be signed here now with Japanese approval, a reduction of 500,000 tons in naval armaments would be possible.

It is emphasized that such an agreement would be contingent upon Japanese acceptance of the plan, which has been submitted to Tokyo.

As the Americans have been conceded parity with Great Britain, an examination of British naval figures for 1936 shows that a reduction estimated at more than 260,000 tons could be achieved. Secretary of State Stimson, in a public statement two weeks ago, predicted an agreement in which the Americans would be able to reduce their figures by 200,000 tons. Added to the British reduction of 260,000, which the Americans would follow on the basis of parity, this would make a rough total of 460,000 tons reduction.

If Tokyo approves last week's American proposal, the Japanese would further contribute to it. In their case the outstanding reduction would be in the class of submarines, which they would decrease between now and 1936 from 77,000 tons to 52,000 tons, and make a further saving of 35,000 tons by not replacing certain ships in other classes.

It became known tonight that these figures were placed before Foreign Minister Briand, of France, last week, when the British were urging the French to reduce their figure to 724,000 tons.

Lawyer to Face Contempt Charge

Jackson Lawyer Sought by Deputies of State Legislature.

Jackson, Miss., March 17 (A.P.).—Unable to locate Carl Marshall, attorney, in his hotel room here tonight, three deputies of the Mississippi House of Representatives continued to search in hopes of finding the former State senator and delivering him tothe sheriff of Hinds County for contempt of the House.

After the House early tonight refused to recognize two pardons issued to Marshall by Gov. Bilbo, ordering his release, Speaker Bailey, as authorized by resolution, appointed two deputy seargants-at-arms, who, with Seargeant-at-Arms May, went to carry out the provisions of a House order—that Marshall be delivered to the sheriff for incarceration as a recalcitrant witness. Under the order he would be held until he answers certain questions as to who shared in the distribution of $80,000 paid Marshall by George B. Crafts, general counsel of Warren Bros., road material firm, of Boston.

The House desired of Marshall information as to whether and State official received any part, which he refused to divulge. He did State that no official acting in his official capacity received any of the money.

DEATH OF FOURTH IS FEARED IN CRASH

Little Hope Is Entertained for Recovery of Mate of Woman Killed.

OTHERS MAY SURVIVE

The condition of the three persons injured in an automobile wreck near Laurel, Md., Sunday night, which cost the lives of three persons instantly, was stated last night by St. Agnes Hospital attaches in Baltimore to be still serious.

Howard O. Burnell, of 3114 M street northwest, is said to have a crushed skull and internal injuries. There is not much hope for his recovery. Becky Randolph, 21 years old, of O street near Thirty-third northwest, and Betty Ciselly, 23 years old, of Harrison, N. J., are said to be in a serious condition, although physicians at St. Agnes stated that there is a possible chance that both of them may recover.

Those who were instantly killed when the touring car crashed into a culvert at a small bridge on the Baltimore boulevard about a mile and a quarter north of the Maryland State police substation, at Laurel, are Samuel Matthews, 23 years old, of 22 Todd place northeast; George Posey, 3118 M street northwest, and Mrs. Catherine Burnell, 20 years old, of 3114 M street northwest, wife of Howard Burnell.

It has been announced that an inquest will be held to determine the cause of the accident, although the time has not been set for it. It is possible that it may be held off for a day or two, pending outcome of the injured persons, and will probably be held in Baltimore.

The bodies of the three victims were to be brought to Washington last night.

Jerusalem Beset by Locusts.

Electric Reproduction System Said to Mark Great Advance for Radio, Phonographs and Talking Pictures; Demonstration Successful.

Gloucester, Mass., March 17 (A.P.).—John Hays Hammond, jr., noted inventor, today announced the invention of a new system of electrical reproduction of sound as a "striking advance" over present systems employed in the radio, phonograph and motion picture fields.

The announcement came after a selected group of experts on sound reproduction had attended a private demonstration given by the inventor here yesterday. The statement, issued by Hammond's secretary, read:

"John Hays Hammond, jr., demonstrated in his Gloucester laboratory to a group of electrical experts representing the radio, gramophone and moving picture industries, a basically new system of electrical reproduction of sounds.

"This system, invented by Mr. Hammond and developed by his laboratory, represents a striking advance in the naturalization of music and speech in recorded sounds, eliminating extraneous mechanical noises and giving a far more satisfactory rendition of tonal color and dynamics.

"The device has been commended by Leopold Stokowski, Koussevitzky, Mary Garden and many other famous artists who consider it a revelation in this art."

SENATE IS CHECKING HUSTON POWER FUND

WILL REAPPEAR TODAY

(Associated Press.)

An investigator for the Senate lobby committee has been sent to New York to obtain records of $36,100 which Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, has testified he collected from the Union Carbide Co., and deposited with his personal broker in the metropolis.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, a member of the lobby committee, said yesterday that John Holland, the committee investigator, had been sent to New York to investigate the records of the transaction with the brokerage firm of Blythe & Bonner.

He added that he had been informed that Mr. Holland was experiencing difficulty on account of the absence of W. E. Moore, personal representative of Mr. Huston.

The Republican chairman testified to the lobby committee Friday the money was collected from the Tennessee River Improvement Association, of which he is former president, and deposited with his broker for use in the association's work. He said it had all been used. The transactions, he explained, were handled through Mr. Moore.

Mr. Huston, who has been questioned by the lobby committee three days, has been directed to reappear today for further examination in regard to the brokerage account.

Pathe Officials Fined As Aftermath of Fire

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—John C. Flinn, vice president, and Henry F. Lally, manager of the Pathe Film Studio, in which ten persons were burned to death last December, were fined $500 each today in municipal court for violating a city ordinance prohibiting the storing of more than 5,000 feet of motion-picture film in the studio without a permit.

Both were allowed to pay their fines under protest in order to appeal.

NEW PSITTACOSIS CASES FOUND HERE

ment for several days in Providence Hospital, and it was not until Saturday night that there were any certain symptoms of the fever. Yesterday, however, it was formally decided that he had psittacosis, and that his case is the most serious of any which is known at the present time.

Case Suspected Several Days.

Mr. Morgal's case had been under observation for three or four days, but it was only yesterday that it was definitely announced that he had the fever. He is being treated at his home near Chain Bridge, in Maryland, and his condition was given as satisfactory.

With the exception of Dr. Hektoen, all the patients who are suffering with the fever are progressing nicely, according to doctors who are attending them. Dr. Hektoen's condition was given last night as "better than Saturday," although there is considerable alarm felt for him.

Halt of laboratory work on dead parrots marked the first order of its kind since the Public Health Service started its investigation several months ago at the outbreak of the disease in the Nation. Too many persons have been affected to continue under the present working conditions, Surgeon General Cumming explained.

Serum Aids Patients.

Those who are affected are being treated with apparent success, it is though, with a serum made up partially from blood taken from other victims of the disease. The laboratory's work has also resulted in the isolation of a virus from the blood of sick parrots with which it is possible to infect well birds.

Public Health officials state frankly, however, that much remains to be learned concerning the disease, its communication, and a cure for those affected. Some of those who are now sick were never in contact with the dead parrots being experimented with.

"At least three of the doctors now ill," he asserted, "were never within 30 feet of the psittacosis laboratory. Perhaps the parrot fever germs were carried by dust or perhaps by insects. The entire laboratory, from cellar to chimney, has already been fumigated and then sprayed with bichloride of mercury."

The surgeon general added that the extreme communicability of the disease was definitely established, and that most of the research activities of the laboratory had been removed to other buildings.

Crowded Quarters Dangerous.

The laboratory will be fumigated again he said, adding that many of the workers there had already been endangered because of the crowded quarters in which they were housed

Federation Conference Supports Bingham Site

Prompt action by Congress in providing for development of an airport at the site proposed by Senator Bingham was urged by the Inter-Federation Conference in resolutions adopted at a meeting last night. The conference recommended that the development be provided for on a financial basis equitable to the District of Columbia and Federal Governments.

The conference also approved construction of a bridge at Great Falls; development along the Potomac River as provided by the Crampton Bill; beautification of all highway approaches to the National Capital and reciprocal relations between school systems of the District of Columbia and neighboring jurisdictions.

Airplane Builder's Son Killed.

Warnemuende, Germany, March 17 (A.P.).—Erich Heinkel, eldest son of Ernst Heinkel, widely known airplane builder, was killed near here last night when his motor car struck a tree in a snowstorm. The elder Heinkel constructed the liner Bremen's catapult plane and in 1927 built a large hydroplane which attempted an unsuccessful flight to the United States.

morning, Chairman Bingham, of the Congressional airport commission, called attention to the newspaper article regarding Mr. Young's speech, and then denied that any member of the commission was financially interested in the airport site. Later Senator Vandenburg ordered an assistant sergeant-at-arms to bring Young to the Capitol.

He appeared shortly before 6 o'clock last night, and was visibly nervous. He had been found at his home, 1314 Eleventh street, by William Cheatham, the assistant sergeant-at-arms.

At the outset, he told Senator Vandenburg and Senator Jones that when he arose at the Federation meeting Saturday night, as a delegate from the Iowa-Thomas Circle Citizens Association, it was to speak in support of the airport bill, which authorizes an appropriation of $2,500,000 for the purchase of the two fields near the south end of Highway Bridge.

"I stated," he said, "that I had learned from two different sources that one of the reasons this site was recommended was that two senators had a financial interest in it."

"Will you state where you got that information?" Senator Vandenburg asked.

"While I do not wish to oppose the committee," Young replied, "I will have to ask time to consult my authority for the statement."

He said that he also wanted to consult with his attorney.

"Is it your information," Senator Vandenburg asked, "that these senators exercised influence and pressure to affect the commission's decision?"

"I am not prepared to answer that question now. The man who told me ought to know, but I was pledged to confidence."

"Then if you were pledged to confidence," Senator Jones said sharply, "why did you get up and make that statement before the federation?"

Mr. Young explained that he had been pledged to confidence only to the extent of not mentioning names.

Senator Jones wanted to know who had given him the information, but Mr. Young would only say that it was a man in close touch with aviation matters.

Absolves 12 Senators.

Senator Vandenburg called off the names of the senators for the Congressional Airport Commission and asked Young if the two senators he had in mind were among them. Mr. Young replied that they were not.

A little later he brought to Mr. Young a book which bore the names of the senators on the District committee and asked him the same question. Mr. Young again replied in the negative.

"Well," said Senator Vandenburg, "You now have absolved 12 senators, but you have left 84 under a cloud. We are going to remove that cloud."

Mr. Young's failure to name the senators Saturday night, Senator Vandenburg said, was worse than if he had named them, inasmuch as his failure to mention names had left all senators under suspicion.

Meant No Reflection.

Mr. Young insisted that he had not meant to impugn the honor of any senator.

"Then, why did you make the statement?" Senator Jones asked.

"There were a lot of tales going around and things were not just right," Mr. Young replied.

"Did these reflect on the senators?" Senator Jones asked.

Mr. Young replied that they did not.

Mr. Young mentioned the Cabinet member's son-in-law just before the hearing came to an end. He said that this young man, like the two senators, was a heavy stockholder in the company that owns the flying field near the Highway Bridge.

After granting Mr. Young's request that he be given time to consult his lawyer and his informer, Senator Vandenburg told him to come back tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Police Bare Confession Of Youth, 18, in Killing

El Paso, Tex., March 17 (A.P.).—Melvin W. Payette, 18, alias J. E. Nash, alias Nolan, today confessed, police said, that he killed Mrs. Christiana Wilson, 62, wealthy widow, in Butte, Mont., last Tuesday. Payette's home is in Salt Lake City, Utah. Mrs. Wilson's body was found in a room of a hotel she operated in Butte.

Mrs. Wilson's body was found on a bed, with a towel bound around her neck and one thrust into her throat. She was bruised about the head. An autopsy indicated, however, that her death was not caused by blows or suffocation. An examination of her vital organs was ordered.

three banks with resources over two billion dollars, while London has two. The National City Bank, at the close of last year had $2,206,000,000, while the Guaranty Trust had about $2,017,000,000. In London the Midland and Lloyds were over the two billion mark, while Barclays, the Westminster and the National Providence Banks were over a billion and a half.

The merged bank, with resources of nearly three billions, will have deposits of almost $2,100,000,000 and capital funds, exclusive of affiliated companies, of nearly $360,000,000. At the end of the year the Chase had $1,714,829,000 resources and $1,248,218,000 deposits; the Equitable crossed the billion mark for the first time, with $1,013,971,000 assets and $765,345,000 deposits. The Interstate had $85,735,389 resources and $60,081,602 deposits.

Baroness Regains U. S. Citizenship

Woman Born in America Renounces Allegiance to German Republic.

Renouncing her title and her citizenship in the German republic, Baroness Nina Ross von Below, 70 years old, of 2424 Sixteenth street northwest, yesterday became an American citizen.

The baroness told the court that she and the Baron were married April 3, 1907, at Buenos Aires, Argentina, and that they had made their home in the United States since 1921. She said she was an American by birth, having been born in Columbia, S. C., on November 25, 1859.

Growth of Old College Sketched by Chandler

William and Mary College's growth from a few old buildings on a small plot of ground to its present modern halls on a spacious campus was sketched by President J. A. C. Chandler last night at the annual banquet of the local alumni association in the University Club.

Others who spoke along similar lines were Dr. William E. Martin, of the Arlington Hall School for girls; Representatives R. Walton Moore, Menalcus Lankford, Joseph Whiteford, and Henry St. Clair Tucker, all members of the Virginia delegation in the House.

Songs and novelty numbers enlivened the program.

Barber Faces Charge Of Murdering Woman

Fort Worth, Tex., March 17 (A.P.).—Roy Raines, 34, a barber, today was charged with the murder of Mrs. Pearl Voss, 30, whose body was found yesterday in a pasture four miles from Fort Worth, the head crushed, apparently by hammer.

George Rinehart, employe of a restaurant, told investigators he saw Raines and Mrs. Voss in the restaurant about 11:30 o'clock Friday night. This was the last time the woman, who worked at a rooming house here, was reported to have been seen. Rinehart said the couple seemed to be arguing over a check.

Liner Europa to Sail Wednesday.

Bremen, Germany, March 17 (A.P.).—The huge new liner Europa will begin her maiden trip to New York Wednesday following formal acceptance of the ship today by the North German Lloyd Line from the builders. Final trials of the ship developed 27.67 knots.

PLANE CATCHES FIRE IN SPEED ATTEMPT

Capt. Sergievsky Leaps to Water and Swims Till He Is Rescued.

FIRST LAPS BEAT RECORD

Fairfield, Conn., March 17 (A.P.).—Fire, believed to have started from a broken gas line, forced Capt. Boris Sergievsky to make an emergency landing in Long Island Sound today while attempting to set a new seaplane speed record over a 500-kilometer course.

Capt. Sergievsky leaped from the blazing ship as it struck the water, 300 feet from shore, and he swam about until rescued by a motorboat. He was uninjured.

The plane caught fire as it was completing its third lap of the 500-kilometer course between Fairfield and Execution Rock Lighthouse. On the first two laps, of 200 kilometers, the plane's speed had been estimated at 133 miles per hour, 22 miles per hour better than the record held in Germany.

The starting and finishing point of the course had been marked off on the beach here. Capt. Sergievsky was flying at a low altitude and he quickly brought the ship down when he discovered the flames. Mechanics already had set out in the boat to assist him.

Landing in shallow water, the blazing plane settled down to its propeller hubs. Officials of the Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation said that its two motors could be salvaged.

The plane was carrying a load of 2,000 kilograms. It was an amphibian but its wheels had been removed before taking off on the speed test.

Capt. Sergievsky used the craft recently in setting new altitude records for 2,000 and 1,000-kilogram loads and a new speed mark over a 100-kilometer course carrying a 2,000-kilogram load.

The plane, a Sikorsky amphibian, was valued at $56,000 and was insured.

Lone Robber Holds Up Chain Store Employes

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 17 (A.P.).—A lone robber held up two employes of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. on a downtown street here today and escaped with several thousand dollars.

The employes were taking Saturday's receipts from the various stores in the city to a bank for deposit. As they stepped into their automobile the robber walked up, drew a gun, and ordered them to get out and cross the street. The man drove away with the money and the car. First reports were that the loot amounted to as much as $10,000, but the company officials would not confirm this and said the money had not been counted.

11 Persons Are Injured In Fast Train Derailing

Batesville, Miss., March 17 (A.P.).—Eleven persons, most of them railroad or mail employes, were injured and great damage was done to railroad equipment in the derailment of nine cars attached to a fast Illinois Central Railway passenger train near here early today.

The train, known as No. 1, was bound from Chicago to New Orleans by way of Memphis. The train, carrying six Pullmans, three day coaches and five mail and express cars, was running on schedule when the car left the rails and piled up on a hillside. Passengers were described as panic-stricken when the crash came but were soon quieted.

Former Soldier Freed In Companion's Killing

Kansas City, Kans., March 17 (A.P.).—Clifford Reynolds, 22, Springfield, Mo., formerly a soldier stationed at Fort Leavenworth, was acquitted today by a jury of a first degree murder charge in connection with the death November 11, 1929, of Charles Schoonover, a fellow soldier.

Schoonover died in a local hospital with a knife wound in his throat. Reynolds testified that Schoonover attacked him while the two were returning to Fort Leavenworth by automobile after a visit to Kansas City. In the struggle Schoonover was stabbed. Both men had been drinking.

$9,000 Is Taken In Bank Robbery

Thieves Drive Workers, Patrons Into Room; Make Escape.

Ringgold, La., March 17 (A.P.).—Two unmasked bandits drove bank officials and two customers into a back room and escaped with $9,000 from the Bank of Ringgold today. The bank was taken completely by surprise and before the victims could collect their wits the bandits were speeding away in a sedan in the direction of Red River Parish. A sheriff's posse quickly formed, but late today had not found a trace of the robbers.

Whipping out revolvers, the bandits forced Cashier J. P. Batchelor, Assistant Cashier W. L. Culpepers, F. P. Rigdon and another customer into a back room, where one bandit held them under cover of his pistol while the other raked in the money from the teller's cage.

Girl, 19, Kills Rival, 16, In Jealousy Over Man

Camden, S. C., March 17 (A.P.).—Lottie Villipigue, 19, stabbed Bessie Robinson, 16-year-old Rock Hill girl, to death here last night in what friends said was a quarrel over the affections of Cleo Gregory, 25.

Miss Villipigue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Villipigue of Camden, is held in jail here, but formal charges have not been lodged against her pending an inquest. Nannie T. Elliott, 18, and her brother, Robert Elliott, are held as material witnesses.

Kansas State Auditor Accused of Embezzling

Topeka, Kan., March 17 (A.P.).—A complaint charging Will J. French, State auditor, with the embezzlement of $1,492 from a fund derived from the sale of State lands was filed today by Attorney General William A. Smith.

French has admitted withdrawing the money from the fund for his personal use. He returned it with interest and insists the transactions were legitimate. In a statement he blamed Gov. Clyde M. Reed for instigating the action against him, charging that Reed was angered because French refused to approve certain expense accounts submitted by the executive. French entered a plea of not guilty to the charge and was released under $2,000 bond for preliminary hearing March 25.

COUNTY GRAND JURY MEMBERS SELECTED

Prince Georges Judge Says Congratulations Due for Lack of Crime.

TO CONSIDER 15 CASES

With the exception of the holdup of a street car at Chevy Chase by Washington gunmen there has been no major crime in Montgomery County since the last term of court, Judge Robert B. Peter told the Montgomery County grand jury yesterday at the opening of the March term of Circuit Court. He said that the county is to be congratulated upon its freedom from serious crime.

The judge appointed George C. Frye, of Rockville, a retired farmer, as foreman of the grand jury. Other persons drawn for the jury were: Alexander H. Plitt, John T. Beall, Granville E. Kinsey, Thomas T. Mullican, Lawrence H. Price, John H. Stout, Laurason B. Riggs, Lewis Duvall, John T. Butt, Maurice Gue, T. Lamar Jackson, William A. Fidler, Norman L. Williams, Matthew J. Harris, John B. Thompson, John F. Hargett, William S. Caulfield, Ira S. Ricketts, Jacob T. Gartner, James J. McLaughlin, Ward Savage and Julius Hall.

The grand jury began the consideration of testimony in the approximately fifteen cases which had been prepared by State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr. It is expected that the grand jury will complete its deliberations by Wednesday evening unless some new angle is introduced.

The docket for the March term is very light, one of the lightest in years, court officials say. There are 36 criminal cases and 30 criminal appeal cases pending, besides whatever number are indicted by the grand jury; 111 civil cases and 5 civil appeals, with 1 removed case.

Members of the petit jury selected yesterday were: Frank G. Schaeffer, J. William Stohlman, jr., Ralph M. Hendricks, William S. Magruder, Levi W. Cochran, Walter P. Allen, William W. Poole, Edward F. Riordan, Benoni D. Allnutt, William Edgar Ervin, Ernest D. Duvall, Walter Mil Magruder, Alfred C. Warthen, John A. Howard, Spencer T. Windham, Chester C. Bogley, Charles E. Lochte, Charles T. Nicholson, Harry S. Wheeler, James T. Cashell, William Windsor Hodges, James W. Carlin, Charles S. Butler, Joseph H. Ward and Charles E. King.

The Montgomery County commissioners will sit today as a board of appeals on existing assessments in lieu of their regular meeting at the Rockville courthouse. They also will hear tax appeals at the meeting of the board next Tuesday. This is being done in preparation for the annual levy.

Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, yesterday signed $250,000 in certificates of indebtedness which have been sold to the Gillett Co., of Baltimore, to finance street and pavement improvements in the suburban area of the county. The certificates will be signed today by Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, president of the board of county commissioners, and then dispatched under police guard to Baltimore in Mr. Clark's care.

Voters in Rockville and Gaithersburg will be required to register on either the last Monday in March or the first Monday in April to qualify for participation in the town elections which are held the first Monday in May.

Bad Check Charge Filed Against W. W. Chance

William Wadsworth Chance, 56 years old, said by police to be a brother of former Postmaster Merritt O. Chance, who directed the grand jury that indicted Robert McPherson and censured several police officials, was arrested last night by police of Bethesda, Md., at the request of Detective Sergts. Ira E. Keck and Bernard Thompson.

Chance, living on Grafton street in Chevy Chase, Md., was taken into custody on a warrant charging him with passing a bad check for $25. Henry Segaloff, of Twentieth street near Belmont road northwest, is listed as the complainant.

Quantico Flier Forced Down in Mountain Fog

Marion, N. C., March 17 (A.P.).—A heavy fog forced Maj. Louis M. Bourne, Marine Corps aviator, down here this afternoon on a flight from Quantico, Va., to Asheville, N. C. He landed safely.

Maj. Bourne took off early today to visit his parents in Asheville. He encountered a thick fog over the mountains in this section and came down after a battle of several hours. Marion is 30 miles from Asheville.

Capital Women Injured In Crash on Boulevard

Two young women of Washington were injured when the automobile in which they were returning to this city collided with the automobile of an unidentified motorist on the Baltimore boulevard near College Parx, Md., yesterday.

Miss Etta Fagan, 21 years old, of 1321 Fairmont street northwest, is at Casualty Hospital suffering from shock, and injuries to her ribs and right leg. Her companion, Miss Lillian V. Ramey, 20 years old, of 842 Varnum street northwest, suffered shock and lacerations of both legs. She was treated at Casualty Hospital and dismissed.

Survey Will Determine U. S. Timber Resources

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Guesswork will be taken out of the lumber industry in a survey conducted by the Federal Forest Service to determine timber resources of the Nation.

The National Lumber Manufacturing Association, which is cooperating, points out that all talk in the past about the country's timber supply has been based on estimates. The survey will not be completed for several years.

WHITE ARMY EYES ROAD TO MOSCOW

COMMANDER IS MISSING

Paris, March 17 (A.P.).—When Gen. Alexander Paul Koutiepoff disappeared mysteriously from the heart of Paris at midday, January 26, the world suddenly learned of an unarmed army of many thousands of "white" Russians who hope some day to help overthrow the Soviet government.

There is a reward of $60,000 for the return of the general or the arrest of his kidnapers.

The commander in chief of the Russian exiles, walking from his home to headquarters, appears to have been induced to enter a big closed automobile accompanied by a policeman, now supposed to have been an imposter. The general's friends charge he was abducted by the feared "Gaypayou," Moscow's political police, to be tortured until he revealed the secrets of his own antisoviet organization.

Charge Laughed At.

Soviet officials and French communists laugh at this charge. They emphasize the lack of proof and counter with suggestions that Koutiepoff disappeared in a plot to discredit the soviets and cause friction between Moscow and France.

This mystery, rivaling fiction in either case, brought into view strength and scope of the exiles' organization.

Gen. Koutiepoff was right hand man of Baron Wrangel, commander of the last "white" armies that were beaten off by the then newly-formed soviet republic in 1920. He was designated by the late Grand Duke Nicholas, uncle of the czar, to succeed the latter as head of the White Russians.

Officers Form Framework.

Now, since Koutiepoff has disappeared, the movement is led by Gen. Eugene Karlovitch Miller, who was chief of staff in Wrangel's army. Gen. Miller was first brought to international attention when he was made commander of the Archangel district in 1919 and later became foreign minister of the provisional government erected there to bar the northward progress of the Communists. He joined Wrangel when the northern government collapsed.

Thousands of the czar's officers form a framework for the army of exiles. It has been said that Miller commands 60,000 officers and men of the old Russian armies, scattered throughout Europe. There are in Paris alone nearly 100,000 Russians and as many just outside.

They do not flatter themselves they are strong enough to march on Moscow, but they say the Soviet regime will end "as have all such regimes," and when the debacle comes in Russia, a month or a year or ten years hence, they are determined to be ready with trained commanders to turn mobs into armies.

They have a regular war college. Gen. Nicolas Golovine, graduate of the French superior war school and pupil of Ferdinand Foch, teaches strategy in Paris and directs a correspondence school that serves groups all over Europe. When, and if, there is a march on Moscow, he proposes to have ready highly trained specialists, abreast of the times in military matters.

QUACKS JAMMING PORTUGUESE JAILS

Fortune-Tellers and Other Charlatans Are Rounded Up by Police.

NEWSPAPERS ARE AIDING

Lisbon, March 17 (A.P.).—Portuguese police have been filling up the jails of Lisbon and other cities of the republic with fortune-tellers, weavers of magic spells and other charlatans who have been preying upon the illiterate masses. The campaign has been directed too toward the villages and rural communities but progress there has been slower.

Raids on the city quarters of practitioners of the old black arts have produced truck loads of paraphernalia as well as a miscellaneous collection of medicine phials, skulls, bones, dried toads and herbs and other properties used in gouging fat fees from the credulous.

Stock Tricks Exposed.

Newspapers, cooperating with the authorities in the effort to stamp out such practices, have exposed all the stock tricks of the charlatans and have told how some of them managed to get as much as $20 for a single consultation.

The real contents of "love powders" and of concoctions warranted to drive away an unwelcome suitor from a house possessed of an attractive marriageable daughter, have been told in print with the advice that those who read should spread the information among the illiterate.

Stress on Herb Doctors.

Much of the campaign has been directed against the "herb doctors." Instances in which the "remedies" of these quacks have been fatal to their patients have been exploited and the futility of their methods has been emphasized.

One herb healer resisted the police raid and barricaded himself in his rooms until driven out by stink bombs. He was asked by the officers if he had ever accomplished any cures of the sick.

"Unless they die," he replied, "I cure them all."

Texas Longhorns Have New Diet

Plenty of Food and Water Makes the Bovines Look Sleek.

Lawton, Okla., March 17 (A.P.).—The 1930 edition of the Texas longhorn, thanks to advantages which were denied his ancestors, is a better bovine than his wild-eyed parents. So promising is this rehabilitated longhorn that an organized governmental effort is being made in Wichita National Park, near here, to prevent the "dogie" from joining the dodo in extension.

Will C. Barnes, of the United States Department of Agriculture, has obtained a congressional appropriation enabling him to establish a nucleus herd for experimental purposes.

Plenty of food and water have given the longhorns a new sleek, contented appearance, unknown to their thin forebears who were forced to feed on the unnourishing salt grass of Texas plains. They have picked up weight under proper care. Wide, sweeping horns remain now as the longhorn's chief mark of distinction.

Sun Rays Prevent Rickets.

State College, Pa., March 17 (A.P.). Sun rays or ultra-violet light is necessary to prevent rickets in calves, it is shown in tests by O. J. 16-Cylinder Car To Beat Record

Los Angeles, March 17.—A sixteen-cylinder automobile, with which an assault on the speed record of 231.36 miles an hour is to be made, is being built at the local plant of Harry Miller, according to word received from Fresno. The car was designed by Lee Norden, Fresno automobile distributor, and he indicated he himself may pilot it on its attempt to beat the record made by Maj. H. O. D. Seagrave. It is expected the car will be finished in time to enter it in the annual speed trials at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Norden said the entire car, with the exception of wheels, tires and spark plugs, is of special design and that it differs radically from recognized racing-car construction. Its power plant consists of four motors of four cylinders each, arranged in series to form two straight-eight units. He said it is expected to develop a horsepower greatly in excess of any automobile motor ever built.

English Women Ballot Against Working Wives

London, March 17 (A.P.).—Nearly 7,000 women members of the Civil Service Clerical Association believe women should not be allowed to keep their jobs after marriage.

Votes on an association ballot showed an overwhelming majority in favor of compulsory resignation along with the wedding bells.

Gets Court to Curb Neighbor's Fist

Detroit, March 17.—An injunction to halt a neighborhood fued has been signed by Judge Robert M. Toms, on the petition of George Stocker, who operates a fruit market and lives at Grand River and Robson avenues. The restraining order bids Frank B. Donahue, whose home is adjacent to Mr. Stocker's, from striking or molesting the petitioner.

Mr. Stocker told the court he was sweeping the sidewalk in front of his store, when Mr. Donohue and another man halted and began to criticize the placing of a garbage can. Without warning, according to Mr. Stocker, Mr. Donohue walked up to him and struck him in the face twice. Mr. Stocker told the court he was not aware that Mr. Donohue held a grudge against him, but says the alleged assault may have been the outgrowth of a quarrel between his small boy and Mr. Donohue's. The quarrel occurred last summer.

Seattle's Power Project Gets Largest Generators

Seattle, Wash., March 17 (A.P.).—Two generators, capable of producing 133,400 kilowatts, will operate in the City of Seattle's new Diablo power project on the Skagit River, about 75 miles north of the city. The generators, rated at 83,000 horsepower each, are said to exceed by 10,000 horsepower the largest generators in the world now in use.

Labor Chief Quits Elaborate Mansion

Australian "White House" Turned Over to Auditor's Department.

Canberra, March 17 (A.P.).—James Henry Scullin, Labor party premier, has ordered the ornate "white house" of Australia turned over to the department of the auditor general while he himself resides at an hotel.

Although Ramsay MacDonald did not hesitate to move into historic 10 Downing street when he became prime minister of Great Britain, his local counterpart could not see the richly furnished national mansion as a proper residence for the head of an administration which came into power on the votes of the lowly.

So all the rich furnishings are going into storage and the lofty rooms are being filled with desks, swivel chairs, filing cabinets and other paraphernalia of the Commonwealth's bookkeepers.

SOVIET PERSECUTION PROTESTED BY JEWS

Association Says Suffering of Hebrews in Russia Has Increased.

EXTINCTION CALLED NEAR

London, March 17 (A.P.).—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency reports that protests against alleged persecution of Judaism in Soviet Russia were voiced today in a resolution adopted by the Anglo-Jewish Association and in the rpeort of the joint foreign committee of the board of deputies and the Anglo-Jewish Association.

The Anglo-Jewish Association deplored the antireligious policy of the Soviet government, "which by the wholesale closing and confiscation of synagogues, the restrictions of the activities of congregations, the persecution of rabbis and religious teachers, the suppression of religious instruction to children and the corruption of the State schools by atheistical teaching is causing intense spiritual suffering to millions of law-abiding Jews and threatens Russian Judaism with extinction."

The report of the joint foreign committee explained that efforts to get the British foreign office to make friendly representations to the Soviet foreign commissar had resulted in an expression of regret that under the circumstances it was impossible to accede to any request for intervention.

It added that all information at the disposal of the committee showed that in the past year "the sufferings of the Jews have been severely aggravated."

"The inevitable result must be the extinction of Russian Judaism," the report continued. "Direct appeals to the Soviet government have been tried and failed, while diplomatic representations by foreign states, even of the most friendly character, are difficult, and in the case of Great Britain forbidden by the protocol by which diplomatic relations were resumed.

"The committee, however, feels it would be unfair to Anglo-Jewry to advise an entirely passive attitude in the face of so terrible a calamity as that which has befallen our Russian coreligionists and which seems likely to affect disastrously the whole fabric of Judaism in eastern Europe. It is at least a satisfaction to add our protest to the great volume of indignation with which the chief rabbi is so zealously identified."

Leonard Montefiore, president of the Anglo-Jewish Association, said, "The new decree issued after the denials of persecution is an admission that persecution existed."

Filling Station Manager Is Robbed Second Time

Sidney Cartvriendt, manager of the Standard Oil Co. filling station at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast, was reported resting last night at his home after being beaten and robbed of $350 for the second time within a year.

Mr. Cartvriendt had a premonition of yesterday's hold-up and Sunday night called a police guard while he placed the money in the safe. As he was about to take the money from the safe yesterday, he said, he was struck on the head by an unidentified man and robbed of the money. He was treated at Casualty Hospital and was later removed to his home at 11 Park avenue, Hyattsville, Md.

Capital Woman Willed $259,070 by Her Sister

The bulk of the estate of Miss Marie F. Coddington, a resident of Washington for several years, who died in New York last October, has been left to her sister, Mrs. Fannie C. Browning, of the Presidential Apartments, it was learned yesterday.

Mrs. Browning has been bequeathed $259,070, the entire estate being valued at $334,620. Two cousins, Miss Clare Guyon Clark and Miss Annie Proctor, residents of New York City, receive $14,150 and $4,878, respectively, in the form of two life estates. Mrs. Browning is the only near living relative of Miss Coddington. Miss Clark and Miss Proctor are second cousins, it was learned.

does not touch his reserve strength and that scientific knowledge is in its infancy. He does not think man has "tapped" the full extent of his brain power.

Commenting further on his health, Mr. Edison said he was living on a milk diet and at present was sleeping about seven hours a day.

"When I was a baby," he said, "I lived on milk and didn't like it. Now I have gone back to milk again. That's funny."

Although Mr. Edison does little of the actual labor in his laboratory now, he inspects his golden rod daily and can furnish his staff enough ideas in an hour to keep the assistants busy for a week.

of the mission could merely use his personal influence with the leaders of the government, begging them to show restraint and avoid bloodshed. Unhappily, the calmer counsels of all true friends of Russia did not prevail. Although Archbishop Cieplak's sentence was commuted to ten years' imprisonment, his colleague, Mgr. Budkievics was shot to death and his body never recovered.

Wanted Relief Withdrawn.

Protests poured into the office of the director of the papal relief mission and much pressure was brought on the Holy Father to withdraw his relief immediately from Russia. Faced with the necessity of making a momentous decision, the director of the mission left Moscow one afternoon in order to seek a freer and undisturbed atmosphere before sending his final recommendation to the Vatican. There is an eminence just outside the city of Moscow called Sparrow Hill, dominating the entire city which lies stretched before one with the Moscow River flowing through its center. Gazing down upon that scene of Oriental splendor with its spires, its domes, its minarets and tiled roofs of many colors stretched before him, the director debated within himself what his reaction should be to the indignant telegrams and other protests which had reached him. Unable to come to a final decision at that moment he returned to the office of the mission at 32 Spiridonovskaia and there found a communication from the Holy Father which read as follows:

"We deem it opportune that you should not speak of eventual suspension of the relief in case of religious persecution. The food supplies are sent through a spontaneous spirit of charity, without distinction of religion, while requests made to the government in favor of the condemned Catholics are to be based on justice and equity."

Papal Mission Remains.

Thus, like a flash of light in murky darkness, clearing the heavy atmosphere, came the voice of Christian charity triumphing over Christian indignation. The papal relief mission remained at its post for still another year and did not leave Russia until August, 1924, when the famine had been conquered and the Soviet government officially announced that it would no longer need foreign assistance. Papal charity then turned impartially to exiles outside Russia.

Again, in 1924, in the consistorial allocution of December 18, Pius XI renewed his protest against Soviet attack on the individual, the family, religion, and on the authority of the state: "After having tried for such a long time with all our mind and all our heart to relieve the sufferings of the Russian people, we feel it our duty, imposed on us by the universal paternal mission which God has intrusted to us, to warn most earnestly and exhort all men and especially all heads of governments in the name of our Redeemer that all those who love peace and the public welfare and all those who believe in the sanctity of the family and in human dignity may unite to avert from themselves and their fellows the grave dangers and inevitable injuries of socialism and communism."

Comment by Ambassador.

It was on the occasion of this, the holy father's first public protest, that Mr. Robert Underwood Johnson, former American Ambassador to Italy, contributed a remarkable commentary on the Pope's pronouncement in the New York World of December 27, 1924: "Aside from its admirable substance, the most remarkable aspect of the Pope's encyclical against the Soviets is that it should have been so long deferred," he wrote. "One can not over-rate the significance or importance of this logical step as a reinforcement to the agencies of orderly life everywhere. . . . To have from the Vatican this definite pronouncement on the right side is like coming down from generality to particulars. Its effect can not fail to be inspiring and reassuring. . . . Let us be thankful that the greatest single force in Christendom is now frankly arrayed against this phenomenal iniquity."

These words, which spring from the rich experience of a distinguished American diplomat, not of the Catholic faith, were penned more than five years ago. They might have been written today; indeed they are being repeated substantially by spokesmen of religious thought throughout the world and by civil leaders rallying to support the Pope's plea for religious liberty.

The Pope's letter of February 2, 1930, is not an unwarranted interference in the internal affairs of the Russian people, nor an incitement of political action. It is a defense of one of the most fundamental, universal and inalienable human rights against an unjust aggressor. Within its own sphere, which is the spiritual and the supernatural, it in no wise differs from its previous acts of protest. The Soviet government, by its deliberate choice, has transferred its belligerency to every hearth and home, and enlarged a domestic policy into an international menace which strikes at the very foundations of Christian civilization. It is intellectual suicide for a man, whether he be a prime minister, a senator or a paid propagandist, to avert his eyes from the evidence now so abundant and keep repeating stale platitudes about "keeping hands off a purely internal question." In the face of the established facts it becomes moral cowardice to remain dumb.

Rights Flow From Nature.

The rights which the Soviet government denies to the majority of its own citizens and intends to deny to the entire world, the Catholic Church holds to be inalienable, flowing from nature itself, constituting, as they do, the necessary means for fulfilling our social instincts and achieving both our natural and our supernatural destiny. The opposite theory of government suffered total eclipse on this continent on July 4, 1776. No American legislature, no executive, no administration which has taken oath to support the Constitution and perpetuate the principles of the Declaration of Independence can consider them as falling within the zone of negotiable issues.

"We inherit them, as does the Russian people, with our common human nature. Sovereignty ultimately resides in the people as a whole, and it is the sovereign people which designates a given government to exercise a delegated and a limited power. It is contrary to all right reason, contrary to nature itself, as well as to the fundamental concept of government, that the instrumentality created by the people should in turn attack the inherent rights of the people and thus nullify the very purpose of its creation. It was in defense of these rights that our own Declaration was drafted and vindicated. In the cause of clearer definition a Bill of Rights was included in the Constitution.

"The high conceptions of human dignity and the unequivocal limitations of governments enunciated in both these precious documents are but other ways of affirming that before the State made us citizens, God made us men. To protect that manhood and to secure its inherent rights—not to destroy them—governments are instituted among men; men are not instituted by governments. Their inherent rights, antedating government itself, can not be extinguished by any fiat of civil society!

Menace to Whole World.

"Let them be assailed by a government in Russia and they are menaced everywhere. Every ship that lands a new consignment of immigrants at an American port or brings a new official for a Russian trading corporation may be a carrier of the disease. And the propagandist of revolt is taught in the Moscow schools how to fish in the troubled waters of every national crisis, whether it be one of unemployment, or financial stringency, or panic, or shortage of food. 'You must educate people to discontent' wisely proclaims Bukharin, the Soviet philosopher. Hence, he first inoculates the individual with the venom of class hatred; through the individual he poisons the family and through the family attacks organized society in order to reconstruct the world on an impossible Communistic basis. He knows that men are most easily educated to discontent and whipped to anarchic fury when the mind is tormented and the body famished or diseased. Videant consules.

No form of derived power fulfills the responsibilities of its trust unless, while alleviating the physical sufferings of man, it frees his spirit from the bondage of ignorance and fortifies his intellect and his will against the sophisms of professional malcontent.

Pope Pius XI possesses neither political nor economic nor any other material sanction. He is the most defenseless sovereign in the smallest state ever created or acknowledged by international usage. His appeal is to God and the moral instincts of mankind. With no sword in hand save only the two-edged blade of Truth and Justice, he has dared to take his stand on the altar of the City of Souls and proclaim an ancient verity: No state on earth is placed so high as to be beyond the reach of the natural and the Divine law.

"Try and find out where they have gone."

A few minutes before 6 o'clock tonight a trimotored, 14-passenger airplane landed at Central Airport, Camden, N. J., across the Delaware River from Philadelphia. Persons who claimed to know declared it was to be used to take Capone and Cline away to an unannounced destination. Police believed they would go either to Chicago or to Miami, Fla., where the gang chieftain has as estate and where Mrs. Capone and their 10-year-old son have been passing the winter.

Reports have persisted that rival gangsters had gathered here in the last day or two, and that they and Capone henchmen would be on hand when 'Scarface" and his bodyguard left the prison.

Capone and Cline were arreseted in May last year as they left a motion picture theater. They carried revolvers and the next day they pleaded guilty and received the maximum sentence of one year in prison.

MRS. BERNHEIMER RITES.

Funeral Services Will Be Held Tomorrow Morning.

Mrs. Sarah Bernheimer, 80 years old, a resident of Washington for more than 60 years, died yesterday morning at the residence, 3220 Cleveland avenue northwest. She was a native of Minorsville, Pa., and came to Washington at the age of 16.

She is survived by five children, Mrs. William Blum, Mrs. Charles Baum, Mrs. Julian Brylawski, Jonas Bernheimer and Louis Bernheimer, all of Washington; also by one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Myers, also of Washington.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning from the residence with burial in the Washington Hebrew Congregation Cemetery.

MICHAEL WEISMUELLER RITES

Funeral Services Will Be Held Thursday Morning.

Michael Weismueller, a native of Alsace-Lorraine and a resident of Washington since boyhood, died yesterday at the residence, 318 Fifteenth street southeast.

Mr. Weismueller came to the United States at the age of three and lived with his parents in Cincinnati until the family moved to Washington. Mr. Weismueller was 14 years old at this time. For many years he was engaged in the business of hiring trucks for the District. He retired about a year ago. He was 52 years old.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Kate Weismueller and four children, Fred, Paul, Catherine Weismueller and Mrs. Thelma Grimm, all of Washington. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the residence, with burial in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

JAMES M'CORMICK DIES.

Body Will Be Taken to Birthplace for Burial.

James McCormick, a cartographical engineer at the National Geological Survey for 40 years, died yesterday a month after he was retired from Government service.

Mr. McCormick died in the Albemarle Apartments, where he had lived for twenty years. He was taken ill shortly after his retirement in February. He was one of the oldest employes at the Geological Survey and had received an extension of two years beyond the retirement age. He was 71 years old and a native of Cheshire, Mass. The body will be taken to that place for burial today.

Mr. McCormick is survived by the widow, Mrs. Suzanne T. McCormick. His old child, a son, died several years ago.

328,639 Radicals Killed in 5 Years

Russian Society for Aid of Political Prisoners Makes Report.

Moscow, March 17 (A.P.).—Statistics showing that during the past five years 328,639 revolutionists were killed in demonstrations, uprisings and skirmishes in various parts of the world, were issued today by the International Society for the Aid of Political Prisoners Abroad.

In China alone, the society says, 299,017 revolutionists fell victims to "the white terror," Chinese generals executing 138,413 in 1928.

More revolutionists were arrested in the United States than in Germany, 18,603 being imprisoned in America and 11,433 in Germany. In court trials, 38,108 revolutionists received death penalties.

The society says it has 51 sections operating abroad, and during the last five years sent out more than $7,000,000 to aid political prisoners.

Dr. Frederick J. Cullen, medical officer in the Department of Agriculture during the last year, has been named head of drug control work of the department's food, drug and insecticide administration, to succeed Dr. J. J. Durrett, who about April 15 will become State health officer of Alabama.

Dr. Cullen came to the department from the United States Public Health Service, Seattle, Wash., after twelve years' experience in the general practice of medicine and three years with the United States Army Medical Corps, including service on the Mexican border and in the World War.

In France, as regimental surgeon of the Tenth United States Field Artillery, Third Division, he was wounded in 1918 in action at Chateau Thierry. He received both brigade and division citations for distinguished service and was discharged from the Army as a major.

Student Held Insane, In Slaying of Father

St. Louis, Mo., March 17 (A.P.).—Alan R. Schumm, 17-year-old University of Illinois student, who killed his father and wounded his mother here January 5, was declared insane by a jury and committed to the city sanitarium by Circuit Judge Hamilton late today after a perfunctory trial under an indictment charging first degree murder.

The verdict held that Schumm was not guilty because he was insane at the time of the slaying and is insane now. Three alienists employed by the State and defense, testified as to their conclusion that Schumm is suffering from dementia praecox, is a "menace to society" and should be confined for the rest of his life.

TARDIEU IN NO HURRY.

"We consider that the result to be obtained is important enough to exclude any unwise haste," remarked Premier Tardieu after his long talk on Sunday with Prime Minister MacDonald. "What we require is not haste, but success. I am convinced that we shall come to satisfactory results."

From this enigmatic statement the jaded delegates extracted enough encouragement to continue their negotiations, although it is now evident that there will be no reduction of armaments and no saving of money as a result of the London conference. Premier Tardieu did not outline the nature of the "satisfactory results" which he looks for, but presumably he is willing to help the other delegations to save their faces by framing a treaty dealing with minor matters.

The French premier's intimation that he is willing to prolong the conference, and his sardonic reference to "unwise haste" must have made Mr. MacDonald wince. Every hour's delay in the conference brings Mr. MacDonald toward the brink of disaster. The nonchalant manner in which Premier Tardieu contemplates extended sittings is not only a hint that France will be immovable, but is a manifestation of heartless indifference to the perplexities of a brother premier. M. Tardieu has gone through the experience of defeat, but even this does not seem to arouse in his bosom a sympathetic feeling for Ramsay MacDonald. Can it be that the astute Frenchman foresees the early downfall of MacDonald, and regards this as one of the "satisfactory results" of the conference?

Those who expected the French delegates to take upon themselves the blame for breaking up the conference are disappointed. M. Tardieu will come back to London. He has plenty of time. He will play the game to the finish, and when the conference ends it will not be possible for its sponsors to make him bear the odium for the failure to reduce navies and naval expenditures.

The British prime minister is up against a situation of his own making. He called the conference with breathless haste, and ever since it convened he has tried to rush through an agreement that could be used to his own political advantage in Parliament. The eighth week of the confab finds the nations as far apart as ever on the fundamental questions before the conference.

Evidence is forthcoming to show that the much-advertised "three-power agreement" consists mainly of a concession to Japan, whereby it will win its demand for 70 per cent of the cruiser strength of the United States. Japan, like France, is unconcerned with the fate of the conference, and its demand must be granted if the conference is to end in a treaty. Apparently the American plan is to make a prima facie treaty giving the United States the "right" to build eighteen cruisers to Japan's twelve, and then to suspend this "right" by agreeing not to build three of the vessels. In Tokyo there is an insistent demand that America shall formally insert in the treaty a pledge to forego the very "right" that is stipulated. An agreement is proposed, in short, which would keep the United States from making progress toward naval parity until 1936.

The proposed three-power agreement with Great Britain and Japan may have been put forth as a maneuver to make it appear that France was responsible for the conference deadlock. If so, it is made a fruitless move by Premier Tardieu's cheerful undertaking to stay in London all summer. But even if genuine, the three-power agreement as outlined is worthless, since it is idle to expect the Senate to suspend the construction of cruisers until 1936, merely to continue the cruiser superiority of Great Britain and to enable Japan to hold a greater ratio than she accepted at the Washington conference.

THE DISTRICT BILL.

The 1931 District appropriation bill, reported to the House yesterday, carries a recommended total of $45,284,317. This is $3,796,702 in excess of the appropriation for 1930 and represents a decrease of $217,000 from the budget estimates. Most departments and offices are allowed increases over their current budgets. Almost without exception, however, the recommended appropriations represent decreases from the budget estimates. The bill requires the retention of the existing tax rate, namely, $1.70 on every $100 of valuation, authorizes a Federal lump-sum contribution of $9,000,000, and would put in effect an increase of approximately 40 per cent in the water rate.

The bill is about as satisfactory as could be expected under present circumstances. The House is not sympathetic with the needs of the District or with its officials, facts that are brought out forcibly in the record of the hearings made public with the bill. District officials almost without exception were subjected to merciless grilling at the hands of the committee. Inefficiency was freely charged. Maj. Pratt defended the food bills of the Women's Bureau to no avail, the committee reducing the item by $1,750. All salary step-ups for District employes under the Welch act were refused by the committee. The record of hearings draws a picture of a committee thoroughly out of sympathy with the needs of the District and suspicious of its officials.

The bill does not present an accurate analysis of the financial requirement of the local government. It was built up arbitrarily on the principle that the existing tax rate was to be continued and that the Government would contribute the flat sum of $9,000,000. The requirements of the various departments are subordinated to the revenues that will be received from these limited sources. Inasmuch as the District has been on a similar starvation diet since 1924, when the lump sum, representing at that time 39.41 per cent of the total budget, was adopted in place of a proportionate contribution, the fact that the 1931 bill represents a rather considerable increase over the current total loses much of its meaning. Needed improvements can not be made next year; the District must continue to struggle along as best it can because the House will not permit the Government to assume its rightful share of the cost of maintaining the Capital City. The $9,000,000 Federal contribution represents only a little more than 20 per cent of the total carried in the 1931 bill.

In the hearings members of the committee compared Washington, always to its disadvantage, with other cities. In every instance, however, the committee failed to consider the fact that Washington, by its very nature, can not be compared with any other American city.

The Senate usually improves the District bill, and no doubt will do so this year. The fiscal relation of the District to the Federal Government will never be satisfactory until Congress acknowledges the obligation of the Nation toward its Capital. But the Senate can at least liberalize the bill as it comes from the House.

INSURGENTS IN TROUBLE.

The Middle Western insurgent senators who ran amuck on the tariff are anxiously looking about for campaign material that will save them in the forthcoming primaries. Vigorous rivals, genuine Republicans, have thrown their hats into the ring in several States. These rivals, in close touch with conditions in their States, can point to the political and economic bankruptcy of the insurgents who deserted their party and the cause of protection under the pretext of putting agriculture on a par with industry. The chief result of the coalition's efforts has been to depress industry through threatened tariff cuts. Now farm prices are sagging as the home market shrinks, and nothing that the Farm Board can do will boost home prices until the evil effects of the coalition blundering can be wiped out.

Reports from the farm States indicate very clearly that insurgent Republican senators have lost their standing. The farmers have never supported the crazy insurgent scheme of cutting the throat of American industry as a means of helping agriculture. The bulk of the farm vote is Republican, and it stands loyally by President Hoover. When the insurgents turned upon him, doing everything in their power to discredit his administration and prevent the enactment of a tariff bill that would give equal protection to agriculture, industry and labor, they threw away whatever influence they possessed in their respective States. They are discredited in Washington and at home. In spite of them a fair tariff bill is being framed and will be signed by President Hoover.

One of these insurgents, professing himself to be a dry, supported Al Smith against Hoover and now tries to crawl back into the Republican party, still claiming to be a Republican and a dry. The people of his State are disgusted with this imposter, and the party forces are organizing to cut him down. He has lost caste in the Senate and is worse than useless to his State.

FARM PRICES GO DOWN.

Prices of agricultural products continue to decline. A report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics shows that the general average of farm prices has dropped five points during the last year. There was a three-point decline during the month covering the last part of January and the first part of February. Cotton, wool, butter and eggs have experienced such sagging prices in recent weeks that the general average has been brought still lower.

This situation is distressing in view of the fact that the Federal Farm Board has been diligently engaged for the past nine months in a campaign to increase the return to the farmer for his crops. In spite of all the Farm Board has been able to do the prices of agricultural products have fallen. The present commodity price level is the lowest since the postwar deflation period.

Overproduction does not entirely account for this unfavorable condition. The rapidity with which prices fell during the recent period of business depression points unmistakably to restricted consumption. "The recent declines in both agricultural and non-agricultural prices, while in part due to supply conditions in important commodities," says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, "also reflect the business situation in the United States and the general decline in commodity price levels in most important countries." Curtailment of the domestic market for food and clothing, resulting from a smaller industrial output, is chiefly responsible for the immediate distress of the farmer.

This is a factor in the price of farm products that the Farm Board will never be able to control. Unless the domestic market holds up well there is no chance for the farmer to reach a better economic status. The decline of farm prices, in spite of all that the Farm Board has been able to do to bolster them up, is a striking lesson in economics for that irresponsible clique that is trying to bring about "parity" between agriculture and industry by clipping the wings of the latter.

The idiocy of trying to benefit the farmer by destroying his market ought to have been apparent under any circumstances. The country is having a demonstration of what happens when industrial prosperity is threatened, and the pernicious economic theories which have been spread so thick on the pages of the Congressional Record in recent months are exposed. This fact may account in part for the rise of the new group that has taken control of the tariff.

A PIRATE STORY

By Commander H. H. FROST, U. S. N.

One of the most interesting points awaiting decision at the London conference is the proposition that a submarine captain may be tried for piracy before any court in the world which may allege violation by him of one of the rules for the conduct of maritime warfare.

The experiment of trying belligerent sea captains for piracy has already been made in this country. The fact that it was made by President Abraham Lincoln lends special interest to the manner in which it was conducted and how it ended.

A recent book—"The Confederate Privateers"—by Mr. William M. Robinson, gives a detailed account of this experiment. Here we shall give only the main facts of the case.

In 1856 the first attempt was made to limit naval armaments. A convention in Paris declared: "Privateering is and remains abolished." Now in that day privateering was very similar in its effects upon merchant shipping to the submarine warfare of the World War. Its abolition, therefore, was very similar to the attempt made by Mr. Root in the Washington conference to abolish the use of submarines as "commerce destroyers."

Just as France failed to ratify the Root resolutions in 1922, so the United States refused to abolish privateers in 1856.

Five days after Fort Sumter surrendered President Jefferson Davis invited "all those who may desire, to make application for commissions or letters of marque and reprisal to be issued under the seal of these Confederate States."

On the 19th of April Lincoln issued a proclamation, in part as follows: "Now therefore I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, hereby proclaim and declare that if any person, under the pretended authority of the said States, or under any pretense, shall molest a vessel of the United States, or the persons or cargoes on board of her, such person shall be held amenable to the laws of the United States for the prevention and punishment of piracy."

As an additional measure to prevent any privateering by the Confederates, Lincoln made an offer to Great Britain to accept the declaration of Paris. The refusal of the British government to accept this offer is very interesting: "It might be argued by the Government of the United States that a European power signing a convention with the United States, declaring that privateering was and remains abolished, would be bound to treat the privateers of the so-called Confederates as pirates." It was to avoid any such contingency, with all its embarrassments, that Lord John Russell declined our proposal.

Jefferson Davis replied to Lincoln's proclamation with one of his own. He predicted that the action of the United States in "treating as pirates open enemies acting under the authority of commissions issued by an organized government" would inevitably lead to a "war of extermination on both sides."

Having set the diplomatic stage, let us see how these threats and counterthreats operated when applied to a specific case. On June 3, 1861, the Confederate privateer, Savannah, captured the brig, Joseph. The same day the Confederates had the misfortune to be captured by the United States man-of-war Perry. They were hurried to New York, thrown into cells for felons and arraigned as pirates.

Mr. Davis quickly announced that he was prepared to deal out the same punishment to prisoners in his power as was awarded to the men of the Savannah. "If driven," he said, "to the terrible necessity of retaliation by your execution of any of the officers or the crew of the Savannah, that retaliation will be extended so far as shall be requisite to secure the abandonment of a practice unknown to the warfare of civilized man."

Despite these threats the trial was allowed to proceed. The prisoners were accused of ten counts. The principal one was that they "did, on pretense of authority from a person, to wit, one Jefferson Davis, then and there, piratically, feloniously and violently, seize, rob, steal, take and carry away" the ship Joseph and 250 hogsheads of sugar. The former charges for piracy usually contained the phrase, "moved by the instigation of the Devil." There had been substituted for that dignitary "one Jefferson Davis."

After a prolonged trial the jury fortunately disagreed and thus postponed the problem which doubtless both governments were anxious to avoid.

Late in October, however, four privateersmen were duly convicted of piracy in Philadelphia. "To repress the infamous attempt now made by the enemy to commit judicial murder on prisoners of war," the Confederate government ordered that the fourteen highest ranking prisoners in its hands should be "confined in the cells reserved for prisoners accused of infamous crimes," and treated as such as long as Confederate seamen were held as pirates.

Brig. Gen. Winder accordingly selected for this retaliation six colonels, two lieutenant colonels, three majors and three captains. At that time sentence had been passed against only one Confederate, William Smith. In the presence of Union officers a lottery was drawn and Col. Corcoran, Sixty-ninth New York Militia, became the hostage for Smith. The authorities at Washington were informed that when Smith was executed Corcoran would meet the same fate.

Under such conditions the United States had just one thing to do—back down. To conceal, as far as was possible, the adverse political effects of its mistaken policy, the Government delayed action on the convicted seamen for several months. But in February, 1862, they were removed to military prisons, treated as prisoners of war, and exchanged in due course.

Sixty years later, to a month, Mr. Root revived the piracy policy of Lincoln.

SUFFICIENT.

There was laughter in his eye
And a cuckle in his throat,
But he wore a faded tie
And he wore a shabby coat,
He was old and bent with care
But he loved a merry jest
And with such a friendly air
He made welcome every guest.

Though he didn't own a yacht
And his house was very small,
Unto me he grumbled not,
He had books along a wall,
And a little garden gay,
Where he puttered every spring
And in summer used to stay
Happier far than any king.

Once I stopped with him to chat
And I dared to question why,
As together there we sat
Stayed the twinkle in his eye;
How so merry could he be
On such very meager fare,
And he smiled and said to me:
"I've enough to eat and wear.

"I can laugh and I can chat,
I can raise a rose or two,
Why desire another hat
When the one I have will do?
I have friends it's good to know,
All their joys and griefs I share,
Nothing more could life bestow
If I were a millionaire."

If There Were No Rewards Except Money, There Would Be No Heroes.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

All workmen worth their salt, whether they are engineers in charge of bridge construction or humble laborers who operate drills, possess the artist's pride in craftsmanship.

They see the finished work as a product of their own skill, and their pride and satisfaction in doing good work is the major part of their wages.

Creative craftsmen lose interest and morale when the job in hand is unimportant or poor in quality, as a great actor loses heart and inspiration when the play is unworthy of his genius.

Only a worth-while job can keep the craftsman contented, for man can not labor cheerfully without hope of reward and a necessary portion of his reward is his own good opinion.

Call it vanity if you will, but it is also the decent self-respect essential to courage, ambition, growth and high endeavor.

Find any man, above the level of a clod, whose work does not feed his self-respect or justify pride in his skill, and you have a man who feels apologetic and useless and abused.

He is weak for want of food for his vanity.

But if the stuff of which self-respect is made requires a man-size job, the full measure of happy pride of which the craftsman is capable requires also the commendation of those competent to judge.

No man—not even the complete egoist—works to please himself alone.

His own good opinion is essential to his happiness—it is the irreducible minimum that can support contentment—but the basic motive of his creative effort is a desire to win the good opinion of others.

In short, whatever material reward he may demand or hope for, the reward he most desires and strives hardest to earn is praise.

And since his nature hungers for praise, and praise is the chief reward for which he labors, he is defrauded of his wages if praise is denied him.

Self-respect he may provide for himself, if he is a courageous soul; but the praise he earns by serving others must come from others if he is to have his due.

In Nature's nice economy, the fact of an appetite is proof of a need, and the fact that men covet praise and strive for it is sufficient evidence that their nature requires it.

No man is too high to appreciate it; no man is too low to provide it.

The beggar's sincere compliment pleases a king.

To give praise is to confer riches without cost to yourself; to deny it is churlishly to defraud others without hope of gain.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Too Much Danger of Disorder in the Plan to Let Voters Decide on War or Peace.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The proposed constitutional amendment providing for a referendum vote of the people before any war can be declared, except in defense of territories and possessions of the United States, will at first have the sentimental approval of many who on second thought may question its advisability on practical grounds.

Aside from the obvious complications of the question, the first and all-important consideration is that this war referendum amendment would sooner or later result in civil war.

In the settlement of ordinary questions of governmental policy, the American electorate can always be depended upon to come through the most heated controversies free from the danger of physical strife. In a vote for war or peace situations might develop which would severely test the strength of popular government.

If a great majority of the people were strongly in favor of a war, a referendum vote might be polled without undue excitement, although unnecessary if not disastrous delay would result. But if the United States had had a war referendum vote in 1917 there would have been killings between groups of pro-Germans and anti-Germans.

Inevitably a war-time spirit would invade the precincts of the polls. In the press, on the stump, in private discussions, it would inflame the minds of the voters and any one of a hundred incidents such, for instance, as the charge of fraud at the ballot box or the presence of undercover foreign agents, might cause an armed conflict, marked by widespread rioting, or possibly because of some unforeseen circumstance, by a warfare of alien nationalities.

There are too many groups of foreign partisans in this country to permit of a popular vote on war.

FEDERALIST.

American Cuckoos Do Not Lay Eggs in Other Birds' Nests, But the Cowbird Does.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The story of a thieving bird which appeared on the editorial page March 15, credited to the New York Times, contains a slight error. Many young nature lovers might be misled by the statement. "Early birds," says the Times, "lured north by the late February warmth, will do well to avoid cuckoos as neighbors when they start nest-building for 1930. The cuckoo mother lays its egg in the nest of some other bird and flies away without another thought for the cares of motherhood."

We have in the United States the yellow-billed cuckoo and the black-billed cuckoo, both of which build their own nest in which the female deposits her two blue eggs, then incubates them from the warmth of her own body. After the eggs hatch, both the male and the female help rear the youngsters. The two species of cuckoos found in this country do not lay their eggs in the nests of other birds. It is the European cuckoo that has this bad habit. The American cuckoos are useful in and about orchards, as they eat a great many harmful insects.

There is a thieving bird in the United States, and the New York Times might have been thinking of this bird. The cowbird, which gets its name from always being found around cows, lays its egg in the nest of some other bird, usually a warbler's nest, but I have found them in a cardinal's nest. When the foster mother hatches the egg, the fledgling cowbird pushes out the other occupants of the nest, and the parent birds invariably raise the little thief from a fledgling to a grown bird.

The cowbird is from seven to eight inches long. The male is a glossy black with a brown head; the female is slightly smaller and is dull brown in color.

Suggests Monument to Washington, Marshall and Jefferson.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In connection with the extensive structural improvements both projected and in process of construction, let me suggest the erection of a monumental statuary group of Washington, Marshall and Jefferson to symbolize the executive, judicial and legislative departments of the Government under the Constitution.

The group might be placed at the west of the Capitol on the site of the present statue of John Marshall.

By the test and measure of their contributions to the political institutions of the United States, the three greatest Americans are Washington, Marshall and Jefferson.

SAMUEL RUSSELL.

HOUSEWIVES MAKE PROSPERITY.

When we speak of the prosperity of this country too much emphasis is placed upon big business—lumbering, railroads, steel, banking. They do not make prosperity. They merely reflect it, says E. E. Calkins in the Review of Reviews. They prosper when the country prospers. And the country prospers by the daily round of small expenditures of millions of families, the grist of groceries, toilet articles, dry goods and clothing they buy. As long as that keeps up everything is normal. But let these housewives begin to pare their daily budgets, substitute a boiling-piece for the weekly roast, make over little Mary's frock instead of buying a new one, and business begins to fall off.

The daily purchases of these millions of people are conditioned by advertising. The breakfast foods, ketchups, tooth pastes and galoshes that they could not do without and which their grandfathers did without were introduced by advertising and are kept there by advertising—the advertising of manufacturers in the magazines, retailers in the newspapers, posters and window displays and direct mail matter. Cut this advertising sharply off and we would have a slump beside which the Stock Exchange debacle would be a mere incident.

Special to The Washington Post.

Syracuse, March 17.—Forty-five years ago Oscar T. Green went to the Thousand Islands to attempt to regain his health.

He will be 92 years old next May. He was born at Green Settlement, near Adams Center, Jefferson County, on May 1, 1838.

"I go to bed at 11 o'clock, but since the radio came in I stay up later, and I spend some of the hours at night reading.

His favorite book is "You," by Charles P. Haanel, a volume treating of a "new psychology and mental science." When asked his rules for living Mr. Green recited a verse of his own:

"Rum and tobacco I always refuse;
Late hours I never use;
I keep my head and feet from cold,
And that's how I've lived to be so old."

Jefferson Pioneers.

The Greens were early settlers of Jefferson County. Truman D. Green, father of the Dell street nonagenarian, was a farmer, and Mr. Green stayed on the farm until he was a young man. In early manhood he was a school teacher, and during the Civil War was principal of a school at Ironton, Wis.

He was drafted for military service, but the war ended shortly thereafter, and he returned to Adams Center. He had a farm in Lewis County and another at Carthage, where he also conducted a grocery store, and was for a time school principal. Then he organized a chain of 99-cent stores. He had stores in Elmira, Ithaca and Seneca Falls.

In 1884, while he was at the Ithaca store, he became ill of what was known as "dumb ague." He was given only a short time to live, and decided to live that short time at the Thousand Islands. He bought a piece of land at Thousand Island Park and built a "wigwam" on it, with his wife's aid. He lived on, fooled the doctors and nine years ago came back to Syracuse.

Ran Temperance Hotel.

He ran a temperance hotel at the park. It was originally the Wellesley House, but he changed it to the Pine View Hotel, which gave the name to Pine View Park. After eight years he sold the hotel for twice what he paid for it, and after changing it from a "dive" with poor reputation to one patronized by physicians, clergymen and teachers.

He continued in real estate business, and now owns twelve cottages at Thousand Island Park. At one time he had 65 acres.

Mrs. Green died January 2, 1927, after the couple had been married 65 years. Mr. Green has a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Gardner, wife of Capt. Jay I. Gardner, master mariner.

Mae West Facing Trial in New York

After Many Delays Actress, Producer of "Pleasure Man," Is Called.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Mae West, whose last known contribution to the theater was "Diamond Lil," in which she starred here on Broadway and out in Chicago, finally after several delays went on trial today for putting on "Pleasure Man," a play that the police raided and closed a year and a half ago.

With her are 57 others the producer, Carl Reed, and all the actors and actresses who appeared in the production—but only eleven of them showed up in court today. Attorneys for the absent ones explained that they were for the most part out on the road with traveling productions. Several had joined the Navy.

Four jurors had been selected by the time court adjourned for the day from a "blue ribbon" panel, to which Nathan Burkan, Miss West's attorney, objected on the ground that it was likely to consist of persons "narrow minded, undemocratic, and recruited from the privileged class."

Boston Again Celebrates Evacuation by British

Boston, March 17 (A.P.).—Despite alternating rain squalls and snow flurries which swept the city and filled the streets with slush, Boston today observed in traditional manner the 154th anniversary of its evacuation by the British.

Out on Dorchester Heights, where Continental guns, which Washington's men had secretly planted by night, finally forced the British grenadiers to give up their comfortable billets in the city proper and take to their ships, the United Train of Artillery Veterans Association, of Providence, R. I., laid a wreach on the monument.

Thomas Fortune Ryan, Hurt in Crash, Is Better

Sheridan, Wyo., March 17 (A.P.).—The condition of Thomas Fortune Ryan 2d, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident here Friday night, was reported today by his attending physician as much improved. An X-ray examination will be had to determine if he suffered any serious injuries to his chest.

Ryan is the grandson of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, multimillionaire New York banker.

Officer Shot in China Not Wounded Seriously

Newport, R. I., March 17 (A.P.).—Admiral and Mrs. Cameron McRae Winslow, of this city, today received a radio message from their son, Lieut. Cameron McRae Winslow, jr., in Shanghai, China, advising them that a bullet wound he received during a skirmish with river bandits was not serious.

He said that the bullet had grazed him slightly on the side and that he would be about in two or three days.

Steamer Paris to Sail April 2.

Paris, March 17 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today that the steamship Paris, which has been tied up for several days because of a strike of her crew, will sail for New York April 2. The strike was settled today. It also was announced that the Ile de France, which had been held up too, would sail Wednesday.

Van Lear Black in Indo-China.

Hanoi, French Indo-China, March 17 (A.P.).—Van Lear Black, who is now rapidly nearing the end of a flight from Paris to Tokyo, landed here this afternoon.

Polish-German Pact Signed.

Warsaw, Poland, March 17 (A.P.).—After five years of negotiations, a Polish-German commercial treaty was signed today.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

ONE would not think it, inasmuch as he comes from a very cosmopolitan city, but it is now an inescapable fact that Speaker Longworth is the best farmer's friend on Capitol Hill. And that is because Mr. Longworth did not want any tariff revision at all.

No serious student of economics ever thought that the pending bill, regardless of how it was written, would be of any material benefit to agriculture. The agricultural problem is, of course, that of surplus not competition from abroad. It was thought by many, however, that the farm rates written in the bill might be beneficial in the future in the event there was a drive to reduce prices on farm products.

In other words, while the tariff rates on farm products seemed to do the farmer no particular good, at the same time they did no harm.

• • • •

THIS was dependent, however, upon holding industrial rates, generally speaking, to their present level. This is not now to be done. The upshot of this year's tariff making will find the farmer just where he was and industrial rates boosted a little higher.

No one realized this danger better than Senator Borah himself. Appreciated that the tariff could give but secondary assistance to the farmer at best, he realized at the outset that the fight was to prevent industry from taking advantage of the revision to draw further away from agriculture.

• • • •

WITH the farmer standing to gain so little then and the danger so great of his having to pay more for the things he consumes, one wonders why Senator Borah pressed for the tariff revision at all. One wonders why he did not talk it down. As the matter stands, he is more responsible for the revision than any other one man. The extra session was his creature. He demanded it, got it and took charge of it at the outset and held control for a long time.

The only explanation that we can think of is that the senator was simply determined to keep his word.

There was a time during the campaign when the Republicans got panicky about the Middle West. That they did so is evidence of how panicky men can get in a political campaign. Because it is now quite apparent that they were in no danger at all. The farmers may have wanted a lot and may, indeed, have been quite bitter toward the Republicans. But they wouldn't vote for Mr. Smith, not even those Germans of Nebraska and Wisconsin who wanted their beer.

• • • •

BUT the Republicans got panicky and in a moment of abandon both on the part of Mr. Hoover and the senator, the latter got Mr. Hoover to say that if the Coolidge Congress did not come to the farmer's rescue, Mr. Hoover would call an extra session as soon as he got in.

Apparently, Senator Borah was very determined to keep the record straight and when other party lights were talking down the extra session after the election was all over, the senator got very indignant. Of course, there had to be the extra session, he declared, if the party was not to be a liar. However, it would have been better for the farmer if this is what the party had been.

EXHIBITION SHARING AUTOMOBILE NUDES

ARTISTS ARE UNUSUAL

Berlin, March 17 (A.P.).—Automobiles in all poses, including some which might be called "nudes," are the subject matter of an unusual exhibition opened here by the Berlin Artists' Federation.

Portraits of new models are not to be found among the oils and water colors chosen by the hanging committee. Instead, the automobile as a colorful element in the modern scene, whether rural or metropolitan, is the keynote of the collection.

Several interesting canvases capture the magic of the metropolitan street scene at dusk in the misty weather, when the glimmer of headlights on wet pavements combines with the color of traffic lamps and illuminated signs to intrigue the artist who can see beauty in the haunts of commerce. Of particular note in this group is Clara Arnheim's "Daemmerstimmung am Kurfuerstendamm," which puts on canvas a misty twilight of umbrellas and automobiles on Berlin's busiest boulevard.

Show Criss-Cross Speed.

Another painting which appeals to those who can see romance in modern traffic is "Potsdamer Platz," by Erich Krantz. With a clever emphasis on horizontal lines Krantz manages to evoke the sensation of criss-cross speed which pedestrians experience at metropolitan intersections. Another busy intersection, pictured, however in an utterly different mood, is seen in Benno Wulfsohn's "Strassenkreuzung."

Here the whirl of cars about the central figure of a traffic policeman is suggestive of a festive dance. Rhythm, rather than speed, is emphasized.

Auto Given a Drink.

Not all of the exhibiting artists, of course, found their inspiration in metropolitan traffic. Ernest Neuschul, for instance, achieves in "Tanken" a composition of indefinable charm with the commonplace subject of service station attendants refueling a not particularly modern automobile. After all, reasons this painter, why should a couple of apples and a banana, labeled "Still Life," be considered more beautiful than an automobile getting a drink?

What in any other kind of art exhibit doubtless would bear some such title as "Nudes Descending a Staircase" are several studies of undraped chassis coming down the assembly line in an automobile factory.

provides that 40 per cent of the total cost must be paid by the owners of abutting property.

The bill provides money for six additional employes for the busy Public Utilities Commission, and for 17 new employes in the office of the building inspector.

For the construction of a new $500,000 bridge on Connecticut avenue over Klingle Valley, $250,000 is provided, and for the construction of a viaduct over the Baltimore & Ohio tracks at Monroe street, $135,000 is provided. The railroad will have to match this sum.

Seaport For Stockton, Calif.

Stockton, Calif., March 17 (A.P.).—Construction of a deep water channel from San Francisco to Stockton will be started this spring. Six million dollars will be spent to make Stockton a port. The distance is 54 miles.

WICKERSHAM SPURS ENFORCEMENT QUIZ

CHAIRMAN'S VIEW CITED

transcript is expected to be available today after Mr. Wickersham has had an opportunity to correct it.

Contrast Is Noted.

In the meantime, it is understood that his testimony was in sharp contrast to the general picture that is given of enforcement today, the picture that is wrought out of charges and countercharges of corruption, and the report of the commission itself several months ago that there has been a general breakdown of law enforcement.

Mr. Wickersham is understood not to have looked at the matter in this pessimistic light at all. Rather, he is understood to have reported a noticeable improvement in enforcement the past year, a steady tightening up under Mr. Hoover.

And he told newspapermen later that one of the commission's very competent investigators had reported that prohibition was enforced better than any other Federal law.

Withdrawal Check Sought.

He did take occasion, however, to recommend another law, one that will make it possible for the Government to trace alcohol after it has been withdrawn by industry under permit. The Government has no way of following these withdrawals to illicit channels now, it is said. He told the committee that importations could not be controlled with the present number of border patrolmen, but then there is already legislation pending to increase the number to 10,000.

The commission had run across scattered cases of corruption, Mr. Wickersham is understood to have told the committee, but no widespread instances of it. The improvement in enforcement he attributed to placing of dry agents under civil service, "to increasing vigor on the part of officers, greater attention on the part of the administration and to a general perfection in methods growing out of experience."

There was no mention of "Whig traditions," the "right of revolution" and other such phrases as the commission stressed in its hastily prepared report several months ago and which gave solace to the wets while the rest of the report was meat for the drys.

Wickersham Views Cited.

In fact, Mr. Wickersham made it quite plain to the committee that the commission had been proceeding from the beginning on the assumption that the eighteenth amendment was the law of the land, that all the people wanted it and that its job was to find a way to enforce it.

Leaving the committee Mr. Wickersham was asked by newspapermen what he thought of the 2.75 per cent beer proposal. He replied that that would not "satisfy a robust appetite."

The impression was rather general, in fact, that Mr. Wickersham is getting drier and drier all the time. But the commission is by no means through with its great study. It has compiled about 26 volumes on prohibition but still needs about a year.

SMALLPOX STRIKES GANDHI VOLUNTEER

BRITISH SEE FAILURE

Anan, Bombay Presidency, India, March 17 (A.P.).—A case of smallpox was discovered today in Mahatma Gandhi's group of volunteer marchers in the civil disobedience campaign. The dreaded disease already had broken out at Gandhi's "Ashram," or college of devotees near Ahmadabad, before the marchers set out last week.

Gandhi, who was observing his weekly day of silence, ordered that the stricken volunteer be kept here until he recovered, and that under no circumstances should he be allowed to return to Ahmadabad. There were 22 cases reported in the "Ashram" on the eve of Gandhi's departure.

Gandhi and all his volunteers have been suffering from the intense heat of the Indian sun during their march, and there have even been reports from British sources that they might be obliged to give up their journey to Jalalpur, which starts again tomorrow. The mahatma himself, however, shows no signs of faint-heartedness.

When a volunteer asked for permission to visit his home in Baroda, promising to return in the evening, Gandhi refused, asking his followers, "How can we go home now?"

A. P. Moore Will Filed, Queen Receives Sum

Pittsburgh, March 17 (A.P.).—The will of Alexander P. Moore, late Ambassador to Poland, containing bequests to Queen Victoria of Spain and Mrs. Enrico Caruso, widow of the noted Italian tenor, was filed for probate here today. The will disclosed that the estate had a value of at least $500,000.

The Queen of Spain was given $100,000 for use in her work to aid the poor and sick in Spain. Moore formerly was a Minister to Spain. Mrs. Caruso received $25,000. The Ambassador and Mrs. Caruso were close friends.

HALT IN MEMORIAL TO FOCH EXPLAINED

2,000 HAD BEEN INVITED

Cancellation of plans for the Marshal Foch memorial services, which were to have been held in St. Matthew's Church Thursday, has averted embarrassment to an honorary committee including several Cabinet members, senators and high military and naval officials, Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, stated yesterday.

Charging that Kenneth D. Murphy was organizer of the Foch memorial committee, Mr. Fish said that he had warned several members of the honorary committee to withdraw. Following this action, Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, who was to have presided at the requiem mass, cancelled the affair.

Murphy, it was learned, had planned a meeting at the Mayflower Hotel after the services, and it was reported that efforts to raise funds for a monument to Marshal Foch would be launched at this session.

Invitations to the services honoring the generalissimo of the allied armies during the World War had been sent to 2,000 people, including President Hoover and men high in Government and diplomatic circles.

"I was astounded to learn how many prominent men Murphy had obtained for his committee," Mr. Fish said. "Murphy, according to the War Department, enlisted in the National Guard after the armistice, and was injured when he fell off a horse. Archbishop Curley has saved his church and many prominent local people from embarrassment by cancelling the service."

Mr. Fish said that he intended to air the affair on the floor of the House today in order that the facts might get into the record.

20,000 Marchers Honor St. Patrick

Thousands Line Sidewalks of New York to See Annual Parade.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Thousands of people lined Fifth avenue for more than 60 blocks today for the annual St. Patrick's day parade in which it was estimated 20,000 marchers took part. The parade was composed largely of Irish societies and many of the groups were in colorful attire, the predominant color being, of course, green.

As the marchers passed St. Patrick's Cathedral they were reviewed by Cardinal Hayes and members of the clergy.

In the reviewing stand, at Sixty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, were representatives of the State and city. Grover Whalen, New York's sartorial police commissioner, was in the stand wearing a green necktie. Joseph V. McKee, president of the board of aldermen, and John F. Curry, Tammany leader, were among those who were in the stand. Sheriff Thomas M. Farley was grand marshal.

ADJUSTING FIRE LOSSES:

A Fine Record of Fair Dealing

The last licking flame has been quenched. The firemen have returned to their stations. Ashes—smoke—stains—water-soaked contents—then the adjuster.

All day long and every day the adjuster meets people who have sustained losses against which they were insured. Whether greeted cordially or gruffly, the adjuster must handle his problem with tact and fairness. The reputation of his company goes with him into every case.

Nearly a million reports of fire loss are filed annually with the Stock Fire Insurance companies. Of the claims arising from these reports, more than 99 percent are adjusted without resort to litigation; a splendid tribute to the fairness of the contracting parties—the public and the fire insurance companies.

It is the constant effort of the Stock Fire Insurance companies to employ only honest and competent adjusters, to the end that legitimate claims may be settled fairly in conformity with the rights of the interested parties.

The adjuster is appraised by his ability to arrive at the proper amount of loss and to avoid claims originating from that enemy to society—the arsonist.

The public confidence in Stock Fire Insurance is in a large measure due to the fair dealing of its adjusters.

Medal Award To Eckener Is Due in Capital

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE National Geographic Society has sent out invitations for Thursday evening, March 27 at 8:30 o'clock, at the Washington Auditorium, when the society's special gold medal will be presented to Dr. Hugo Eckener for his work in furthering the development of airships and to commemorate the first round-the-world flight of the Graf Zeppelin under his command in 1929.

Dr. Eckener will come from his home in Germany especially for the presentation of the medal and will speak on the ultimate significance of the historic air voyage which ended at Lakehurst, N. J., the terminus of a 19,300 mile route. Motion pictures made during this first around-the-world flight of a dirigible will give the spectators much of the thrill the sense of international unity experienced by those on board.

When Dr. Eckener and the members of his staff visited Washington following the close of their momentous cruise they were much feted by German Embassy officials and others of the official group, and many Washingtonians had opportunity to meet them at a delightful reception given by Dr. Otto Kiep, then Charge d'Affaires of Germany, and Frau Kiep. Presumably there will be some entertaining for the distinguished visitor this time, although it will of necessity be informal in character, since he will be here before the close of the period of official mourning for the late President Taft.

Members of the Diplomatic Corps, the Supreme Court, the Cabinet and Congress, as well as scientists and distinguished aviators, have been invited to the special meeting of the National Geographic Society arranged to honor Dr. Eckener.

The special gold medal of the National Geographic Society has previously been awarded to Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, Raould Amundsen, who received this honor twice; to Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, Grove Karl Gilbert, Maj. Gen. George W. Goethals, Sir Ernest Shackelton, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, Floyd Bennett and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Presumably the Geographic Society will stage another big demonstration when Admiral Byrd returns to this country after his recent prolonged stay in the Antarctic, for the society contributed handsomely to the expenses of this important scientific expedition.

Mme. Bachke Hostess At Country Club Tea.

Mme. Bachke wife of the Minister of Norway, entertained a small group of guests yesterday informally at tea at the National Woman's Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. William McClellan Ritter have canceled the dinner they were to have given tonight in honor of the Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell, in deference to the period of official mourning.

Mr. Joseph Himes and his small son, Canfield Himes, left yesterday for Cuba and will remain in Havana during the boy's vacation. During their absence Mrs. Himes will be at their apartment at 1705 K street. Later in the spring Mrs. Himes expects to go to California for a brief stay, taking her daughter, Miss Marilynn Himes, with her. Little Miss Himes, who is an accomplished equestrienne, will take part in the Society Circus at Fort Myer on March 20, and has entered her pony, Peggy, in the National Capital Horse Show to be held at the show grounds in Bradley Hills from May 14 to May 17.

New York Wedding Interests Capital.

A wedding of interest took place in New York Saturday when Miss Mirsta Yanovska-Yanschevska, of Riga, Latvia, and Dr. George Evans, jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. George Evans, of New York, were married at a simple ceremony performed by the Rev. Paul S. Sherer before a group including only immediate members of the two families. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bridegroom at 54 Park avenue.

The Latvian consul general in New York, Mr. Arthur B. Lule, gave the bride in marriage in the absence of her father, who is editor of the government newspaper in Riga.

The father of the bride, Mr. Jacob Yonovska-Yanchevska, is one of the literary and political leaders of the Latvian republic. At one time a subject of the Czar, he escaped with difficulty with his family at the time of the Red uprising. He was later named to represent his government here after the organization of the new republic, serving at various times in Washington, New York and afterward in Warsaw as Latvian Minister to Poland.

During his stay in Washington his daughter made her home with him, and on his return to Europe remained here.

It was in Washington that she met and became a close friend of Signora Alberto Lais, wife of the former naval attache of the Italian Embassy, who was before her marriage Miss Leonre M. Evans, a sister of Dr. Evans.

Capital Dons Bit o' Green in Saint's Honor

March 17 Is Observed by Various Groups in District.

With the Minister of Ireland, Mr. Michael MacWhite, involved in many of the celebrations of St. Patrick's Day, including the Ancient Order of Hibernians' banquet last night, and Mr. Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, a speaker at the dinner given by the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, of which Col. Arthur O'Brien is president, society may be said to have gone in for "the wearing of the green." Yesterday, moreover, was doubly festive for Senator Patrick J. Sullivan, whose birthday it was. He appeared without the customary touch of green however, announcing in his best brogue "I don't need to wear anything to show I'm Irish."

Another distinguished Irishman, Sir John Joyce Broderick, Commercial Counselor of the British Embassy, was the guest of honor and speaker at the Woman's National Democratic Club's forum luncheon yesterday, where St. Patrick's Day was celebrated in fitting style. The subject of his talk was "St. Patrick's Day Observance."

In the company were Lady Broderick, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Cordell Hull, Mrs. Frank Bright, Mrs. George M. Eckels, Miss Ruth Oberly, Mrs. J. E. Trimble, Mrs. R. M. Mulcare, Mrs. J. E. Mills, Mrs. John Walsh, Mrs. N. P. Webster, Mrs. Roland K. Smith, Miss Ethel Ketcham, Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. Edward B. Meigs, Mrs. D. Tucker Brown, Mrs. James G. Penn, Mrs. Tate, Mrs. W. J. Lambert, Miss Connolly, Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin, Miss Cornelia Bassel, Mrs. Donald MacDonald, Mrs. Stephen Gambrill, Mrs. Frank Hiram Snell and Mrs. Richard Burleson.

Also in the company were Miss Ida Mapel and her guest, Miss Harriet Keith Fobes, of New York. Miss Fobes will be the guest of honor and speaker at the weekly dinner Thursday evening at the club. She will give an exhibition of Oriental jewelry and will make an address on the subject.

Hand wrought jewelry, gems and rare amber from India and China, Egypt and Sicily will be shown by Miss Fobes at the club after dinner and on Friday from 10 a. m. until 6 p. m.

A craftsman as well as a collector, Miss Fobes has assembled rare stones in various parts of the world, setting them in many instances after her own designs. Her collection is so fine that she has been invited to exhibit them at the Metropolitan Museum of Fine Arts in New York.

Patronesses Announced For Student Card Fete.

Laurels Won By Hungarian Artist Abroad

Sir Philip de Laszlo Is Elected Head of British Group.

Sir Philip de Laszlo, Hungarian born, who was facetiously known as "the court painter of the Harding administration," has just garnered fresh laurels in England, having been elected president of the Royal Society of Great Britain Artists. As a naturalized British subject, Sir Philip has lived and worked for many years in London, where in the early days of his career he earned a precarious living by coloring photographs and designing theatrical scenery. Since then he has become world famous as a portrait painter and has done portraits of many of the crowned heads of Europe, as well as of American notables.

Some years ago Mr. de Laszlo came to Washington in connection with an exhibition of his work held at the Corcoran Gallery and it was at this time that he painted President and Mrs. Harding and many members of the Harding Cabinet, among them Secretary Mellon, of the Treasury, and Mr. Charles Evans Hughes, then Secretary of State and now Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. His portrait of President Harding was considered remarkably fine and he did a most charming pastel sketch of Mrs. Harding, which was hung for a time over the mantel in the oval living room above the blue room at the White House.

Sir Philip has done portraits of King Edward, Queen Alexandra, the former kaiser, Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, Queen Elizabeth of Greece, former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, the late Theodore Roosevelt and Pope Leo XIII.

Representative and Mrs. Guy U. Hardy entertained several guests at dinner Sunday evening at their residence, 2017 Belmont road. Among those present were Representative and Mrs. Samuel S. Arentz, Representative Robert Luce, Representative John C. Allen Representative Melvin J. Maas and Representative Joseph W. Martin, jr.

Mrs. Jacob Leander Loos left yesterday for New York and will remain until Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Funkenstaedt Take Summer Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Finkenstaedt have taken a cottage at Gibson Island, Md., for the summer months. Mr. and Mrs. Corrin Strong and Mr. and Mrs. George T. Summerlin, jr., are others who will join the Washington colony at this pleasant Maryland resort, having taken cottages for the season.

Mrs. Harry K. Curtis, daughter-in-law of Vice President Curtis, arrived in town yesterday from Chicago and is at the Mayflower, accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Thompson, also of Chicago. Mr. Curtis will join Mrs. Curtis in Washington on Wednesday and will accompany her and Mrs. Thompson to New York the last of the week.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE: We are beginning to hear a great deal about plans for the Metropolitan Opera season which we are to have the latter part of April. It promises to be a brilliant engagement, with music lovers turning out in full force. That it will be a particularly fashionable event goes without saying. Coming just then, every one will have the fun of initiating new spring evening gowns and wraps. I happen to know that many wonderful costumes have been ordered already. There are several reasons why this season will surpass anything we have had so far. Consequently, the shops all over town have made special preparations to supply the needs for this occasion, and are planning exhibits of advanced summer models appropriate for wear at the opera.

People Who Are Photographed

—often are always looking for something new in photography. Underwood & Underwood create many lovely new ideas in mountings and finish to satisfy this demand, as well as for the pure delight in creating something thoroughly artistic.

If you look at their window today you will find a display of handsome photographs done in a most original manner. The subjects are young women of apparently more than ordinary beauty. The photographs are circular with French mats, and the result too perfect for words. I do not know the price of these photographs, but you will like them so well you will undoubtedly go in and ask about that for yourself.

As you have been told often, there is a very excellent photograph at Underwood & Underwood's available for $20 a dozen. These pictures are made by the same artists who make the sittings for the most expensive finish and mountings. You will agree that you have seldom seen lovelier photographic portraits for that price.

Pasternak Displays For Jeune Fille

—are creating a decided sensation this spring. Young girls have taken for their own the second floor shop in Pasternak's devoted to displays of frocks and suits in the styles they love and at prices moderate enough to allow for the purchase of several at one time.

There are so many adorable models at $19.50. To see them is the only way you can possibly appreciate them. The models for street and all-day wear in the new fabrics and colors are too charming to describe. While these may be had in size 12, 13, 15 and 17, many of them are in larger sizes, too.

Hats to match at $10, $12.50 and $15 are featured. There are a thousand ways to save money and still look smart at Pasternak's, 1219 Connecticut avenue.

Ackerman's Alter Your Suits

—and coats in a way which will make you satisfied and happy, and glad that you had the good fortune to know of this efficient establishment. You remember, of course, that Ackerman's was formerly located at 2604 Connecticut avenue, but in the new location at 1734 Connecticut avenue, they give the same service you have been accustomed to. They will call for your garments which are to be cleaned and return them to you at the time you expect them.

Ackerman, during a long period of experience, has done particular work for particular people. Take them the things in your wardrobe which need fixing up for spring.

Strawberry Shortcake At Caroline's

—is featured on their spring menus. You may have fresh rhubarb pie too, and broccoli with Hollandaise sauce and all the delicious things which you want this time of year. Caroline's Cafeteria serves dinner for 65 cents and 55 cents. The quality of the food at this price seems hard to believe. Caroline's, 734 Fifteenth street, may seem to you a trifle off the beaten track, but once you have found it, you will decide it is worth while to go back as often as you conveniently can. The same dinner at many other places would cost you twice as much.

Elizabeth Arden's Ideas of Make-Up

—have always been a step or two ahead. Elizabeth Arden maintains that rouge may be used, but it never shows, that powder may be used if it is never apparent. Elizabeth Arden says that a lovely skin is one that is naturally lovely, so clear, so fine, so smooth that there is no need of concealing its texture under a coating of cosmetics.

If you just keep your skin healthy, it will be beautiful. You must cleanse it thoroughly to keep the pores free and active. You must tone it to stimulate the circulation which clears and brightens the skin. You must nourish the tissues to keep them smooth and full and unlined. Venetian Cleansing Cream, Ardena Skin Tonic and Orange Skin Food fulfill these important needs of the skin. Call at Elizabeth Arden's, 1147 Connecticut avenue, and learn more.

In case you have forgotten, the address you asked for is Ogilvie Sisters, 1128 Connecticut avenue.

Affectionately,

MANBY DEATH BARES STORY OF EXTORTION

One Family Paid $14,000 to Bogus Secret Society, New Mexican Says.

SPELL OF FEAR BROKEN

Taos, N. Mex., March 17 (A.P.).—Delving into the mysterious death of A. R. Manby, Englishman, and the equally mysterious ventures with which he was connected, investigators announced today they have uncovered a trial of extortion and intimidation through the "United States Secret Service Society," declared to be largely a mythical organization.

Manby, a recluse whose decapitated body was found in his home here last July 3, was one of the chiefs of the organization which dealt in fantastic enterprises, secret reports on crimes and staggering financial figures.

Deputy Sheriff Herbert Cheetam, investigating the case, said he had obtained evidence from members of the society that one family was bunco-ed out of $14,000 over a period of three years.

Sealed Lips Are Opened.

The spell of fear which has closed the lips of certain persons in Taos, Cheetam added, has been broken. He said local leaders of the purported society have been revealed as Manby, Terecita Ferguson, now at liberty under $1,000 bond in connection with local robberies, including the looting of the Taos studio of Mr. and Mrs. John Younghunter, New York artists; her common law husband, Carmel Duran, in jail in default of $5,100 bond on similar charges, and George Ferguson, in jail at Raton, N. Mex., on these charges and also for highway robbery.

The society trafficked in weird reports of purported secret investigators and fantastic sums of money were mentioned in papers left by Manby.

"Severino Guitterez," reputed head of a branch of the organization and a great detective known in the so-cialties' circles as "Craig Kenneth," were fictitious characters, Cheetam said.

"We believe beyond a doubt that the handwriting of Severino Guitterez, Craig Kenneth and one of the members of the Manby-Fereguson circle are the same," the deputy sheriff said. Other investigators corroborated him. A communication delivered to a member of the society reported the death of Craig Kenneth written in the most approved detective fiction style. It said Kenneth was killed by the Lamar (Colo.) bank robbers. This is at variance with the known facts.

Fantastic Sum Promised.

Papers among Manby's effects indicate that the 69-year-old Englishman and Terecita Ferguson, young brunette with the three children, whom he described as the "princess of all my dreams," entered the society in 1926.

Miss Ferguson was to receive $2,-000,000 through the society, and later this amount was raised to $827,000,-000. Apparently the fabulous wealth was to come through fantastic claims to huge areas of land under vague old Spanish land grants.

English relatives have refused to accept a coroner's jury verdict that Manby died of natural causes and that a dog which was locked in the house was responsible for the decapitation. Department of Justice agents have been investigating the mysterious case at the direction of Washington authorities.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

This model is just about perfect in smart modified styling.

It is a beauty with its long-waisted bodice molded to the figure with pointed treatment that minimizes the width through the waist and hipline. The buttons down the back are such a youthful fashion and give lengthened line. The becoming round neckline has flat turn-down collar.

The circular flaring skirt dips its back hem in graceful new manner, now so important in afternoon mode.

It's interpreted in printed crepe silk in dark-hued ground, with motifs in dahlia shade. The collar is of eggshell crepe silk. The buttons are covered with silk in the dahlia shade.

Style No. 8135 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. In the medium size, it takes 3¼ yards of 39-inch material, with ½ yard of 32-inch contrasting.

Black crepe silk with white crepe silk collar with buttons covered in black with rims of white is chic.

Lanvin green crepe silk, orangey-red crepe Elizabeth, crepe marocain in purplish blue shade and printed chiffon appropriate.

All patterns of Lucille Lorraine styles are 15 cents each. Mail your order to our Fashion Department, Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City. Be sure to write your name and address clearly and give the number and size of the pattern.

NOBLEMAN IS DEAD IN FAMILY SLAYING

EMPLOYED IN WHEELING

Cambridge, Ohio, March 17 (A.P.).—A bullet wound, self-inflicted after he had shot to death his foster mother, Mrs. Mary Troette, 63, last night, today was fatal to Sir Charles Gilman-Adair, 37, said by police to be an English nobleman.

The nobleman's wife, Mrs. Helen Gilman-Adair, found the body of Mrs. Troette and her wounded husband late last night when she returned home from a visit with relatives.

Police said a pistol was found near Gilman-Adair. They attributed the shooting to the refusal of Mrs. Troette to advance money to her foster son. She was the widow of Judge John A. Troette, prominent Cambridge attorney.

Authorities said that Gilman-Adair inherited a title and an estate from his mother, who had been a resident of London and who died while he was very young.

Soon after her death, they said, the child was taken into the Troette home. Until recently, officials said, Gilman-Adair had been employed as a draftsman at a Wheeling, W. Va., office, but had kept his home here.

After an investigation, police said that Mrs. Troette had been struck by four bullets fired from the pistol found near Gilman-Adair. One bullet had entered the nobleman's head.

Besides his widow, Gilman-Adair is survived by a son, Troette Gilman-Adair, 14.

PERHAPS you have thought that all brands of macaroni are alike . . . You'll learn that there can be a tremendous difference the first time you try Mueller's. Here is a macaroni so vastly superior in taste and quality that one trial of it almost invariably results in continued use. It is America's largest selling brand.

Light and Fluffy

Mueller's Macaroni cooks up lighter and fluffier than any other—and it has a taste that is distinctively its own. This is because it is made as no other macaroni is made. Exclusive processes, used by no other manufacturer, result in bringing out all the flavor inherent in the choice farina used. And the clean, sanitary conditions that prevail in the sun-lit Mueller factory assure utmost purity.

Cooks in Nine Minutes

Mueller's Macaroni cooks thoroughly in just nine minutes. Follow the directions on the package and avoid the common mistake of overcooking—although one or two minutes more may be allowed if especial tenderness is desired. This delicious food contains an abundance of health-giving, body-building nourishment. It is a superior food for both children and adults.

Learn how very much better macaroni can be. Ask your grocer for Mueller's today. He has it or can get it for you.

There are hundreds of ways in which Mueller's macaroni products can be prepared, all delicious. Send for our book of recipes in which many special dishes are illustrated in color. No cost or obligation. Just write to

JURY FAILS TO NAME SLAYER OF WOMAN

UNKNOWN KILLER CITED

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 17 (A P.).—A verdict that Mrs. Dorothy Moormeister, wife of a Salt Lake City physician, was killed February 21 "by an unknown person or unknown persons with felonious intentions" was returned late today by a jury at the conclusion of the inquest into her death. The jury made no recommendation and was dismissed.

The verdict stated that the woman "was killed by being struck over the head with a piece of ore and then run over by a car."

Charles Peter, pointed out by two witnesses as resembling the man whom they saw abandon Mrs. Moormeister's car on a downtown street here the night of the murder, took the stand and denied he was anywhere near the place where the car was found.

Promoter Denies Intimacy.

Peter, a mining promoter, has admitted accompanying Mrs. Moormeister on an automobile ride a week before she was killed, but he denied statements of her sister, Miss Amelia Hugentobler, that he had been friendly with her and had sought to persuade her to divorce her husband, Dr Frank Moormeister.

Dr. Moormeister this afternoon told of his wife's desire for money and social position and said she had constantly urged him to settle property upon her. He declared she had accumulated approximately $17,000 in cash and securities in the three years they had been married.

Mrs. Moormeister's body, battered by a piece of copper ore and then mutilated beneath the wheels of her automobile, was found on a lonely road south of here.

Gay Life Is Disclosed.

The inquest into her death developed a story of a gay life which included a romance with a Persian prince whom she met in Paris last summer during an European trip with her husband and his daughter by a former marriage.

The romance was revealed by Dr. Moormeister after he had opened a secret chest following his wife's death.

The slain woman was Dr. Moormeister's second wife. His first wife was killed in an automobile accident in California.

Injunction Sought In Zoning Dispute

Denied the right to intervene in a suit brought under the zoning act, Arthur L. Bliss, of Coral Gables, Fla., and Dean E. Brown, of Washington, trustees of the Alonzo Bliss properties, yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to grant them a mandatory injunction against the Columbia Specialty Box Co., the District Commissioners and John W. Oehmann, District inspector of buildings.

The company seeks to restrain the Commissioners and the building inspector from revoking a permit to use the property they occupy as second commercial. The property, which is on First street northwest near the Capitol, is now being used as second commercial, although zoned as first commercial.

Justice Alfred A. Wheat issued a rule against the Commissioners and the inspector to show cause Friday why the mandatory injunction should not be issued.

Rift in Woman's Party Denied by Miss Vernon

Denying rumors that serious dissension in the National Woman's Party had prompted the recent resignation of several council members, including her own, Miss Mabel Vernon, former national executive secretary, yesterday said that the party remained "solidly united on all fundamental issues." Miss Vernon's resignation, effective May 1, was submitted at the last meeting of the organization, together with that of Mrs. Florence Brewer Boeckel, a member of the national council. Both announced that they were unable to give necessary attention to their work.

Divorce Plea Is Filed By Washington Woman

Helen C. Peer, of 1101 Fairmont street northwest, yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to grant her an absolute divorce from Anthony D. Peer, of Newport, R. I.

The wife tells the court that they were married in New York on December 31, 1925, and that within seven month he told her he was "tired of her." She names a co-respondent with whom she asserts her husband has been intimate. There are no children. Attorney C. W. C. Williams appears for the wife.

Shifts Are Announced In Col. Grant's Office

The second shift since the first of the year in the personnel connected with the office of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and parks, is due to take place within the next month.

Maj. Virgin L. Peterson, assistant to Lieut. Col. Grant, will be succeeded by Lieut. Frederic B. Butler, and Maj. J. C. Mehaffey, who has been acting as executive officer of the Arlington Memorial Bridge project, will be succeeded by Maj. H. D. Gillette.

20 DIE AS OIL CARGO OF RIVER SHIP BURNS

CAPTAIN REFUSES TO GO

Bogota, Colombia, March 17 (A.P.).—More than a score of passengers and many of the crew of the river steamer Bucaramanga lost their lives today when the boat's cargo of petroleum caught fire in dock at La Dorado on the Magdalena River. The ship was destroyed.

Only ten of a passenger list thought to number more than 30 were rescued. Most of the crew, including Capt. Antonio Veles, perished. Other steamers in La Dorada Harbor stood helplessly by, afraid to come to the rescue because of the explosive nature of the Bucaramanga's cargo.

Everyone but the night watch and a few of the crew was asleep when flames suddenly burst out on the boat. Trapped in their beds, men and women became panic-stricken and trampled each other to reach the decks. Those who succeeded leaped into the river, only to find themselves in the midst of another blaze, the flames having spread to oil floating in the water. Others tried to squeeze through portholes while the fire, fed by the bursting barrels of oil, mounted higher.

Capt. Veles, one of the first to reach deck, tried to get the lifeboats lowered away. When he saw that it was impossible to save his boat, he courageously refused to leave it and was burned to death.

The ten who were saved received first aid for their burns at a nearby hospital. The fire, at first believed to have been incendiary, now is thought to have resulted from the carelessness of a fireman. La Dorada is a small port about 450 miles upstream from the mouth of the Magdalena.

"Win That $500"

WHAT a splendid start $500 would be toward furnishing a new home—or for financing a honeymoon. And that would be but a portion of the big reward that may be earned between now and March 26 for a little effort in securing subscriptions for The Washington Post, because the person who wins this special award will also secure the greatest number of EXTRA VOTES of which 85,000 are being given for each $20 worth of new subscriptions secured in the period which began March 13. With the lead that can be thus obtained the candidate should most certainly also receive one of the 12 big automobiles that will be distributed after the close of the campaign on April 5, or one of the 16 splendid Atwater Kent or Majestic radios. As 10% cash commissions will be paid to qualifying contestants who do not win one of the big prizes there is no logical reason why any one who wishes to increase his or her income should not enter this campaign NOW!

LARGE "ARSON RING" BARED IN NEW YORK

$1,000,000 CLAIMS SEEN

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Existence of an "arson ring," whose work has resulted in fraudulent insurance claims which may reach $1,000,000 was said by Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney, today to have been uncovered with the arrest of Joseph Eisenstein, confessed professional incendiary.

Thirteen persons definitely have been linked with the ring, among whom are merchants who employed members of the ring to burn their establishments so they could collect fire insurance on goods which had been removed previous to the fire.

Mr. Tuttle said he had a number of confessions from merchants who employed the racketeers and he was checking up on information that the racket extended to several Eastern cities. Tuttle said that the original estimate of $500,000 fraudulently collected from fire insurance companies would have to be revised upward and that it may reach $1,000,000.

Eisenstein, arraigned today on two charges of second degree arson, was said by Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy to have admitted setting fire to a loft in West Twenty-seventh street, occupied by Louis Dachis, furrier, for which Dachie had paid him $750 and promised him $2,250 more. Dachis is now under indictment on charges growing out of the burning of his establishment.

Hyman Lerner and Benjamin Greenberg, furriers, who, Eisenstein said, hired him to fire their shop, were held by United States Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter in $2,000 bail each today on charges of using the mails to defraud. They will be tried in Federal Court on those charges, because there is no Federal law covering arson.

Aunt Knew What to Do

"My daughter Gertrude was very much rundown. She was all broken out with pimples and eruptions on her hands and legs. I tried everything for her but nothing did her much good. She was only 16 years old and was working at tailoring. Her aunt Sophia advised us to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she has gained in every way. Her skin and color are good, her nerves are better, she has a good appetite now and seems well and strong. We think the Vegetable Compound is the best medicine for girls to take and we will answer letters asking about it."—Mrs. Mary Earle, 817 S. Montford Ave., Baltimore, Maryland.

INCOME TAX TOTALS GIVE TREASURY HOPE

Chances That Returns Will Meet Requirements Are Increased.

REPORTS ARE WITHHELD

(Associated Press.)

On the basis of preliminary telegraphic returns received yesterday from more important internal revenue offices, Treasury officials are somewhat more hopeful than they have been as to the chances of the March 15 income tax installment measuring up to the Government's requirements.

Secretary Mellon withheld the figures. It was said that they ran under receipts at the same offices last year, and are being withheld because of their incomplete character and because within three or four days definite totals will be available.

Last March personal and corporation incomes brought into the Treasury $601,000,000. In spite of a cut in the tax rate and fears for the effect on incomes of the stock market collapse of 1929, the budget calls for collections of $550,000,000 from the March installment this year.

For the first fourteen days of the month, the actual receipts have not been up to levels which would produce this sum, and there have been calculations that the total might run to $100,000,000 below estimates.

Up to the close of business on March 14, the Treasury had collected $49,358,998, compared with $56,804,350 for the same period a year ago.

Secretary Mellon was of the opinion that the receipts totaled today and the next day may give a conclusive indication of collections to be expected, but that this was not certain. The figures wired in yesterday are believed to contain estimates, as the extensive work of tabulating and adding the many returns could hardly have been completed in so short a time.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

The provision in the traffic regulations which bans parking in the space set aside for a bus stop has for its purpose the convenience and safety of persons who ride in public vehicles. It is an instance of the way in which the law affects and benefits all users of the street or highway.

To park one's car in a bus stop zone is to overlook the fact that it is not only causing a public inconvenience but creating congestion and a danger point for other motorists. When the space at the curb is blocked, a bus must stop outside a line of parked cars, making it necessary for other traffic frequently to pass beyond the center of the street.

Example: Pulling into a bus stop zone, a driver waits in his car while his wife goes into a store. Though he stands there only a few minutes, it is a violation of the regulation.

U. S. Bullfighter's Recovery Is Seen

Brooklyn Matador Gets Many Messages of Hope From Spanish Fans.

Madrid, March 17 (A.P.).—Sydney Franklin, Brooklyn matador who was seriously gored by a bull yesterday, was resting easier late today and his physicians said that unless complications developed his recovery could be expected.

The Brooklyn bullfighter, who has made a name for himself in Spain because of his fearlessness and skill, received many messages of good wishes from other bullfighters and enthusiasts of the Spanish sport.

Franklin was caught on the right horn of a vicious black bull, which tossed him about for several minutes. He was rescued finally, but not before the animal had gouged him in the gluteal region. Whether he ever will be able to fight again can not be told yet.

AUDITORIUM

After many years' absence from the stage, Robert Downing, the Washington actor, returned to the boards last night in a revival of John Banim's play, "Damon and Pythias." As Damon, Mr. Downing appeared years ago.

Isaac Gans, well-known Washingtonian, told of Mr. Downing's proposed transcontinental tour in three of his old plays, the other two being "Ingomar, the Barbarian," and "Virginius."

After the second act, Mr. Downing made a speech in which he recalled the glories of the old theater, before the advent of the movies.

In the cast with Mr. Downing are Aimee Andree, Herbert Delmore, playing Pythias; Harry Hawley, Helen Dale Brown, J. W. Bayly, Ken Cartier, Raymond Barrett, Eugene Bergman, Ralph Vernon, Lawrence Marlowe and Clarence Robbins.

Beginning Thursday night, Mr Downing and his players will present "Ingomar" for the remainder of the week.

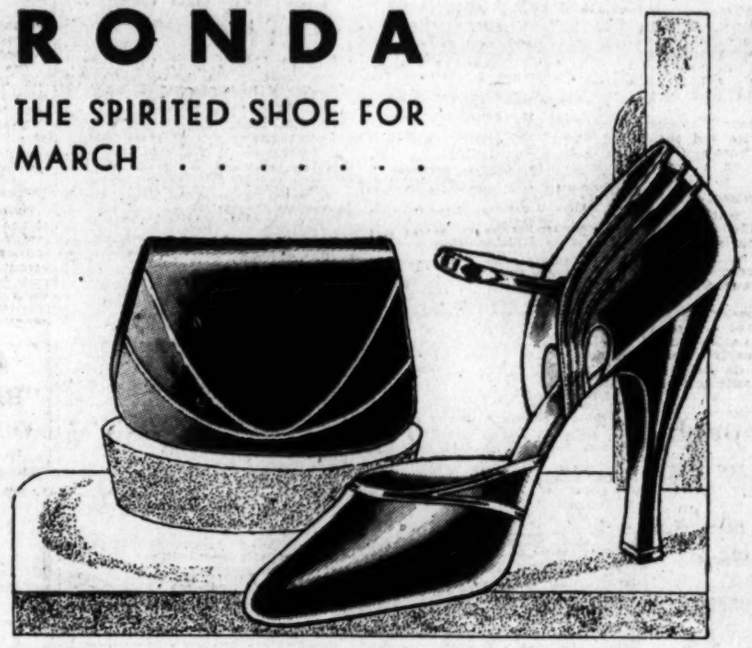
I. MILLER PRESENTS THE

RONDA

THE SPIRITED SHOE FOR MARCH . . . . . .



AVAILABLE IN THREE COLORS WITH CLEVER CONTRASTS

$16.50 and $18.50

This open shank sandal fairly sparkles with Springtime. Blithesome. Graceful. A gay and adorable creation that makes one actually ache for afternoons and evenings along the fashionable avenues.

And obviously, such a shoe deserves a variety of treatments. It wouldn't be fair to dress it in one material alone: So . . . to please ourselves and most particularly, Madame, to please you, we're presenting it in Black, Blue and Parchment Kidskin with parallel bands in contrast to make your foot look smaller.

See the graceful heel. The upward sweep of the vamp. The slender, knowing strap with its center buckle . . . And of course, whether you try this slipper at The Hecht Company or at the I. Miller Custom Shoe Salon, you'll find a bag—the bag—to match.

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF March 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m., and from 6 p. m to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

There will be a "mixed grill" of events on this date, most of which will be either pleasing or profitable in character. Very favorable influences hover over homes and home life. A thoroughly good time for health.

Children born on this March 18 will have happy-go-lucky natures and they will follow the roads of least resistance. They will learn easily, but will not make thorough and careful students. They will have extravagant tastes.

You are usually credited with sound judgment, not only in business, but in all relationships of life. You will never acquire wealth or success by some daring stroke. On the other hand, you are destined to be fairly well fixed by dint of plodding and saving. You might acquire more by being a trifle venturesome and not quite so close-fisted.

You are not without artistic instincts and are passionately fond of good music and high-class literature, although by no means a highbrow. Social entertainment makes no appeal to you. Your interest lies in the home, where, free from interruption, you can quietly amuse yourself.

Little worries and petty annoyances do more to disturb your equanimity than the big blows of adversity. When the latter enters your life, you square your shoulders, grit your teeth, put your back to the wall—and fight. When, however, a trifle goes wrong, you go to pieces, and lose a grip of yourself. You are not very mindful of your health, and, even though you may be robust, the human machine is a complicated one, and needs overhauling from time to time. Your love attachments will be drab, rather than highly emotional.

Successful people born March 18:
William Duer—Statesman.
John C. Calhoun—Statesman.
Grover Cleveland — Twenty-second President of United States.
J. Phelps Stokes—Socialist.
Emma Carus—Actress.
Nathaniel G. Herrshoff—Boat designer.

SPAGHETTI AU BACON.

1 package spaghetti
4 slices bacon diced
1 onion (1 clove of garlic)
1 can tomato soup
1 can water
Grated cheese to suit

Cook and drain spaghetti as usual nine minutes, put diced bacon and cut up onion (and garlic) in a frying pan. Cook to golden brown, then add to the onion and bacon in the frying pan the can of tomato soup and can of water, also 1 green pepper cut up. Bring to a good boil. Put layer of spaghetti in casserole, pour over some of the sauce, then some grated cheese. Repeat until casserole is filled. Bake for one-half hour.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

One of the most popular colors now is dark bottle green—here it is in a simply tailored model from David, Paris.

Paris, March 17.

"IS it true that the humble sweater is a thing of the absolute past?" Thus demanded the inquisitive gentleman who wanted to get a lot of information for nothing.

Well, more or less, responds the mischievous lady who doesn't want to give away all her information, either for nothing or for anything.

But, as a matter of fact, it all depends on what you mean by sweater. If you mean the sweater coat sort of thing that you used to slip on over a skirt and blouse or a dress, for no other reason than warmth, the answer is "Yes!" But slip-on and pull-over sweaters that take the place of a blouse, to be worn with tweed and jersey tailleurs, are smarter than they ever were.

Very often these slip-on and pull-over sweaters, or woolen blouses, if you prefer to call them that, match the jacquette of the suit, whereas the skirt is of heavy silk crepe or shantung. At other times these sweater blouses match the suit material exactly in color and weave, but are of a different material.

That for the humble sweater, then, in all of its newly glorified glory!

* * * *

Well done; that's the word that surely must apply to David sport dresses. Possibly because he specializes in this type of sports dress, being otherwise a man's tailor.

And there is a bottle-green sports dress of this famous designer illustrated for you today!

* * * *

When they are so inexpensive, what with being short and wrappy and usually unlined, there is no excuse for anybody not having two or three or five evening wraps this year! And then on top of that La Chic Secretaire says that to really outdo your own boss in elegance all you have to do is to save up your pennies for a lovely fur collar and cuff set and have it made so you can baste it on each evening wrap.

But let's start with the short evening coat, and start by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make several of the very smartest and simplest ones.

Smart Parisiennes are wearing a new type of a fitted tennis visor, made of green cotton voile, with a substantial crown piece which keeps it from slipping down over the face. I thought you'd like to see it, so there it is illustrated for you today.

* * * *

Just gotta describe it for you—I can't keep it to myself another minute! I saw it in one of the new spring collections and I gasped and oh'd and ah'd so heartily that the mannequin hovered near me and let me take an extra special look.

The frock was simple enough in line, just a soft chiffon with a cape collar and a full, flared skirt. It was the coloring that was so gorgeously unusual. A darkish green, not bright and not dull, a sort of medium green, tending toward bottle color, the whole dress of this plain material. And the shoes were a heavenly fuchsia-purple shade, matching a necklace and bracelet of crystal. Could anything be nicer, now, really?

Oh, that reminds us to remind you of the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Washington Post each Sunday.

Eighteenth Bridge by Radio Game on WRC Today

West receives a fair share of luck in the eighteenth radio bridge game to be broadcast through WRC at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The deal leaves the cards as follows.

Lieut. Alfred M. Gruenther, U. S. A., "South," the dealer, Holds: Spades, A, 7, 6, 4; Hearts, 8, 7, 4; Diamonds, K, Q, 8, 6, 5; Clubs, 8.

Ely Culbertson, of New York City, "West," holds: Spades, K, J; Hearts, A, K, J; Diamonds, A, 4, 3; Clubs, A, K, Q, 6, 3.

Mrs. Harry B. Jones, of Youngstown, Ohio, "North," holds: Spades, Q, 10, 8; Hearts, Q, 5, 3, 2; Diamonds, 9, 7; Clubs, 10, 9, 7, 4.

Mrs. Isabel Jenkins, of Ottawa, Canada, "East," holds: Spades, 9, 5, 3, 2; Hearts, 10, 9, 6; Diamonds, J, 10, 2; Clubs, J, 5, 2.

The games are prepared under the personal supervision of Milton C. Work, international authority and teacher of bridge. Tomorrow morning a summary will appear exclusively in this paper. It is suggested that readers clip these summaries and thus keep a permanent record of the hands as broadcast. These can not be secured other than through The Washington Post.

AUCTION AND CONTRACT BRIDGE
MILTON C. WORK
(The World's Leading Authority.)

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.

The Contract bidding would be: South one No Trump, which North would jump to three.

When the hand was played, West led the Trey of Hearts, dummy played the Jack, hoping that the lead had been from King-Queen, but when the Queen covered, the Declarer was limited to one Heart trick. Declarer thought that he must finesse Diamonds and figured that if the finesse failed West would be in to cash his remaining Hearts; and that nothing would be gained by holding up the Heart Ace so as to exhaust East's Hearts. Consequently South played his Ace on the first trick and won the second and third with the Ace and King of Spades. Then dummy was put in the lead with a Club at trick 4 to lead the Queen of Diamonds for a finesse; if it had won, the Declarer would have taken 11 tricks, but it lost and the adversaries saved game by running four Heart tricks.

The Correct Play.

The hand might be played in various ways, but the best chance for game lay in holding up the Ace of Hearts until the third round and then leading a Club from South, playing just high enough from dummy to keep West from getting the next lead; it would do no harm to lose to East because that hand would be out of Hearts and must surrender the lead to Declarer. With the cards as they lay, Declarer in that way could make three Spades, one Heart, one Diamond and four Clubs—game.

HONEY FRUIT CAKE.
(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

3 cups flour.
2 teaspoons soda.
3 ½ cups honey.
1 cup butter.
6 eggs.
2 teaspoons cinnamon.
2 teaspoons ginger
3 teaspoons ground cardamon seed.
½ teaspoon cloves
3 pounds raisins (seeded).
½ pound currants.
1 pound citron.
1 pound candied cherries.
1 pound candied apricots.
1 pound candied pineapple.
½ cup sour jelly, or ½ cup white grape juice.
2 teaspoons vanilla.
2 ounces candied orange peel.
2 ounces candied lemon peel.
Cut the candied fruit into small pieces, with the exception of the cherries, which should be left whole.

Place the fruit in a large dish and sift over it one-half of the flour, mixing thoroughly. Sift the soda with the remainder of the flour. Bring the honey and the butter to boiling point and while still hot add the spices. When the mixture is cool, add the well-beaten yolks of the eggs, then the flour and grape juice or jelly and the well-beaten whites. Finally, add the fruit. The cake should be divided into three or four parts and put into buttered dishes covered with buttered paper, tied closely over the tops. Steam for five hours, remove the paper, and bake in a very slow oven for an hour. This makes a very rich cake consisting chiefly of fruit. For the sake of economy, the flour can be increased to even twice the quantity without affecting the quality very much.

Behind the Screens

—With NELSON B. BELL—

ANOTHER of the foreign film stars of the first flight has come through with a remarkably able performance entirely in English. With the anticipatory fears of Greta Garbo's ability to cope with a tricky tongue definitely put at rest by "Anna Christie," it is pleasant to observe that Vilma Banky likewise has achieved a comparable success in "A Lady to Love," current at the Palace.

Of the two, Miss Garbo has a little the better of it in the matter of accent. Miss Banky's throaty gutturals are distinctly Germanic and, I am afraid, of that physiologically ingrained character that can not be easily eradicated. Her organs of speech seem to be better fashioned to cope with the vowels and umlauts of the mother tongue than with the more strident American cadences.

The same future problem confronts both gifted artistes—that of the selection of vehicles that will make the slight suggestion of foreign accent "in character." In each initial venture crudities of speech are glossed over by the type of character portrayed. Miss Garbo was a world-soiled victim of her father's bungling, in "Anna Christie;" in "A Lady to Love" Miss Banky is a Swiss-born German waitress, looking for any convenient "out" from a life of monotonous and back-breaking drudgery.

It seems to me that the most potent factor in the future careers of these admirable actresses is the casting director.

It is relayed to me through the little Indiana city that was the home town of us both, that the late Clarence Drown, manager of the Orpheum Theater and one of the most prominent theatrical figures in Los Angeles, left an estate of some $150,000 or so, all of which is bequeathed to his daughter, Hope, whom you may or may not remember as a young actress identified with the screen.

Hope Drown was lifted from comparative obscurity some years ago to assume the leading role in Paramount's sparkling travesty, "Hollywood," in which the entire movie colony was screamingly satirized. A little later, she appeared on the local stage as ingenue of a production of which I have completely forgotten the name.

Hope was a clever kid, and I know something about how much she misses her Dad.

In directing "A Lady to Love," reverting to the Palace momentarily, Victor Seastrom overlooked no detail that might aid in the complete characterization of Tony Patucci, the principal male figure in the action. On the wall of the living room of Tony's Southern California ranch house hang two large framed pictures of identical dimensions, side by side. One is of President Hoover; the other, Benito Mussolini.

It is little touches like these. . . .

In the talking newsreels this week Will Rogers, camp follower of the great, pays a left-handed compliment to Calvin Coolidge immediately following the former President's dedication of the Coolidge Dam over the Gila River out in Arizona—or wherever it is.

Says the gum chewer: "Mr. Coolidge come along at just the right time in the country's history. He never done nuthin', but that was just what we wanted done!"

I am surprised that he didn't mention the name of the gum he was chewing and collect some more swag for it.

It was probably in honor of St. Patrick's Day that the gentlemanly compositor set it "Senor Dan Alfonso Zelaya," instead of Senor Don, in Monday's review!

A stunning bit of photography, mysteriously dropped on my desk, has just reminded me that, beginning Friday, Helen Kane, the celebrated boob-boob-a-doop vocalist, will appear in person as the stage attraction at the Earle Theater, in conjunction with the first Washington presentation of "Hello, Sister," featuring Olive Borden and Lloyd Hughes.

The policy of opening the new attractions on Friday, you will remember, is to be inaugurated at the Earle this week.

And if ever there was a week when Alexander Calliam, master of ceremonies at the Fox, should be singing a song, this is it!

Those tulips coming up in the bed down by the garage turned out to be burdock!

FIGHT MOGULS NOT WORST COMICS

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

THE New York prize fight commission has now been in existence for about ten years, and the boys of the commission, past and present, may look back over the administration of their body without fear that they have been any more comic, in proportion to the opportunities, than most governmental bodies are.

It is true that they have enacted a great many hilarious laws with all the solemn ponderosity of a State legislature establishing the indecency of the female knee in moving pictures by a small plurality, on strict party lines. But then, if prize fight commissioners had any sense of the absurd, they would not become prize fight commissioners in the first place.

For the most part they have well maintained the naive pretense that the racket which they administer has for its prime object the inculcation of chivalry and kindred worthy traits in the youth of the land. And as their greatest achievement, they may point to the fact that, after ten years, the house flag of the Garden corporation still waves, notwithstanding sporadic attempts of the Rev. Cannon Chase to tear that gaudy ensign down.

Refinement's Clammy Hand in Racket.

That, I believe, is the proof of the prize fight commission's success. For, remembering the fate of the racket under all past administrations, it was logical to suppose at the beginning of this one, that within three, or at most, five years, the legislature would lose its temper and rescind the boxing law, reducing the business again to legal parity with the safe-blowing industry with which it has always had certain traits in common.

Refinement has laid its clammy hand on the racket and the racket has shuddered at the touch, but it has a surprising vitality and, if the Tunney memorial stands, virtuous and forgotten in the Garden lobby, the boys are still the same old boys as they rally round it, laying the odds on fight nights, like shysters in a courthouse foyer, doing business with the talesmen under the statue of blind justice.

I hear it said that the million dollar gate and the two million dollar gate are now mere memories to be graven on the tomb of old Tex Rickard, but this needn't be so because of any decline of interest. One of these days two heavyweight fighters with picturesque managers will be upheaved from mediocrity and the customers will form lines to the right of the ticket windows as of old if they have the money.

Million Dollar Gate Not yet Extinct.

Mr. Rickard did business in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago in a time of crazy recklessness, when money was so free that men who worked with their hands bought tickets at $50 each, but there has been a change in conditions since he died. But given a dramatic heavyweight match, given two such rabelaisian managers as Uncle Will Gibson and Leo P. Flynn to stir the imagination of the prize fight reporters with their social goings on, day and night, and given a money drunk public such as Mr. Rickard played to, I believe the Garden concern or the Chicago Stadium would ring the big number on the cash register more than once again.

The New York prize fight commissioners at the outset were charged with a solemn duty to keep the game clean and I suppose it must be said that they have tried to do so, but fortunately for the racket itself they have failed from the start. A little cleanliness goes a long way in the prize fight business and refinement is but an awkward affectation, the nature of the racket being low and rough, and sordidness its principal charm. It does no harm to plant millionaires in the ringside rows, for they brighten the comedy, like slummers in the saloons along the Bowery in the days when thieves and thugs wore sweaters instead of evening clothes.

No Danger of Permanent Refinement.

Now and again, it is true, some rich man without the dash to play polo, fancying himself for a sporting duke steps down from his place in the social scheme to patronize the prize fight racket, but there is no danger of permanent refinement from that kind, either. The financial return, large as it is by the standards of common people, is no incentive to them and they are ill-at-ease with the boys of the racket and vice-versa. So they don't last, and prize fighting, despite a few superficial airs and manners, remains what it always must be if it is to be prize fighting at all.

I recollect some of the rules enacted by the New York commissioners, all passed and spread upon their records as gravely as some great government might pass acts to pension widows or educate orphans or suppress disorder in the land. There was one forbidding white tights; another requiring champions to defend their titles within 90 days after winning them; another forbidding seconds to wear sweaters with pockets in them lest they carry concealed segments of Ford axles to be inserted in their fighters' gloves, as though they Defeat Mount Vernon Unlimited, 46--28, in Title Play.

Calvary, Whirlwind and Aztecs Fives Also Triumph.

THE Mount Vernon Five made a game stand against elimination for three-quarters of a spirited battle with the Jewish Community Center quintet in the feature unlimited contest of the District A. A. U. basket ball tournament at Tech High School last night, but bowed to the sustained attack of the Center squad, 46 to 28.

Until Tommy Dalglish and Warren Swift were dismissed from the fray on personal fouls, the Churchmen were given a good account of themselves, although never in front. Trailing at half time, 24 to 11, the Mount Vernons rallied and were trailing, 30 to 21, when their two stars were banished.

Fine, Singman and Abramson did most of the scoring for the victors. Good team work featured the victors' triumph. Melton, of the losers, was the high scorer of the engagement. Dalglish and Swift furnished the backbone of the Mount Vernon floor game.

The Calvary M. E. Five advanced to the second round when the Fort Washington Team failed to appear for play. The Pratt Whirlwinds, who had defeated the Tremonts earlier in a 145-pound contest, staged an exhibition contest with the Calvary Quintet.

Sullivan Knocks Out Two at Kensington

Eddie Sullivan, two-fisted slugger of the Knights of Columbus boxing team, supplied the feature of the amateur card at Kensington Armory last night when he scored two successive technical knockouts over Baltimore fighters.

Sullivan's first opponent, Mickey Margolis, of the Ritz A. C., of Baltimore, went down under a rain of blows in the first round and the towel was tossed in. Sullivan reentered the ring a few minutes later and met Johnny Pierce, also of the Ritz A. C. Pierce's handlers tossed in the towel in the third round. Seven hundred fans saw the spirited program of fights.

Mickey Walker Stops Mahoney in 2d Round

Helene Madison Sets Fourth Swim Record

Miami Beach, Fla., March 17 (A.P.).—Helene Madison, 16-year-old sensation of Seattle, Wash., sprinted through the waters of Roman pools here today for the fourth world record she has set in her first appearance in a National A. A. U. women's indoor swimming championships meet.

The meet, a five-day affair, was won by the Women's Swimming Association of New York, with 43½ points, part of them due to five of ten world's marks set during the contest. The Pacific coast star cut one-tenth of a second from the mark set by Ethel Lackie, Chicago, in Philadelphia, March 8, 1926, in the 100-yard free style swim against time.

Special to The Washington Post.

Philadelphia, March 16.—The largest entry list in the history of the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Association is expected for the annual championship tournament which will be held in the Palestra next Friday and Saturday. Preliminaries will be held Friday night, the semifinals Saturday afternoon and the finals Saturday night.

Dr. Francis C. Grant, secretary of the association, has received entries from Pennsylvania, Penn State, M. I. T., Navy, Western Maryland, Syracuse and Georgetown, all members of the association. New York University, which competed two years ago, will in all probability compete. An invitation has been issued to North Caroline, one of the best teams in the Southern Association.

Mary Browne Plans To Resume Golf Play

Cleveland, Ohio, March 17 (A.P.) Mary K. Browne, nationally prominent golf and tennis star, planned here today to resume the former game in which she once was runner-up in the national championship.

Returning here from a foreign trip and restored recently to amateur standing in the United States Golf Association, Miss Browne said: "I'm surely glad to be back and again eligible. I'm going to play just as much as I possibly can. I haven't any idea how well I can play now, having been away from the competitive field for over three years, but I'm going to try anyway."

Miss Browne bears no ill will toward the U. S. G. A., which had declared her ineligible because of her tour with C. C. Pyle's tennis professionals, she said.

Although planning to participate in the city championship golf tournaments this year, and probably in the State tourney, Miss Browne said the Western and national championships are too far off to be considered at present.

AL SINGER TRIUMPHS.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Al Singer, Bronx lightweight, stopped Eddie (Kid) Wagner, veteran Philadelphia boxer, in the third round of a 10-round bout at the St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Singer floored Wagner six times before the referee stepped in and halted the carnage.

Charlie Nelson, of New York, outpointed Juan Cepeda, of Cuba, in a six-rounder. Cepeda weighed 129¾; Nelson 133¾.

Picked Track Stars Meet Tonight

All Sections Strive for National A.A.U. Titles at Garden.

Conger Meets Martin at 1,000 Yards in Feature Race.

NEW YORK, March 17 (A.P.).—Picked athletes from all parts of the United States invaded New York today in preparation for the grand climax of the winter track and field season, the National A. A. U. indoor championships at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Plenty of intersectional rivalry is anticipated, with the Illinois A. C. and the New York A. C., 1929 champion and runner-up, respectively, waging a hot duel for team honors.

Rival standard bearers of these two clubs clash in the 1,000-yard event when Ray Conger, the slender Iowan who now teaches school in New York but wears the colors of the Illinois A. C., defends his title against a crack field headed by Dr. Paul Martin, Swiss Olympic veteran running for the New York A. C.

Martin Already Has Conger's Scalp.

Martin, with a closing "kick" that rivals Conger's own, was only a stride behind the slim Middle Westerner in the Columbian mile on the same track last week and already has taken Conger's measure at 1,000 yards. These two favorites will have stiff competition from such runners as Bob Orlovich and Harold White, former joint holders of the Western Conference half-mile title, who will run for the Illinois A. C.; Johnny Wexman, former University of Illinois miler, representing the same club, and Frank Nordell, Philadelphia schoolboy star.

Phil Edwards, lithe Negro international, is favored to retain his 600-yard crown as Bernie McCafferty, of Holy Cross, was unable to enter because of college duties. Edwards will have to step with Charlie Niblock, Illinois Athletic Club; Eddie Roll, Newark Athletic Club; Fred Veit, New York Athletic Club, and Johnny Gibson, Bloomfield (N. J.) Lyceum, among those arranged against him.

Engle Defends Title At 300 Yards.

Charley Engle, fleet anchor man of Yale's mile relay team, defends his title in the 300-yard whirl. Nine individual champions, all told, will compete, others being Monty Wells, Boston Athletic Association, in the 70-yard hurdles; Fred Sturdy, Los Angeles Athletic Club, pole vault; Charles Major, Brooklyn (N. Y.) Harriers, running high jump; Harold Osborn, Illinois Athletic Club, standing high jump; William Werner, Greenwood Track Club, New York, standing broad jump, and Herbert Schwarze, Illinois Athletic Club, 16-pound shot.

The 60-yard dash is anybody's race, with Jimmy Daley, present champion, busy with his studies at Holy Cross.

The East will get a peek at Lee Sentman, record-shattering hurdler from the University of Illinois, when he hooks up with Monty Wells, Sol Furth and other Eastern aces.

Bruen Fails to Sign McLarnin for Bout

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Frank Bruen, general manager of Madison Square Garden, arrived home from Miami today and celebrated St. Patrick's day by attempting to sign Jimmy McLarnin for a welterweight title fight with Jackie Fields in one of the ball park's here next summer. Bruen was the last straggler from the forces that staged the Scott-Sharkey fiasco at the Florida resort February 27.

Bruen made some progress with Pop Foster, manager of McLarnin, but finally was stopped for the day by the Irishman's demand for 37½ per cent of the gate receipts, the same percentage that must be guaranteed fields, the champion. Another conference will be held this week.

Foster said he had offers for a match with Fields from both Chicago and Detroit.

MACKS TAKE WILD GAME, 9 TO 3

Columbus Club Gives Weird Exhibition; Many Thefts.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 17 (A. P.).—The champion Philadelphia Athletics today defeated the Columbus American Association Team, 9 to 3.

Eric McNair knocked a home run with two on base in the seventh. Columbus made five errors and players on both sides at will.

Browns Cancel Game; Practice, However.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 17 (A.P.).—For the second successive day the St. Louis Browns were forced to cancel an exhibition game today. A half hour before the Browns and the Brooklyn Robins were scheduled to take the field a hard rain set in.

The Browns, despite the rain, had a fair day of practice. Manager Killefer sent the squad through a strenuous drill this morning.

The Browns and Robins will meet here tomorrow, weather permitting. Stewart is scheduled to start for the Browns and Luque for the Robins.

Wagner Drills Red Sox To Boost Hitting.

Pensacola, Fla., March 17 (A.P.).—Manager Heinie Wagner sent his Boston Red Sox players through a long practice here today to punish them for their inability to hit minor league pitching. The Sox, though they defeated the Mobile Club yesterday, were able to collect only six hits from the Southern Association hurlers. Most of the Boston Club's nine runs were due to the miscues of its opponents.

The Boston and Mobile Clubs will move up to the Alabama City tomorrow and renew their series.

Rain Halts Indians; Reserve Many.

New Orleans, March 17 (A.P.).—Cleveland Indians at their training camp here waited patiently today for the rain to stop and went through light practice between showers.

This was the fourth successive rainy day preventing scheduled games between the Indians and the New Orleans Pelicans. It was doubted whether the ground would be in condition for practice tomorrow.

Roger Peckinpaugh, the manager, viewed with optimism the number of good substitutes the Indians have. There is not a position, in event of injury to a regular, which can not be filled by a substitute. Some positions are protected by two or three.

Tigers' Hitters Fail; Indianapolis Wins.

Sarasota, Fla., March 17 (A.P.).—The Detroit Tigers were held to two hits and lost an exhibition game to the Indianapolis American Association Team, 5 to 1, here today.

The Indians used three pitchers, and each was a complete puzzle to the Tigers. Two of them, Burwell and Cvengros, have had major league experience, but the other, Payne, was just as hard to solve.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 17 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees hung up their fourth victory in six starts as they defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 1, today.

Sukeforth made three of the National Leaguers' hits and scored the lone run.

Jolly, High Priced Outfielder, Missing.

San Antonio, Tex., March 17 (A.P.) Rain spoiled the plans of the White Sox again today, washing out the scheduled exhibition game with the University of Texas.

Smead Jolley, the $50,000 outfielder, still remained among the missing. But one ray of hope was seen when it was learned he left California in an automobile.

San Antonio, Tex., March 17 (A. P.).—John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, wielded his pruning knife on the Giant squad today and lopped off two young limbs for delivery to Bridgeport, Conn.

Len Shires, an infielder whom his brother, the Great Art, sent in for a trial, and Art Veltman, who is learning to become a catcher after spending some time in the outfield, departed today for the Bridgeport training camp. The Bridgeport Club is a Giant farm.

CUBS READY TO LEAVE CAMP

AVALON, Calif., March 17 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs today put in the first of their last three days on Catalina Island.

Two more days on the island estate of William Wrigley, jr., and the National League champions will go to the mainland for a long schedule of exhibition games with the Pittsburgh Pirates and several Pacific Coast League clubs.

Street Names Hurlers To Face Tigers.

Bradenton, Fla., March 17 (A.P.).—Jess Haines, Al Grabowski and Jim Lindsey have been selected by Manager Gabby Street to pitch for the St. Louis Cardinals tomorrow in their exhibition game here with the Detroit Tigers. Carmen Hill, the veteran obtained from the Pirates last fall, also may get a chance to work. He has been showing marked improvement and Street believes he will be a valuable asset.

Street put the boys through two long workouts today. In the morning there was a session at running and fly chasing, after which the pitchers were drilled at fielding bunts and covering first base.

Chuck Klein Joins Shotton's Forces.

Winterhaven, Fla., March 17 (A.P.). Chuck Klein, 1929 home-run king of the National League, joined the Phillies today and signed his contract after a short conference with Manager Burt Shotton. No figures were announced.

Klein's arrival leaves Fresco Thompson, star second baseman, as the only Phil not in camp. It was said Thomp-

Talk of Trade For Holdout Squelched

Owner Asserts Goslin Must Play With Nats or Not at All.

Spencer Is Put on Market But Offers Are Lacking.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

BILOXI, MISS., March 17.—Catcher Roy Spencer who, like Outfielder Goose Goslin, values his services at much more than does the Washington Club, probably has played his last game in the livery of the Nats. While no information to this effect is forthcoming from President Clark Griffith, from other sources it is learned that the recalcitrant backstop has been offered to several other clubs. So far no bids have been received for Spencer, although it is understood that Bucky Harris' reply was to the effect that while the Tigers could not use him they would be willing to talk business if there was a chance of them getting Goslin, either in a trade or for cash.

Goslin, however, is not for sale. Griffith has declared, the Nats' owner having made up his mind that the "Wild Goose of the Potomac" will play with the Nats or not at all, and that the player will not be given any more than already has been offered him—$10,000 straight salary and a bonus if his work during 1930 warrants one.

Meanwhile, reports continue to reach the Biloxi camp here that there is a deal brewing with the Browns, who are said to have offered Heinie Manush, also a holdout, in exchange for Goslin, Spencer and Infielder Jack Hayes.

Browns' Scout Denies Deal Is Brewing.

The fact that Ray Cahill, St. Louis scout, arrived here yesterday and held a long conference with Griffith last night, has added significance to the story, but both deny it emphatically. Cahill declaring that he never heard that such a deal was even pending and that if it were negotiations would be carried on between the two club heads. The Browns' ivory hunter is making his round of all training camps, he explained, in the hope of picking up some cast-off material which might help either the Browns or one of their farms.

West and Barnes In Special Drills.

Cahill saw nothing here which would help him any except those which the Nats intend to hang on to, but he did remark that he never has seen a club with better spirit and morale. "All of his men and Manager Johnson seem to be getting along like a happy family," he said "and that helps a whole lot in this game."

Although the diamond was so heavy that the usual infield drill was passed up, the Nats were able to get in a good workout this morning, all hands being glad to call it a day while Pilot Johnson said the word. In addition to the usual running and pepper game, special lessons were given to Outfielders Sam West and Red Barnes.

The former faced Johnson and listened to Coach Gharrity's advice from behind the plate, while Barnes was kept chasing flies for nearly an hour. He is not a particularly good judge of fly balls.

The final game of the season here will be staged on Wednesday when the Spring Hill Collegians, of Mobile, will be entertained. Don Savidge and Irving Hadley are expected to divide the pitching honors. The latter will be used more frequently than the other regulars this spring, as Johnson is determined to have him ready to go at top speed when the season starts.

"Experts" See Close Race in 1930.

Six of the squad here will go direct to Chattanooga when the Nats break camp here, Thursday, Manager Johnson announced tonight, with Pitcher Garland Braxton slated to head for his North Carolina home to have his dental work completed. The others who will pass up the Friday's game with the Barons in Birmingham are Pitchers Paul Daugert and Don Savidge, Catchers Nelson (Clown) Jester and Gordon (Pats) Phelps, First Baseman Bill (Lefty) Bradley and Outfielder Alvin (Jake) Powell.

Silver Bullet's Test Halted Twice by Trouble in Motor

By TED GILL.

OCEAN SPEEDWAY, Daytona Beach, Fla., March 17 (A.P.).—A broken casing on the supercharger on his giant Silver Bullet racer, today cut short a test run by Kaye Don, British race driver, here to make an assault upon the world's speed of 231 miles an hour.

If repairs are made in time, and weather and beach conditions are favorable, Don expects to resume trials tomorrow.

The heavy-footed driver, who Saturday reached a speed of 198 miles an hour, planned to put the machine through several fast trials today, and then if he found conditions ideal, make an official attack upon the record. These hopes were blasted, however, by the mechanical difficulties.

Bringing his powerful stream-lined machine onto the Ocean Speedway about 4:50 p. m., an hour after low tide, Don started south down the course at a rapid gait, but before he reached the measured mile, motor trouble developed. When he reached the grand stand at the south end of the mile, the motors stopped.

Mechanics Hustle To Make Repairs.

With the tide slowly flowing in over the course, mechanics worked quickly in an attempt to complete repairs with the hope that there still would be time to make another trial before the beach became inundated by the tide. After several minutes work, the mechanics thought they had the trouble remedied and the car shot on down toward the south end of the course. It proceeded only a short distance, however, before the motors again stopped.

With mechanics unable to make the repairs before the tide covered the beach, the car was towed back to its garage.

Don said he was keenly disappointed at the misfortune today, but hoped that the difficulties could be remedied in time for another attempt tomorrow afternoon. Low tide then occurs at 4:26 p. m., but conditions probably will be such that he will be able to get onto the course at least an hour before that time.

Many See Machine In Futile Test.

Although only a few hundred spectators were in the grandstand for the trial today, the entire nine-mile course was lined with thousands of cars, parked along a highway back of the sand dunes that parallel the beach.

Weather conditions for the trials were only fair, although the beach was in comparative good condition. On his slow and short runs, Don complained of a heavy mist all along the course, which collected on his windshield and made driving difficult.

Intermittent showers fell all morning and even by midafternoon the skies had not cleared sufficiently to make visibility good.

HIGH SCHOOLS TO DISCARD BASKET BALL TWIN BILLS

Single Games In Series, Is New Plan

Championship Play to Start Earlier and End Later.

Double-Header Plan Meets Disfavor With Late Starting Hour.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER.

THAT the double-header system of high school basket ball games in vogue since 1920 will be abolished next season was indicated yesterday when it was learned that a schedule for the 1930-31 interhigh series calling for only single games twice a week has been drawn up by Dr. G. Harris White, athletic director of the high schools.

The schedule now before the faculty advisers for approvel calls for two rounds of single games which will start on December 16, with games on Tuesday and Fridays until completed by March 4, 1931, thus extending the series over twice as many weeks as in the past. As was the case last year, all contests will start at 3:45 o'clock. No games have been booked during the Christmas holidays from December 22 until January 2, inclusive. Under the double-header system, the series was rarely started until mid-January.

Late School Hours Cause Change.

The change from the custom of ten years' standing comes as the direct result of the new closing hour of 3 o'clock, put into efect at the local high schools for the first time last September. The dismissal of school one-half hour later than in former years prevented students and players from reaching Tech, the scene of the games, until almost 3:45, at which time the games were started. As a consequence, the double-header program was rarely completed before 7 o'clock, leading to the late arrival home of the students, which resulted in parental protest.

Moreover, the return to the single game plan is now feasible, inasmuch as the double-header system was inaugurated only as a means to avoid unnecessary expense when the games were played in public gymnasiums. As the same rent was charged for either one or two games, officials chose to save money by playing two games on the same day. Now, with the use of the Tech Gymnasium, no expense is involved.

Adoption of System Believed Certain.

Although no official sanction has been given to the schedule as yet, it is believed certain that the plan will be ultimately adopted as the most feasible of the three under consideration. The other two plans provide that the games be played on the basis of the old double-header system, with the alternative of single games for only one round. Objection to the latter is based on the fact that a four-game schedule for each team is too short to be indicative of a team's true strength.

No schedules have been submitted under the latter two systems of play.

START SWEEPSTAKES.

Foreign and Domestic Commerce Duckpin League bowlers have arranged a sweepstakes for those toting averages under 97. Twenty entrants will start Thursday night at Northeast Temple in the opening block. The second block will be rolled on the same drives the following Thursday.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOBBY POWERS, $11.70, $5.60, $4.20; EVENING SKY, $5.30, $3.50; CHATTERING, $3.80.

BOBBY POWERS broke well, was kept out in the best going all the way, ran into lead in stretch and won going away. EVENING SKY, outrun for the six furlongs, closed with a rush. CHATTERING opened a wide, early lead, but tired badly in last quarter mile. STAR came from far back. ASSOCIATE quit badly after showing early speed.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800. The Shamrock. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:44. Off at 3:44½. Winner, Mrs. W. J. Potter's b. g. (6), by Spanish Prince II—Antoinette. Trained by W. J. Potter. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:25 1-5, 0:50 3-5, 1:16 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOCARATONE, $14.60, $5.80, $3.20; WHILE AWAY, $3.90, $3.60; CLUB HOUSE, $4.40.

BOCARATONE broke slow and was taken very wide all the way. He went to the outside fence in the stretch and, taking lead at the furlong pole, won galloping. WHILE AWAY moved up very fast on inside and was next best. CLUB HOUSE made a game effort. EXTREME quit badly when caught. GOLD MINT was outrun.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,000. The St. Patrick. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:09. Off at 4:10. Winner, David Komer's ch. g. (6), by Sir Martin—Affection. Trained by J. H. Johnson. Value to winner, $700; second, $175; third, $100; fourth, $25. Time, 0:25 3-5, 0:51 3-5, 1:18 2-5, 1:47 4-5, 1:53.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SANFORD, $7.10, $3.10, $2.30; SMOLDERING, $2.50, $2.20; VIRADO, $2.70.

SANFORD, moving into the lead after the first quarter and, continuing well, won by two lengths. SMOLDERING, away fast, was close all the way, but could not menace the winner. VIRADO closed with a rush in the stretch.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:36. Off at 4:40½. Winner, J. Goff's b. c. (4), by My Play—Eager Cissy. Trained by W. Vincent. Value to winner, $625; second, $137.50; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:25 4-5, 0:52, 1:19 2-5, 1:48 1-5, 1:55.

2 SCHOOLBOY NINES LOSE REGULARS

Brandt, of Central, Lucas, Business, Hit by Advisory Marks.

TWO high school baseball teams were hit by ineligibility yesterday, when it was announced that George Brandt, captain of the Central Nine, and Bobby Lucas, regular shortstop of Business, were deficient in a study during the past advisory.

The ban will keep them out of all pre-series games and their club's first interhigh clash, strangely enough the Central-Business game on May 2.

Central has seven games scheduled before the series opens, including a game with the Princeton Freshmen. Brandt, who will graduate in June, is expected to either pitch for Central or play third base, when he becomes eligible. Eastern came through the advisory period with its regulars intact, while Western and Tech were not to learn the fates of their teams until tomorrow.

Business High Nine Last to Open Season

Business High School, which will be the last high school to start baseball practice, will also be the last to play its first game. The Stenogs' schedule, announced yesterday, calls for its curtain-raiser to be played on April 17, when the Maryland Freshmen will be met on the College Park diamond. After that, however, the Business Nine will be one of the busiest scholastic teams in the city, its schedule calling for 15 games, with five more pending.

Occupied with intramural sports, Coach Lynn Woodworth will not call out his diamond candidates until the first of April, almost a whole month later than the other schools.

Games with Gonzaga, Emerson, Devitt, Woodward and Swavely Prep are on the Stenogs' 1930 list, while a trip will be made to Lewisburg, W. Va., on May 31 to meet the Greenbrier Military Academy Nine. Games with Staunton Military Academy, Massanutten, Tome, Charlotte Hall, and the Catholic University Freshmen, are now being sought by Manager Sammy Cohen, who is arranging the schedule.

May 2, Central; 6, Episcopal at Alexandria; 9, Western; 12, Woodward; 14, Gonzaga; 16, Tech; 19, Swavely here; 20, Georgetown Freshmen; 23, Eastern; 26, Swavely at Manassas; 28, Emerson; 31, Greenbriar Military Academy at Lewisburg, W. Va.

Pirates Break Camp; Start Travels.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 17 (A.P.). The Pittsburgh Pirates broke camp today to start on a long campaign of exhibition games that will end at New Orleans April 13. Before the Buccaneers bid adieu to Paso Robles they went through a long and hard batting practice. A three-game exhibition series is scheduled to start with the Missions at San Francisco tomorrow.

Vance in Uniform; Robins Idle.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 17 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Robins had just time enough to get in a short batting drill today before rain ended all activities, including an exhibition game with the St. Louis Browns. The Robins are due to clash with the Browns here tomorrow and Wednesday.

Dazzy Vance, who is rapidly recovering from the cold which has kept him out of action for a few days, was in uniform today and may pitch the Wednesday game.

Upsets Dope In Feature Sprint

Extreme, Favorite, Is Fourth; Whileaway Trails Winner.

Track Heavy; Weather Holds Attendance to 2,000 Fans.

JEFFERSON PARK, New Orleans, La., March 17 (A.P.).—Mrs. W. J. Potter's Bocaratone, neglected in the betting, made a show of his field in winning the Shamrock Purse, a 6-furlong sprint, here today. Whileaway, heavily played, was second and Club House third. Extreme, the favorite, ran a very bad race.

The victory of Bocaratone certainly upset the well-laid plans of the insiders. Extreme and Whileaway were right out in front. Extreme quit badly in the stretch and Whileaway took the lead, but Bocaratone, which was kept on the extreme outside and in the firm going, came with a rush in the stretch and simply breezed by Whileaway, winning by two lengths. Whileaway beat Club House four lengths for the place. The winner paid $14.60 and the time was 1:16 3-5.

The track was very heavy and the threatening weather kept down the attendance to the regulars. The attendance was estimated at 2,000.

Greenburg Gives Clever Ride.

St. John's Park, Fla., March 17 (A. P.).—Your Play, in the stable of R. Narelle and a two-time winner at Miami, made her bow here today when she won the mile and 70-yard number which brought out the best field of the afternoon.

With Greenberg in the saddle Your Play covered the distance in 1:47 to be a trifle more than her own length in front of Saratoga Maje at the final pole. The latter, doubtless, would have been the winner if the inexperienced Stillovey had not held him under choking restraint in the first five furlongs.

Greenberg handled Your Play in steady fashion, permitting her to gallop along in back of the pace until the final turn and then driving the light-weighted bay mare up on the inner rail, saving many lengths. She took command a sixteenth out and with Saratoga Maje tiring, was able to score in clever fashion. The latter had his usual early speed and went out to race head and head with Silver Scepter under a strong ride.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 17.—Baseball practice for the Alexandria High School will start in earnest this week after a week's preparation. More than 25 candidates have reported. The Big Reds will open their season on March 27, opposing the Fort Humphreys in a practice game at the military post. On the following day a practice game will be played with Lee-Jackson High School on the locals' field. They will open their regular season on April 4, playing the Hyattsville High School in Alexandria. The pitching staff is weak, but if Gorman reports for the team this problem will be settled. Coach Reynolds has Nicholson and Backus, both experienced men from last year's team, and with Gorman the pitching staff would be well fortified. Other players who have reported are: Mudd and Hooker, catchers; Fletcher and J. Williams, first base; Schreiner and Haywood, second base; Irby, shortstop; Snyder, third; Birrell, Travers, Sinclair, Carr and others for the outfield. All the games will be played either on Baggett or Haydon fields.

Billy Padgett, one of Alexandria's best athletes, is confined to the local hospital, where he has just been operated on. Padgett was the star of the St. Mary's Celtics football team this past season and was expecting to perform for the same team in baseball.

The Del Ray Athletic Club played their first practice game of the season yesterday afternoon when they defeated a pick-up team from Del Ray by the score 5-2. About 35 boys reported to Coach Williams yesterday. They will hold their practices three times a week from now on. The Del Ray A. C. Basket Ball Team will play their final game tomorrow night when they tackle the fast Whitestone team in the Alexandria Gazette League.

N. C. DIAMOND COACH HAS PROBLEM

Needs First Baseman and Outfielder for Opener.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., March 17.—Grooming the Tarheel Baseball Team for a hard season, beginning with Springfield on March 27, Coach Jim Ashmore is finding first base and the outfield to be his principal problems.

Nine veterans are back in the Carolina camp, including Capt. Maus for the backstop position, Wright and Fleming on the mound, Lufty for third, Whitehead for short, both Rand and Jackson for second.

No outstanding candidate has appeared for first base, and it seems probable that Coach Ashmore is going to have to shift one of a number of promising candidates for other infield posts to the initial sack.

Lufty played first last year and might make the shift except for the fact that playing first materially hurt the big boy's hitting, and the Tarheels are calculating to need plenty of batting power this year.

Just now Phil Jackson, who is the rangiest of the infielders, looks like the best bet for first, but Jackson's hitting may have to improve to gain him a regular post there.

Outfield losses by graduation were heavy last year—Coxe, Barnhardt and Jessup. Only Phil Sher and Henry House are back, and of these the terrific-hitting House may be out for the first few weeks due to a pulled arm muscle sustained in winter football.

A number of youngsters are battling merrily for the garden berths while Coach Ashmore looks them over in great measure for hitting ability. Clyde McKinney, 230 pounds and a terrific hitter, should be good for one post, with the other still undecided between Paxton, a reserve; Blyde, a sophomore, and Crouch, a star on the frosh two years ago.

Fredericksburg Dog Wins Valley Field Trials

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 17.—Colbert's Momoney Vampire, setter dog, owned by C. R Colbert, Fredericksburg, Va., placed first in the all-age stake today at the annual spring trials of the Shenandoah Valley Field Trials Club, run on the 500-acre Branner Farm near here. Joe Brown, pointer dog, owned by Russell Burnett, Roanoke, placed second, and Great Alexander, pointer dog, owned by A. M. Pullen, Richmond, placed third.

The puppy stakes drew 24 entries and five braces were run, with seven to be completed tomorrow. Eleven braces with 22 entries competed in the all-age stake. Entries came from Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Delaware. The winners will be eligible to run in the winners' stakes at Petersburg, Va., March 24, when the Virginia Amateur Field Trials Association holds its annual spring meeting. Judges were Matthew Trimble, jr., Kensington, Md., and Tom Baldwin, Washington, D. C. Dog fanciers are attending from the several States. Club officials said entries broke previous records.

GOLF
AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

Should a naturally left-handed person learn to play right-handed?
Answered by
JOCK HUTCHISON,
Former British Open Champion and Internationally Known Golf Professional.

A left-handed person just beginning golf could learn to play right-handed just as easily as he could left-handed, but I would never think of trying to change a left-handed player back into a right-handed one. I never saw a left-handed golfer who didn't look awkward, and I would advise left-handed persons not yet started in golf to learn right-handed.

EVERYTHING ABOARD OUR ROCKET SHIP HAD LOST ITS WEIGHT. EVEN THE COFFEE HAD FLOATED OUT OF THE CUP WHEN I SHUT OFF THE ROCKET MOTORS. BUT I WANTED THAT COFFEE EVEN IF I DID HAVE TO SIP IT OUT OF THE AIR.
YOU SEE, THE ACCELERATION OF THE SHIP HELD US TO THE FLOOR. WHEN YOU CUT OFF THE MOTORS WE LOST OUR WEIGHT.
HE INHALES HIS COFFEE! SMART BOY!
I MANEUVERED BACK TO THE CONTROLS. WE WERE ONLY 20,000 MILES FROM THE MOON NOW
WE'VE JUST PASSED INTO THE MOON'S GRAVITATION FIELD
I'LL USE A SIDE-ROCKET BLAST TO SWING THE BASE OF OUR SHIP DOWN TOWARD IT.
AS WE DROPPED BASE DOWN, TOWARD THE GREAT WHITE GLOBE. I DECELERATED THE SHIP.
I'LL GO BACK TO THE ROCKET MOTORS ROOM
THAT GIVES US BACK OUR WEIGHT AGAIN.
OOOOH, BUCK! IT'S JUST GLORIOUS! DO WE DARE LAND?

STOCK PRICES RISE MODERATELY HIGHER

Active Oils Reach New High Levels; U. S. Steel and Auburn Auto Gains.

WHEAT FUTURES FIRMER

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—The bull crowd rallied to the support of pivotal shares in today's stock market and succeeded in lifting the general list moderately higher, after a period of mixed price trends during the early hours of trading. Trading was fairly active, particularly in some of the petroleum issues. Sales aggregated 3,639,640 shares.

Firmer commodity markets and sustained ease in credit helped the forward movement. The money market was aided by the release of credit through the expected Government overdraft in connection with the Treasury financing, and the surplus funds at the banks against income tax dividend checks not yet cleared. The money market may show a somewhat firmer tone during the remainder of the week, as the overdraft is paid off, and the tax payment checks are cleared. Call money renewed at 3½ per cent, dropped to 3 during the afternoon, and was offered in the outside market as low as 2½. Prime Commercial Paper was cut ¼ of 1 per cent to 4 per cent for best names, with some business reported as low as 3¾.

Oil Shares Continue to Gain.

The speculative flare for the oils blazed up anew on publication of the California crude production statistics for last week, showing further progress in the curtailment program. Pools sought a public following in some of the merchandise and motor shares in expectation of increasing spring trade, although sales reports to date have not been very impressive. Some of the Youngstown Steel Mills were reported to have cut production to as low as 65 per cent of rated ingot capacity, but the steel trade was inclined to predict that this would be the bottom, in view of the volume of business now appearing.

The oil group continued to record numerous new high levels for the recovery. Simms Petroleum was an active feature, rising more than 2 points to a new peak above 35, with a turnover of more than 100,000 shares. Standard of New Jersey rose about 2 points to duplicate the year's high, and standards of California and New York moved up nearly as much, both reaching new highs for the year. Houston shot up nearly 6 points and closed with a gain of 4.

Such old-time trading favorites as United States Steel, General Motors and Radio were given strong support. United States Steel rose 4 points. General Motors rose 2¼ to a new high for the recovery at 46¾. Radio rose 2 points. Among the higher price issued, Eastman Kodak sold up 12 points to a new top and Auburn Auto 9. Associated Dry Goods and Best & Co. rose about 3 points to new 1930 highs. A. M. Byers was a strong feature, crossing 100 for the first time this year with a gain of nearly 5 points. Worthington Pump, a closely held issue, shot up nearly 11 points to a new 1930 high, 122. The stock touched 43 in the November crash.

American Locomotive Declines.

Bears found a few soft spots during the morning. Gillette was sent down more than 2 points to 85¾, a new 1930 low. United States Industrial Alcohol sold off about 3 points then rallied moderately. American Locomotive ran into some selling as the annual report failed to come up to the more optimistic expectation of the shares touched 90½, off 4 points and within a fraction of the low level reached in November.

Wheat features were firmer, reflecting a decrease in the visible supply, crop damage reports from Kansas and better export sales. The March position closed 1⅛ cents higher. Corn gained about a cent, and cotton futures closed about unchanged to 35 cents a bale higher.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, and fairly steady. Sterling cables were quoted 1-16 lower at $4.86⅛. The Canadian dollar, on the other hand, reduced its discount to ⅛ per cent, and was not plentiful even at that level. The Spanish peseta rallied substantially, reflecting firmer political conditions in Spain.

COMPOSITE PRICE FOR BONDS RISES

FOREIGN SHARES STRONG

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Although the demand for listed bonds slackened considerably today, the market retained a strong undertone and investment issues ruled firm. Advances on the averages for the industrials and rails sent the composite price of 30 bonds across par to the highest in more than a year.

Large liquidation of frozen loans held by the so-called country banks has released substantial sums for investment in this market during the past fortnight. In addition to the inquiry from the commercial banks there has been a steadily increasing demand from individuals, dealers report, and both listed and unlisted securities have been prompt to respond.

Buying of foreign bonds, which made another spurt today, is coming largely from foreign sources and has lifted this group to its highest point in some time. Little gossip is heard concerning the expected reparations issue, although it is pointed out that the current rally in prices is preparing an excellent foundation on which to float the big loan.

Money Rates Again Sag.

Money sagged again. Time loans were available at 3¾ to 4 per cent for the shorter maturities, the lowest in a long interval. Commercial paper also eased. Call loans, after renewing at 3½ dropped to 3; but funds were offered in the outside market at 2½ per cent. The New York Federal Reserve Bank disclosed a slight reduction in its buying rate on bankers' acceptances of longer dates. Easier interest rates are also appearing in other cities. Funds were offered in the outside market at 2½ per cent. The New York Federal Reserve Bank disclose a slight reduction in its buying rate on bankers' acceptances of longer dates.

Domestic securities in general did little but hold their recent gains, although buying orders for issues that had been quiet in the last few sessions found a much stronger market. Several of the high grade rails moved up a point or more, among them Illinois Central first 4s, Nickel Plate 4½s, Union Pacific 4½s and first 4s, and New York Central (Lake Shore) collateral 3½s. Other strong carrier liens included Atchison adjustment 4s, Illinois Central collateral 4s, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico "C" 5s, Pennsylvania 4½s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s and Southern Railway general 4s.

Oil company bonds were prominent in the day's dealings. The Sinclair listings, Skelly 5½s, Shell Union 5s, Transcontinental 6½s, Warner Quinlan 6s and Pan-American Petroleum convertible 6s of 1934 reflected the strength of the oil stocks by scoring a general advance. Pure Oil 5½s sagged on reports of new bond financing.

Chile Copper 5s, International Mercantile Marine 6s, Lorillard 5½s, United States Rubber 5s, Wilson Co. first 6s and the International Paper issues were among the firmer industrials. Bonds of the latter company were strong, the 5s soaring 4 points and the 6s advancing 1½, both to new highs, most of the amusement company bonds closing higher.

Utilities Hold Up Well.

Utilities held up well. American Telephone 5s of 1965, Cincinnati Gas & Electric 4s, International Telephone 5s, Postal Telegraph 5s and North American Edison 5s attracted most of the attention.

Convertibles made a strong finish after early heaviness. American Telephone 4½s gained 1½ net, Atchison 4½s rose 1¼ and American I. G. Chemical 5½s closed at 105½, up 1.

A few of the United States Government went to new tops. Buying centered in the fourth Liberties the Treasury 4s and the Treasury 3¾s.

German and South American bonds were again strong, and many gains of 1 to 3 points developed, especially in the issues offering liberal yields. New highs were too numerous to mention.

New bond offerings appearing tomorrow include a $14,000,000 issue of Pere Marquette Railway first mortgage 50-year 4½s at 97. There are reports that the new natural gas holding company to be formed by United Gas and Electric Power & Light is to finance through a $35,000,000 bond issue.

Today's $15,000,000 offering of Wabash general mortgage 5s at 100½ was promptly oversubscribed.

NATIONAL TRUST CO. PROMOTES STETSON

TO DISCUSS FRAUD LAW

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Frank Stetson, trust officer, National Savings & Trust Co., was elected second vice president of that institution yesterday, succeeding to the vacancy created by the death of Francis W. Stone. Mr. Stetson will continue to serve as trust officer. An able official, he has been with the company since 1903, becoming assistant trust officer in January, 1909, and trust officer in January, 1913.

Congressional legislation having to do with foreclosure of mortgages, and fraud in the District of Columbia, will be discussed today by a committee representing the District of Columbia Bankers Association, title companies, building and loan associations, the Washington Real Estate Board, auctioneers and the Operative Builders Association of the District of Columbia.

Life Underwriter Lectures.

T. Stanley Holland, assistant trust officer, American Security & Trust Co., and chairman of the life insurance trust committee, fiduciary section, District of Columbia Bankers Association, has announced lecturers for the section's educational course for life underwriters beginning Tuesday, March 25, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and continuing for six consecutive Tuesdays thereafter at the same hour.

Lectures will be held at the Bankers' Association headquarters at 1318 F street northwest. Speakers and their subjects follow: George Francis Williams, trust officer Lincoln National Bank, "The Descent and Distribution of Intestate Property;" Kenneth F. Brooks, assistant trust officer Riggs National Bank, "Wills—Testate Distribution of Property;" Erskine Gordon, trust officer Federal-American National Bank, "Trusts Voluntary and Testamentary;" Leonard Marbury, assistant trust officer Washington Loan & Trust Co., "Life Insurance Trusts;" David Bornet, assistant trust officer National Savings & Trust Co., "Taxation;" Mr. Holland, "Administration Procedure," and Irving Zirpel, assistant trust officer Union Trust Co., "Trust Organization and Administration."

The annual meeting of the Stockholders Association of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond will be held in Richmond, Va., April 11.

Attended Bank Conference.

Frederick P. H. Siddons, secretary of the American Security & Trust Co., and Hans W. Ireland, assistant treasurer, attended the recent conference on bank management in Philadelphia.

The midyear open meeting of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, will be held at Langley Junior High School, March 27. Eighteen standard, 21 prestandard and 11 graduate certificates will be presented to students.

The bowling tournament held Saturday between Security Club of American Security & Trust Co. and Riggs Bank Club was won by the former group with 336 pins. High team game was taken by Riggs Team, No. 4, with 534 pins, and high team set by Security Team, No. 7, with 1,530 pins. The high individual game was rolled by Edward Skinner, of Security Club, with a score of 150. He also took high individual set with 388.

A group comprising Guaranty Co. of New York, Dillon & Co., Central-Illinois Co., Chase Securities Corporation, Continental Illinois Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co. and First Union Trust & Savings Bank is offering today $20,000,000 ten-year 5½ per cent sinking fund gold notes of the Pure Oil Co., due March 1, 1940, at 97½ per cent and accrued interest, to yield over 5.80 per cent.

The proceeds of this issue are to be used for the construction of a pipe line and for other corporate purposes. The notes are to be direct obligations of the Pure Oil Co. and will rank equally with $18,000,000 ten-year 5½ per cent sinking fund gold notes due 1937, now outstanding.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 17 (A.P.).—Wheat moved sharply upward in price today and held stubbornly to gains despite downpours over Kansas and other States where moisture has been needed. Advances were associated largely with reduction of Liverpool stocks of wheat and curtailment of arrivals at all British ports, as well as withdrawals of Argentine offerings abroad and cleaning up of distress holdings at Winnipeg. Furthermore, the United States wheat visible supply total today showed 2,168,000 bushels decrease.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅜@1⅛c a bushel higher than up, oats ½@⅝c advance and provisions at Saturday's finish. Corn closed ⅛@1⅜c a rise of 15@7/8c.

Jumps of 3¾ pence a hundredweight that were shown at the close in the Liverpool wheat market today did much to put backbone into wheat here and to stimulate commission house demand for Chicago future deliveries. Besides, reports were current that many wheat fields in southern Illinois and southern Indiana are showing extensive injury as a result of soil heaving and because of Hessian fly infestation. The combined strengthening effect of these market factors was manifest that contrary to what has been the rule most of the time of late, Government-sponsored agencies found it unnecessary to put forth any special efforts to support the price of Chicago May wheat contracts.

On the other hand, export purchases of North American wheat, 600,000 bushels today, were yet too small to be of much effect especially as practically all of the wheat taken for Europe was Canadian grown. A distinctly adverse influence, too, was announcement that Germany would raise wheat import duties to a prohibitive level. In addition, bullish sensations pointed to further rains in Kansas. Nevertheless, the market here, although reacting a good deal from the top prices reached, held more and more tenaciously as the day drew to an end.

Corn and oats advanced independently of wheat. Weather conditions unfavorable for corn movement were a feature and there was evidence of increasing belief that receipts are to diminish.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May, 1.05⅛@1.05⅝; July, 1.10¼; July, 1.03⅜@1.03¾; 1.06⅜@1.06⅞; September, 1.05⅝@1.06⅜. Corn—May, 81⅜@83⅛; July, 82⅝@84⅛@84⅜; September, 82¾@85⅛.

Cash grain:

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

TWO ARE MENTIONED FOR VIRGINIA BENCH

Circuit Judge Howard Smith Will Resign to Run for Congress.

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Following the announcement made by Circuit Judge Howard W. Smith, of the Sixteenth judicial circuit, that he will tender to Gov. John Garland Pollard his resignation within the next 30 days in order to devote his time to his candidacy for Congress, it was learned that Col. Charles T. Jesse and Judge Harry R. Thomas, both of Arlington County, are being mentioned to fill the vacancy.

Col. Jesse, who is the president of the Arlington County Bar Association, served four sessions in the General Assembly of Virginia, has been a member of the Virginia bar since 1909, having taken his LL. D. degree at the University of Virginia. Col Jesse, who has been a resident of Arlington County since 1909, has taken an active part in its development. He is a native of Caroline County. Prior to his coming to Arlington County he was a resident of New York and West Virginia.

Judge Harry R. Thomas, who has been judge of the police court and juvenile and domestic relations court for the past seven years, is a native of Arlington County. Judge Thomas, who is the vice president of the bar of the Sixteenth judicial circuit, has been a member of the Virginia bar since 1914.

With the endorsement of Chambers of Commerce throughout the State, together with the Monarch and Rotary Clubs, of Arlington County, of the resolution adopted by a committee from Arlington County and Alexandria asking Governor John Garland Pollard to request Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd to land first on Virginia soil, on his return to the United States from the South Pole, the movement is rapidly becoming Statewide.

From reports received yesterday from the office of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, communications of endorsement have been received from the Fairfax County and Suffolk chambers of commerce.

Reports from Richmond are that the Norfolk-Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the movement and have asked Gov. Pollard to support the movement.

Copies of the resolution are now in the hands of the civic organizations in the county and it is expected that favorable action will be taken by them within a few days.

Plans are being perfected by the Arlington County Health Department, it was learned yesterday, to conduct special clinics beginning next Monday afternoon on the correction of speech. The clinics, Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer announced, will be conducted by Mrs. N. R. Davies, county nurse, who recently has completed a special course of training on the conducting of speech clinics.

The clinics will be held each Monday at the Clarendon Health Center from 1 to 1:30 p. m.

The board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce will hold its monthly meeting Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the board rooms in the Rees Building at Clarendon.

The proceeds will go to the building fund now being raised for the erection in Arlington County of a Knights of Columbus Hall.

A two-act comedy entitled, "Listen, Ladies," will be presented at the Clarendon Presbyterian Church by the members of Circle B Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Among those taking part will be: Mrs. E. Ranchenstein, Mrs. John C. Eyre, Mrs. Merwyn N. McKnight, Mrs. D. C. Lamberson, Mrs. Charles W. Harris, Mrs. Charles Mann, Mrs. A. I. Richmond, Mrs. H. S. Smith, Miss Ruth Ahalt and Miss Mary Mann.

The Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association holds its monthly meeting tonight with the Clarendon Fire Department. The meeting will be held in the new firehouse at 8 o'clock with Walter U. Varney presiding.

Following the business meeting the firemen will be entertained at a buffet supper by the ladies auixiliary to the local department.

With the plans and specifications for the new building to house the Clarendon postoffice completed, it is learned that actual construction of the building will be under way within the next few days.

The building will be located at the intersection of Wilson Boulevard and Wheeler avenue. In addition to providing for the present postoffice, it the size of the present postoffice it will include two storerooms fronting on the boulevard, with offices on the second floor.

The estimated cost of the structure is $80,000.

The plans and specifications have been prepared by A. F. Thelander, architect of Arlington County.

Ballston School—Vernon Hizson, Romaine Johnson, Doland Moser, Henry Mazey, Sophie Dubb, Frederick L. Dorsythe, Dorothy Craig, Louise Odor, Alice Gooding, Mary Compher, William Allison Eleanor Smith, Jane Laing, Helen German, Charles Smallwood, Virginia Reamy, Odeth Compher, Margaret McIntyre, Lois Goode, Charles Orndorff, Warren Smith, Louis Douglass, Dorothy German, Evelyn Morris, Audrey Reamy, Howard Choate, Carroll Hall, Lloyd Darr, Louise Morgan Vivian Stegmair, John Hollingsworth, Marguerite Barr, Milton Stewart, Helen Haines, Elizabeth Via, Arbella Charles, Paul Weeder, Edwin Matthews, John Foster, George Hall, Pauline Whitehouse, Louis Orndorff, Mildred Crump, Eileen Power and William Stuart.

The County Health Department gives out the following report of the inspection made by the teachers during the past year of a total of 3,875 children, of which 3,428 are white and 447 colored.

The report follows: Children showing defects—White, 2,489, colored, 396; underweight, white, 477; colored, 67; defective teeth, white, 2,170; colored, 299; defective eyesight, white, 331; colored, 5; defective hearing, white, 55; colored, 5; defective throats, white, 603; colored, 189; unvaccinated, white, 13; colored, 2.

The total enrollment, according to the report, is 4,054, of which 3,503 are white and 551 colored.

Indorsement of the report of the United States Bureau of Education filed with the Arlington County School Board, carrying with it recommendations for a bond issue of $580,000 for the enlargement of the Washington-Lee High School and a number of elementary schools, was given in a resolution adopted by the Arlington District Council of Citizens Associations at its meeting held in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce last night.

The resolution further carries with it the recommendation that the provisions of the report as a whole be carried out without undue delay.

The secretary is instructed to advise all constituent associations requesting that they consider the report without delay looking to the approval of the school enlargement program.

The council went on record as approving the resolution, which has gone forth to Gov. Pollard, asking that he request Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd to land first in Virginia on his return to the United States from the South Pole.

Indorsement was given to the letter from the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce regarding the movement looking to the establishment of a central postoffice building in Arlington County, as suggested in a recent letter from Representative R. Walton Moore to the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

WHEN a man comes home from work—well, that ought to be his time for rest and relaxation; but Luella doesn't always figure that way.

Tired, worn out, a hard day in the office, I dragged myself up the terrace only to be met by Luella brandishing a paint brush.

"You're just in time," she cried, somewhat exultantly, "we're going to paint the kitchen!"

"We're going to paint the kitchen?" She smiled.

"You're going to paint the kitchen," she conceded.

"All right, as soon as I can get around to it. Where'd you get that paint brush?"

"Bought it."

"Oh, you bought a paint brush, when I've got a cellar full of 'em——"

"You haven't got one as pretty as this," she told me. "Yours are all mussed up. And I do want the kitchen to have a clean coat of paint."

"Why didn't you send for a painter?" I asked.

SHE caught me up: "Why should I send for a painter when I've got you——?"

By Jove, it's terrible. No wonder there's a wave of unemployment going on over the country. If all the women are like Luella, having their husbands do all the work, how can the poor, honest workingmen exist? That was the question, in so many words, I asked the Lady of the House.

"You've got it all wrong," she answered. "If all women were like me, and kept the men folk busy, there'd be no unemployment."

No answer to that, I drifted on upstairs and put on the badge of servitude, the old wuxedo. At least that's what Luella calls it, the wuxedo. It used to be a tuxedo, but the moths got in it—so she makes me use it now instead of overalls. Imagine a man working around the house in a discarded tuxedo. What I ought to do, painting the kitchen, is put on a full dress suit.

"Are you ready?" she called to me from downstairs.

"Coming, love," I cried, adjusting the bat-wing tie as I came down the stairs. Some night, absent-mindedly, I'm going out to a dance instead of going to work for Luella.

"Here's the paint," she said. "Be careful not to get any on the floor."

* * * *

"WHAT color do you want the kitchen?"

"Robin's egg blue," she said.

"Then why did you buy all these different colors?" I asked, surveying the vivid assortment.

"So you could mix 'em," she said. "It's so much more fun."

Fun! Painting.

"Say," I asked, "when do I get my dinner? I'm starved!"

Luella made a mark over the kitchen table. "See this line? she said, calling my attention to the handwriting on the wall. "Well, when you paint to here you eat!"

POLLARD TO ATTEND BLOSSOM FESTIVAL

GALA PLANS ARE MADE

Richmond, Va., March 17 (A.P.).—Gov. John Garland Pollard will be an interested spectator at the apple blossom festival in Winchester this year.

The governor has announced that he will go, and is expected to be accompanied by the Richmond Blues Battalion as his official escort. If the Governors of West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania attend, official escorts will be provided them also.

The event will allow a meeting of Gov. Pollard and his predecessor, Gov. Harry F. Byrd, whose apple orchards are among the finest in the valley. The former chief executive is aiding plans for the festival, and will be one of the celebration's principal figures of interest.

Schools are planning to take part with bands and parades, assurances of participation having already been received from several. Massanutten Military Academy, of Woodstock, is sending its cadet corps and band; the band of Staunton Military Academy will attend; the corps and band of Augusta Military Academy, Fort Defiance; the student body of State Teachers College, Harrisonburg; the band of Fishburne Military School, Waynesboro, and the band of Greenbrier Military School, Lewisburg, W. Va.

Numerous floats are under construction, a dozen more to be entered by Shenandoah Valley, Inc., an organization supported by fifteen counties in Virginia and West Virginia.

Diplomats Are Feted At Naval Academy

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 17.—The Chilean Ambassador to the United States, Don Carlos G. Davila, paid an official visit to the Naval Academy and was received with full honors due his station, including a nineteen-gun salute. Accompanied by Senor Conradi Rios Gallarda, Ambassador-designate from Chile to Perue, and attaches at the Chilean Legation in Washington, the Chilean envoy arrived at the naval reservation at 3 o'clock and was received by Rear Admiral Samuel Robison, superintendent, and his staff officers.

The visitors were taken on a tour of inspection of the naval reservation after which they were entertained informally at tea at the home of the Robisons and returned to Washington later.

Virginian Dies Instantly When Auto Turns Over

Danville, Va., March 17.—Floyd Myers, son of J. D. Myers, of Halifax County, was instantly killed last night near here when applying brakes to his car.

The machine turned over and crushed him.

BYRD WILL BE ASKED TO SEEK HOUSE SEAT

Rockingham County Group Names Committee to Wait on Him.

NOMINATION IS ASSURED

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., March 17.—A movement was started here today by the Rockingham County Democratic committee to obtain former Gov Harry A. Byrd's consent to take the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Seventh Congressional District, now represented by J. A. Garber, Republican, of Harrisonburg.

The county committee, at a meeting this afternoon, named a committee to wait upon former Gov. Byrd and ask him if he will accept the nomination for Congress if it is tendered him. This committee is composed of former State Senator George B. Keezell, J. R. Brennemann and Ralph H. Bader, members of House of Delegates; Herbert Wyant and J. Robert Switzer They will communicate with the former governor within a few days.

The committee did not indorse the former governor, but it is well known that if he will consent to take the nomination it will get squarely behind him. Members of the committee, discussing the nomination, declared Mr. Byrd could win in the general election in a walk.

It was also declared Mr Byrd will have a clear field for the nomination if he will take it. John T. Harris, of Harrisonburg, who is being urged to get into the race, told his friends several days ago that he will never consent for his name to be used for the nomination if there is a possibility of getting Mr. Byrd to take it.

It was also stated that Judge John W. Fishburne, of Albemarle, who has announced for the nomination, will withdraw in favor of Mr. Byrd if the latter will consent to take the nomination.

West Virginia College Buys Commerce School

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 17.—T. B. Cain, president of the West Virginia Business College, which operates branches in various cities in this State, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Tennessee, today announced its purchase of Appalachian School of Law and Commerce at Johnson City, Tenn. Students and equipment will be added to the Johnson City Business College, which became a part of the Cain System of Business Colleges January 1.

Virginia Thieves Carry Safe Away

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., March 17.—One of the boldest robberies in the history of Harrisonburg was committed early this morning, when thieves broke into Friddle's Restaurant, owned by Capt. E. L. Klingstein, commander of the American Legion Post here, and carried off the safe containing $2,000 in cash and checks. Capt. and Mrs. Klingstein returned from a South American tour yesterday afternoon, about twelve hours before the burglary.

No clew to the thieves, according to the police, was left behind. The only clew of any kind is from a tenant of a small building in the rear of the restaurant, who said he heard a truck drive into the rear yard of the restaurant early this morning, and it sounded like an old Ford engine.

The safe, a small one, was located in the front of the restaurant, the front of which is all glass. A light is maintained in the restaurant all night. The safe was pushed through the long main hall through swinging doors into the kitchen and then carried through another room to the yard, where it was loaded on a truck.

Father Flies to Girl's Side to Find Her Dead

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 17.—Death won out by three minutes in a race through the sky made by George A. Long, Steubenville, Ohio, contractor, when he landed here in a plane late yesterday from that city and reached the hospital bedside of his 8-year-old daughter, Mary Alice Long, who died of a fractured skull received a few hours before when struck by an automobile.

The child, whose mother, a bedridden invalid, lives here, darted into the street between automobiles parked in front of a church where she had just attended Sunday School. Officers today exonerated the driver.

C. T. LASSITER DEAD; LAWYER IN VIRGINIA

SERVED IN TWO WARS

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 17.—Charles T. Lassiter, one of Petersburg's leading lawyers who was recently elected judge of the Corporation Court of this city by the State Legislature to succeed Judge J. M. Mullen, died in a Richmond hospital this morning after a protracted illness. He was a native of Petersburg and a son of the late Dr. D. W. Lassiter, who for a number of years was one of Petersburg's leading physicians, and Mrs. Anna Rives Heath Lassiter.

He was born January 30, 1870. He received his early education at McCabes University School, this city, and in 1888 was sent abroad by his father to study languages and to attend lectures in Roman law. On returning home in 1890, Mr. Lassiter entered the University of Virginia and was graduated in 1892 with the degree of B. L.

He was admitted to the bar of Petersburg in July, 1892. In 1896 he was elected Commonwealth's Attorney of Petersburg and served eight years in that capacity. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, Mr. Lassiter was second lieutenant of the A. P. Hill Rifles of Petersburg, which was afterward known as Company K, of the Fourth Virginia Regiment of Infantry. He resigned his office as Commonwealth's Attorney and went with his company, serving in the corps of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee.

After the war Mr. Lassiter resigned his military commission and returned to Petersburg and was reappointed Commonwealth's Attorney. He served in that office until the end of his term but did not offer for reelection.

He was known throughout the State and the State Legislature as the father of good roads.

During the World War Mr. Lassiter served with the Y. M. C. A. in France. Mr. Lassiter was a brother of the late Representative Francis Rives Lassiter and of Maj. Gen. William Lassiter. The deceased married Miss Sally Hamilton, of this city, who survives him with two daughters, Mrs. Lewis Morgan, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Alfred Nalle, of Boston, and one brother, Maj. Gen. William Lassiter. Mr. Lassiter was a charter member and a past president of the Petersburg Lions Club.

Babb, charged with driving while drunk and possession and transportation of ardent spirits was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 90 days in jail.

The grand jury returned four indictments against Everett Lacey and Harvey Lacey, charging house breaking in each indictment. On motion of Commonwealth Attorney Farr all the indictments were consolidated. The indictments charged that the two men broke and entered in the night the henhouses of Chester Taylor and stole chickens valued at $20 and that in the henhouse of Edmund Davidson they stole chickens valued at $43.50 and 56 dozen eggs worth $20. In the henhouse of R. E. Talbert they are charged with stealing chickens valued at $15 and in the henhouse of Chester Taylor on another occasion $30 worth of chickens. They plead guilty to the charges and Everett Lacey was sentenced to two years and Harvey Lacey to one year in the State Penitentiary.

Other indictments returned by the grand jury were: Herbert Keys, for sale and possession of ardent spirits; Harry Kreuse second offense of violating the State prohibition law; Spencer Mulligan, driving while drunk; Stanley A. Jadlowie, driving while drunk; Charles W. Chinn, driving while drunk; James Dewey Washington, driving while drunk; two against John Woodlawn, one for sale and the other for transportation and possession of liquor, both charges the second offense against the State prohibition law; B. F. McKinney, driving while drunk; Gardner Arnold, possession of still; Charles B. Ennis and Ernest Hitaffer, possession of still; Boston Williams, murder in first degree of Howard Sims and George Smith, Isaiah Morgan, Harry Jackson and Roy Green for burglary of Morris & Usilton's store; Smith and Morgan still in the custody of Fauquier County authorities on another charge; Jackson and Green will be tried separately, under the indictment.

The Groveton Community Club will meet in the schoolhouse tonight when it is expected that the members of the club will discuss the idea expressed by members of the county school board last Thursday. They felt that the new community hall which the club proposes to build on the lot adjacent to the school might be erected as part of the school building and that it was possible that the school board could bear part of the expense.

The last of the mission study classes and the midweek services at Langley will be held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Belle Matheny. Mr. Shumate, of Quantico will conduct the class and service.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce weekly radio broadcast that will be given this afternoon from 5 until 6 o'clock over station WJSV at Mount Vernon Hills, Va., will be in charge of the Fairfax County Fireman's Association. L. L. Freeman, delegate from Fairfax County and chairman of the committee of the Chamber of Commerce on fire protection and president of the Vienna Fire Department, will make an address as will representatives from each of the other volunteer companies in the county. Piano selections by Carl Allensworth, blind musician of Vienna, vocal selections by Mrs. J. Lovell Jeffries, of Vienna, selections by the Lewinsville Presbyterian Church choir and instrumental music by an orchestra of the Falls Church Band, are included in the program as are vocal selections by Miss Kathryn Schofield of Falls Church. Other features will be announced during the program. R. E. Kendrick, of Falls Church, secretary of the county association, will be the announcer.

The compositions of Victor Herbert will be the feature of the Music Study Club at Falls Church which meets tonight at the home of Mrs. Irene Moncure. The hostess will be Mrs. Harry Keyser.

The meeting of the educational committee of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce will be held tonight instead of tomorrow night, according to C. C. Carr, chairman of the committee. The meeting will be held in the office of the chamber at Fairfax. The meeting will be held tonight so as not to conflict with the oratorical contest tomorrow night in the Oakton High School, as several members of the committee will participate as judges or patrons. Herbert Williams, school trustee from Providence district, has recently been made a member of this committee and tonight he plans to outline to the committee the conditions existing in Mount Vernon district as were found last week by the school board when it made its tour of inspection. The need for similar surveys in the other districts will be shown to the committee as well as a general study by them of the report of the State committee on consolidation of schools in this county. He will urge that the educational committee work with the school board in arousing public sentiment in the county so that necessary improvements may be made in the near future.

Work Begins on Terminus Of New Memorial Highway

Steam shovels will begin grading operations in the Mount Vernon approach area today for the terminus of the new memorial highway to be constructed from Arlington Memorial Bridge. Trees in the area which are to remain have been tagged; those which are to be stored in nursery rows for future replanting along the right-of-way are being removed to Hell Hole, a swampy stretch of land southwest of the mansion house and so named by Washington. Others are being cut down to make way for the steam shoved.

The privet hedge is also being removed and stored for future planting. Desirable top soil is being stripped and placed in convenient storage piles ready for replacement on the subgrade after grading operations have been performed.

Lee Highway, as it approaches Mount Vernon, has been designed to fit around the larger and more valuable trees, which will be protected by planking or boarded wells so that the bark will not be injured in construction operations.

All ties, trolley poles and wires of the electric line that formerly were in this area have been removed between Wellington and Mount Vernon.

Grading operations are occurring on that part of Washington's estate that he willed to his nephew, Judge Bushrod Washington, son of the his brother, Augustine, and consisting of the mansion house and 4,000 acres of land.

Board Will Decide Upon School Bids

Baltimore Firm Wants to Withdraw Offer in Prince Georges.

The Prince Georges County Board of Education today will meet in special session to consider the bids which were opened Friday night on the construction of five county school projects. The board also will consider a request made by the Thomas Hicks Sons, Baltimore contractors, that its bid on the construction of the Mount Rainier High School be withdrawn.

The contracting firm yesterday notified the board of education office at Upper Marlboro that an error had been made in the preparation of the bid and that this error amounts to approximately $10,000. The firm claims that it will lose money if forced to carry through the bid. A. L. Warthen submitted the next lowest bid on the contract and his bid was $81,500 or about $7,000 more than the bid offered by the Hicks Sons firm.

This firm also was low bidder on the Riverdale School addition, bidding $37,290 which was $10 less than the bid of Mr. Warthen.

Martinsburg Flier Escapes in Crash

Aviator Unhurt When Ship Is Wrecked at Estate of Gen. Mitchell.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 17.—Richard D. Feller, business man here, returned today from a near disastrous airplane landing in his own plane on the field at the home of Brig. Gen. William S. Mitchell, formerly of the U. S. Army Air Service, at Middleburg, Va., Sunday afternoon. Mr. Feller was not injured but his plane was damaged, the wing tips being crumpled, the tires blown and the propeller blades snapped.

The plane was crippled when, in landing, Mr. Feller did not observe a hill in what seemed from the air to be a level field. The plane buried its nose in the side of the hill.

Gen. and Mrs. Mitchell came to his aid, having seen the landing, but he was not hurt. They sent him to his home here by motor. The plane will be brought here by truck for repairs.

Slayer of Policeman Is Sentenced to Chair

Alfred Scott Aldridge, colored, convicted slayer of Policeman Harry J. McDonald, was sentenced yesterday in District Supreme Court by Justice Peyton Gordon to die in the electric chair on June 19. Attorney James Reilly noted an appeal.

Justice Gordon on Saturday overruled a motion for a new trial and an arrest of judgment filed on behalf of the Negro by the attorney.

Cumberland Plans Indoor Trade Show

Parade, Popularity Contest to Augment Exhibits of Merchants.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 17.—Plans have been announced for the annual indoor fair and trade show of Fort Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, at the State Armory, April 19 to 26. Russell S. Copeland is general chairman of the committees in charge. Post Commander Nolan E. McCarty said the trade show will give the local manufacturers an opportunity to display their products made in Cumberland, and enable local merchants to show their merchandise in a unique manner. There will be vaudeville programs and nightly dancing.

Tuesday, April 22, will be American Legion Day. A big military parade will be held in the afternoon. Uniformed drum corps from Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Delaware will compete, and drills and handsome cash prizes and cups will be offered.

Twenty young women have entered the popularity contest. The winner will be given a trip to the National Legion convention next October in Boston. The advisory committee of the contest comprises Miss Lillian C. Compton, chairman; Miss Elizabeth Lloyd Lowndes, Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein and Mrs. James Walter Thomas. The Legion committee includes Howard Loughric, George Henderson and Elmer J. Carter.

President Plans Weekend in Camp

Trout Season Will Not Open in Virginia Until April 1.

(Associated Press.)

Even though the trout season will not be open, President Hoover has decided to make his first visit of the year to the Rapidan fishing camp in the Virginia mountains this week-end.

Since he plans to leave ashington sometime Saturday, it is doubtful if he will have an opportunity to visit the little school in Dark Hollow which he was instrumental in having established.

The trout season will not open until Tuesday, April 1, under Virginia law. No indication was given that he would prolong his tsay in the mountains to cast a line on the opening day.

Staunton Legion Post Holds Annual Dinner

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., March 17.—More than 125 persons were present at the annual public dinner meeting tonight of Clemmer-McGuffin Post, No. 13, American Legion and Auxiliary, held in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium. Guests of honor were Mrs. George B. Cameron, jr., of Petersburg, State president of the American Legion Auxiliary, and Col. B. M. Roszel, of Winchester, State commander of the legion.

Post Commander Charles K. Brown was toastmaster, and among other brief talks of the program were those by George H. Powell, post adjutant, and Miss Elizabeth Murphy, president of the Women's Auxiliary. Mr. Powell and Miss Murphy reviewed the work in the local legion units.

Kellman, Baltimore, was reelected president of the Seaboard Zionist Region for 1930 at the concluding business session of the Region's eighth annual conference today. Isadore Hirshfield, of Washington, and H. L. Caplan and J. Silverstein, both of Baltimore, were elected vice presidents; J. Levin, of Baltimore, executive secretary; Simon Land, Baltimore, treasurer, and Jacob Heekman, Richmond, Va., State chairman.

Piedmont Dentists Open Convention at Danville

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 17.—A banquet and a business session marked the opening day of the fifteenth annual session of the Piedmont Dental Society today. Dr. J. E. John, of Roanoke, president of the Virginia Dental Association, made the address of the evening at the banquet. The session will continue tomorrow with the presentation of papers on professional subjects.

Dr. Robert Harper, of Danville, will be inducted as president of the society tomorrow and Lynchburg will be chosen as next year's meeting place.

Danville Tobacco Plant Purchase Is Confirmed

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 17.—J. F. Strickland, of Durham, N. C., manager of the leaf department of the American Tobacco Co., today confirmed the sale of the Danville plant and storage warehouse to the P. Lorillard Co., of New Jersey. He said he was not in a position to give the amount of money involved, although it is currently reported to be $125,000, nor would he outline the proposed distribution of the local personnel.

The Lorillard Co. is to use the plant as a tobacco stemmery on a year-round basis, it is said.

JUDGE SMITH PLANS TO QUIT IN 30 DAYS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Judge Howard W. Smith, of the Sixteenth Judicial Circuit of Virginia, candidate, subject to the Democratic primary in August, for Congress to succeed Representative R. Walton Moore, of the Eighth District, announced yesterday that he will resign his seat on the circuit bench within the next 30 days in order to devote his entire time to his candidacy.

Judge Smith was appointed to the circuit bench in 1927 to succeed the late Judge Samuel G. Brent, and previous to that appointment had been judge of the Alexandria Corporation Court since 1922, having been appointed to that position when Judge Brent was elevated to the circuit bench. He had also served for six years as Commonwealth attorney of Alexandria and has been practicing law in this city for more than 25 years.

His campaign for Congress was opened formally here two weeks ago when a meeting of his supporters was held and formed into a "Smith for Congress" club, with Gardner L. Boothe as chairman and Gilbert J. Cox, jr., as secretary. In his announcement yesterday he said:

"It is my purpose within the next 30 days to tender to the governor my resignation as judge of the Sixteenth Judicial Circuit in order that I may devote the whole of my time to the conduct of my candidacy for Congress. I am making this public statement at this time in order that all members of the bar of my circuit may have notice at the same time and an equal opportunity to express their preference as to my successor."

The announcement by Judge Smith is taken to mean that his campaign will be vigorously handled from now on. It is understood he will be opposed in the primary by State Senator Frank L. Ball and Attorney Crandall Mackey, both of Arlington County. The Sixteenth Judicial Circuit comprises the counties of Arlington, Fairfax and Prince William and Alexandria City.

The city road force is now engaged in making temporary repairs to Braddock road and Mount Vernon
